

Office. Seckers

Would say I had received thousands of letters before leaving Springfield applying for office.

You complain of the bad grammar of President Lincoln's message.
 We have to look at other things just now, than grammar. For aught I know, the last resolution of the So. Carolina Convention may have been worded in sufficiently good grammar, but it is an attempt, unique in its disgraceful-ness, to whitewash an act of the darkest infamy. Let us leave grammar alone in these days of shame, and rather ask whether people act according to the first-& simplest rules of morals & of honor.
