FOREWORD

We, the staff of the 1925 Kaldron, have faithfully tried to picture and record for you a complete resume' of the happenings of the past year, realizing always the futility of our task, which is, to encompass in a book of comparatively few pages the many and divers activities on the "Hill." However, if in the years to come, our work in its suggestive compactness is able to augment your memory and to bring back to you the years of your college life in its entirety, we will feel fully repaid for our work.

AFFECTIONATELY DEDICATED TO THE MEMORY OF

DR. FRED WHITLO HIXSON

President of Allegheny College from 1920 to 1924

Born Nov. 24, 1874 — Died Nov. 23, 1924

IN REMEMBRANCE OF

HAROLD E. KIRKPATRICK

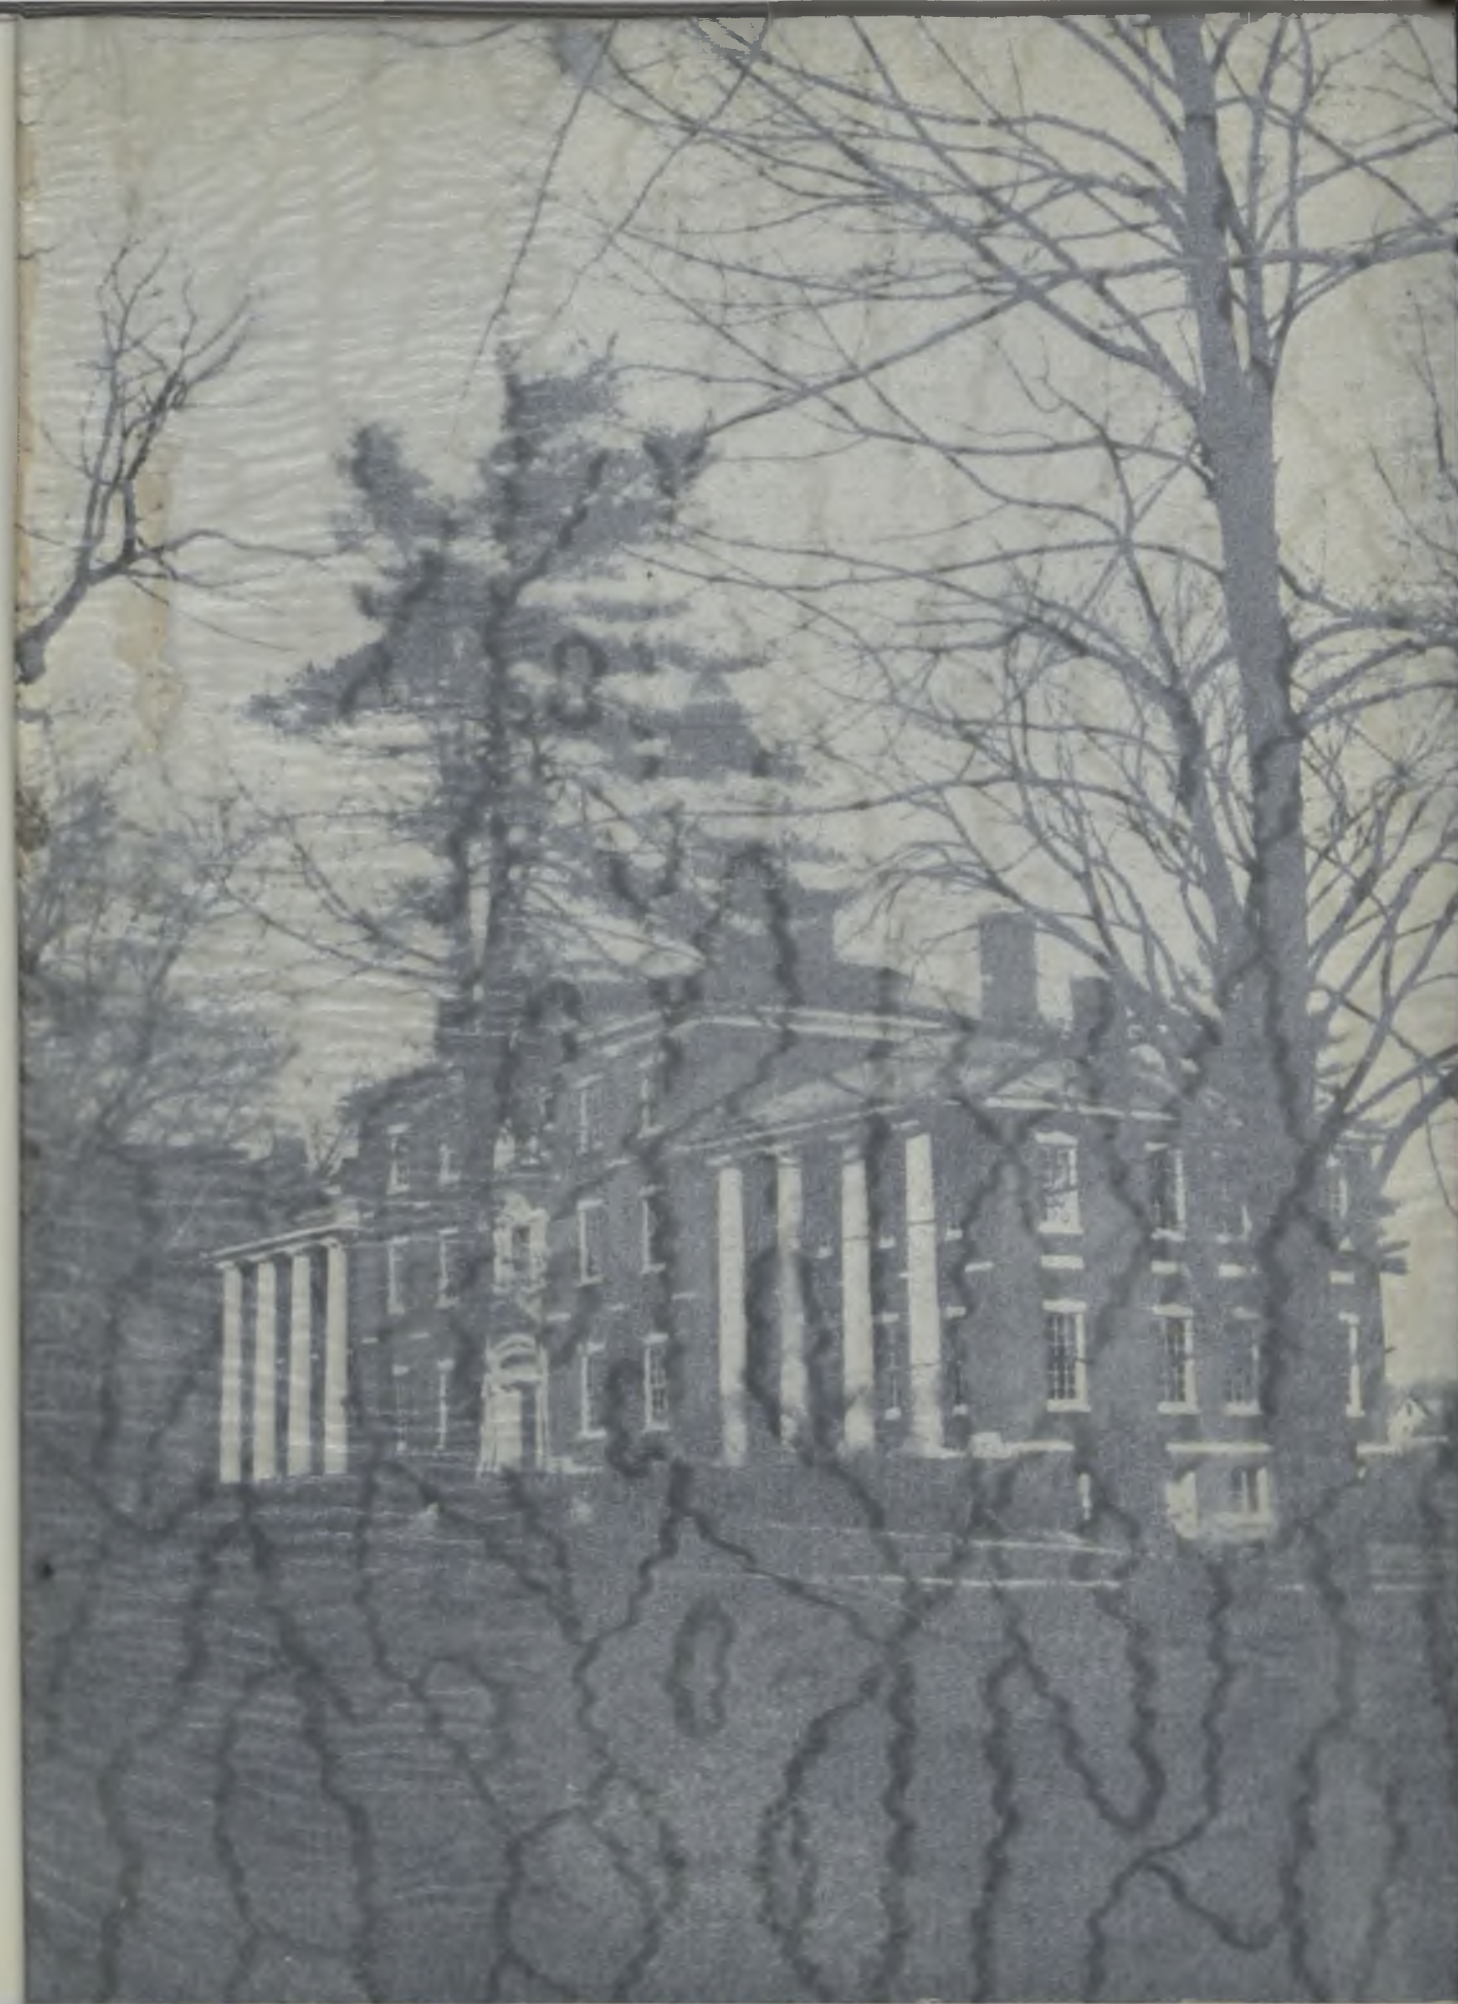

Member of the class of 1924

Born Aug. 24, 1899 — Died July 6, 1924

FRANCIS W. MYFORD

Member of the class of 1926

Born June 27, 1904 — Died Aug. 15, 1924

In December, 1753 George Washington, then a youth of twenty-one, on the historic mission from Governor Dinwiddie of Virginia to the French commandant at Fort Le Boeuf, followed the eastern bank of French Creek and camped over night opposite the mouth of the Cussewago, near the foot of this campus.

Accompanied by his trusty guide, Christopher Gist, and interpreter, Indian traders, frontiersmen, three friendly Indian chiefs, and a convoy of four French soldiers from the Fort at Venango, making a party of sixteen, Washington travelled in five days from the mouth of French Creek to Fort Le Boeuf, now Waterford, twenty-four miles north of this place.

(Saturday, Dec. 8th, we set out and travelled twenty-five miles to Cussewago, an old Indian town."—Diary of Christopher Gist.)

His horses having become disabled, the return trip down French Creek was made in canoes obtained at Le Boeuf, and owing to the ice in the stream, six days were consumed in reaching Venango, the present site of Franklin.

The rare courage, judgment and fortitude shown on this delicate and hazardous mission and his remarkable journal, reciting his experiences and giving information of vital import as to the French plans for the occupation of this territory, which was widely published in both England and America, made Washington an outstanding figure in the colonies.

It marked the beginning of the French and Indian War, and the chain of events which resulted in American independence.

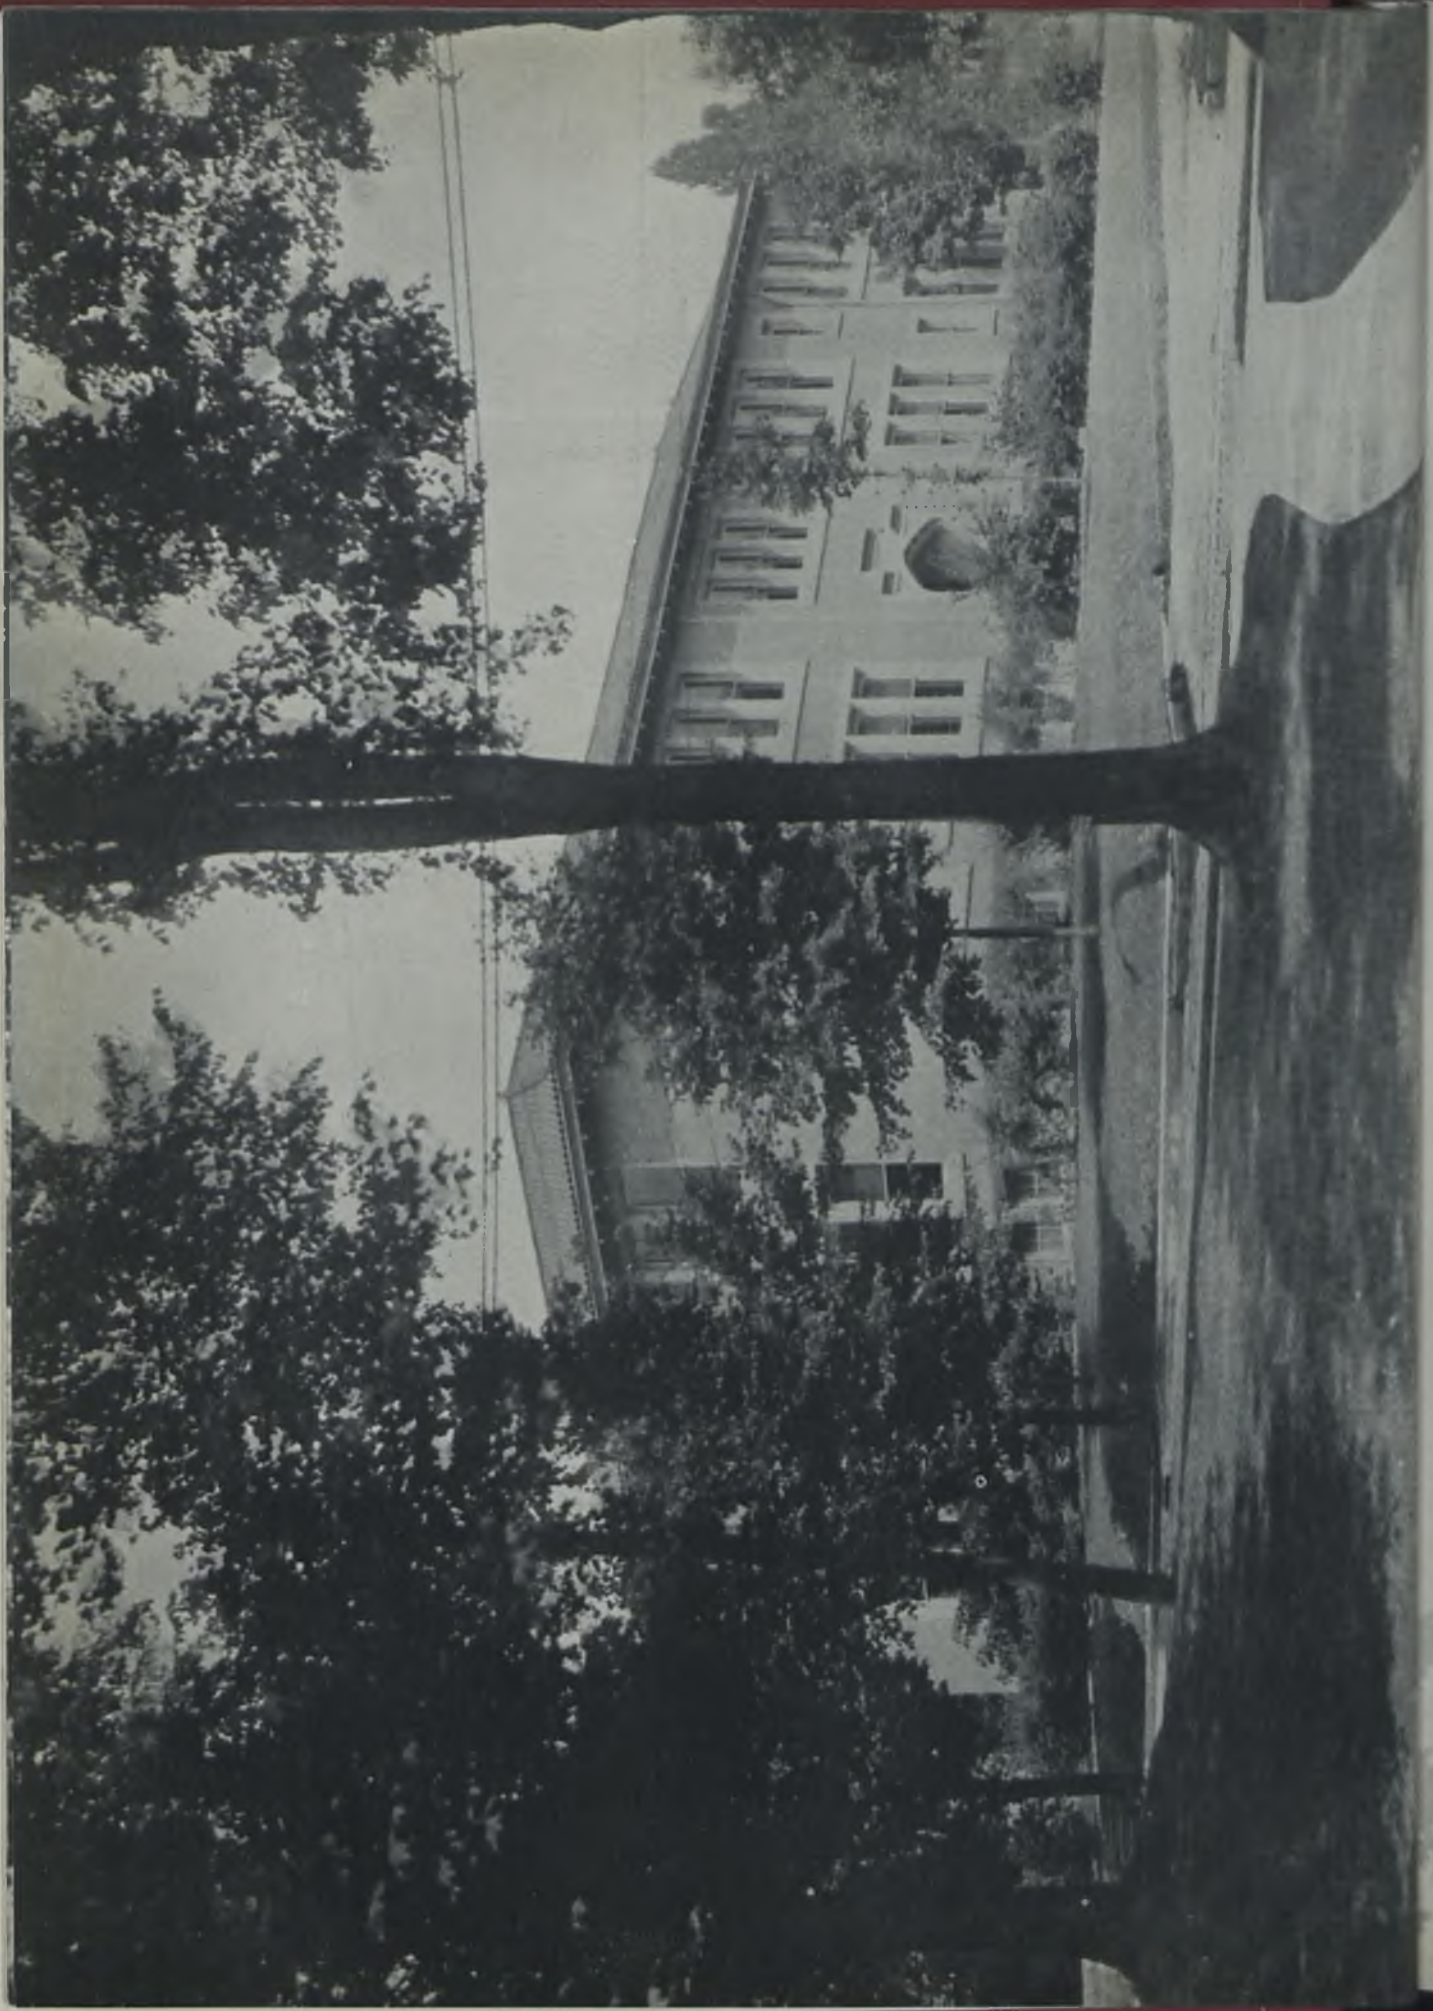

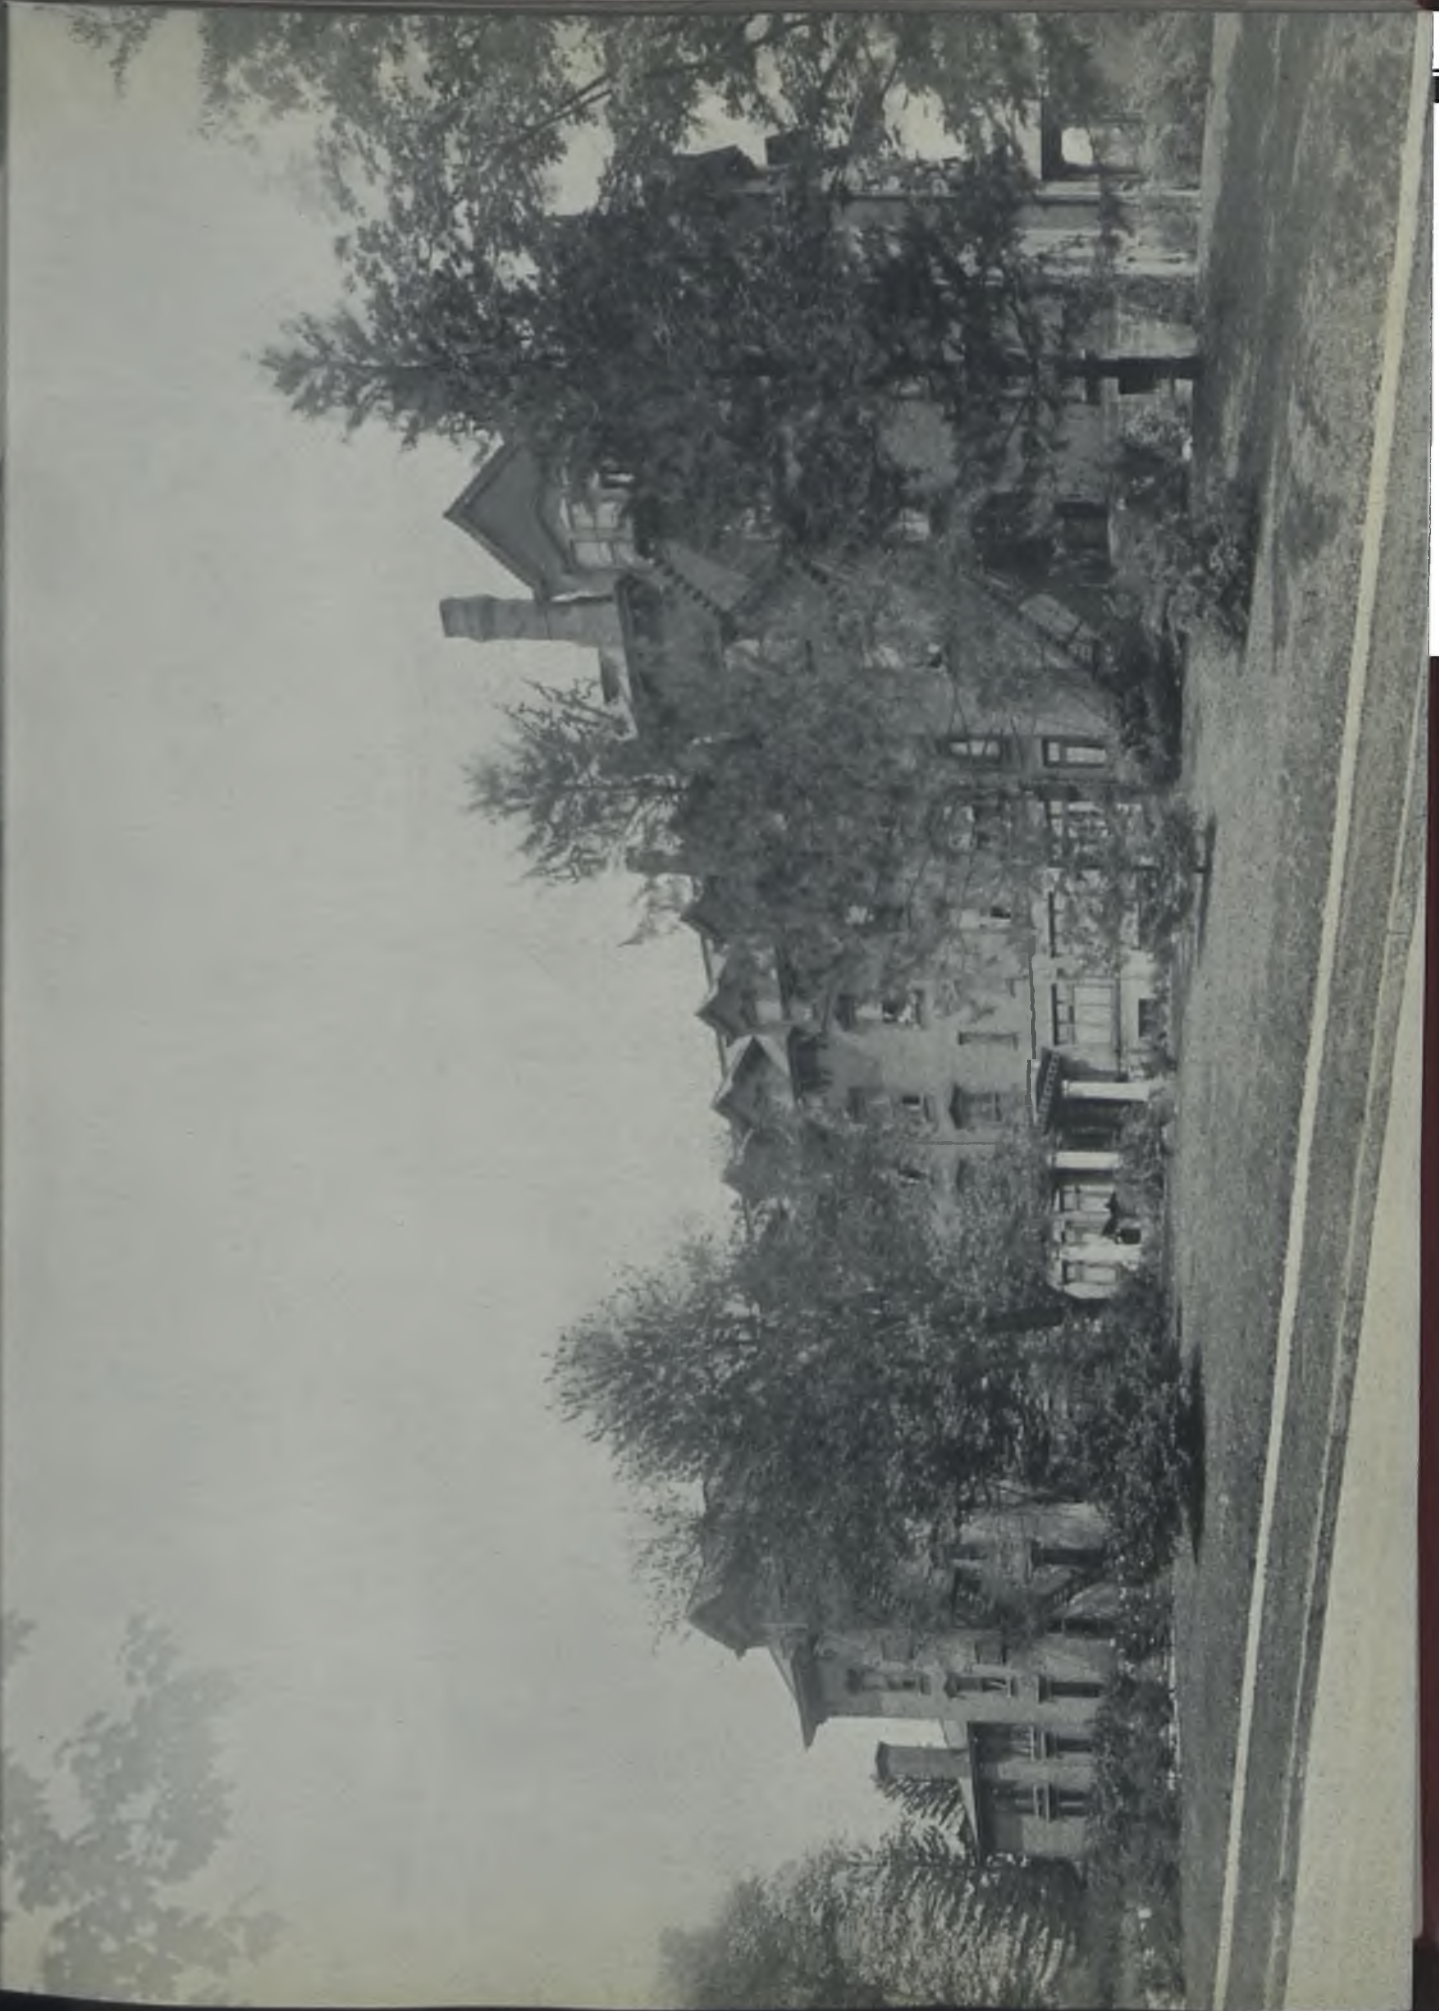

This youth gave up the comforts of his Virginia home, braved the perils of a six hundred mile journey through an unknown wilderness frequented by hostile Indians, forded swollen streams and endured the storms of winter in the service of his king and country.

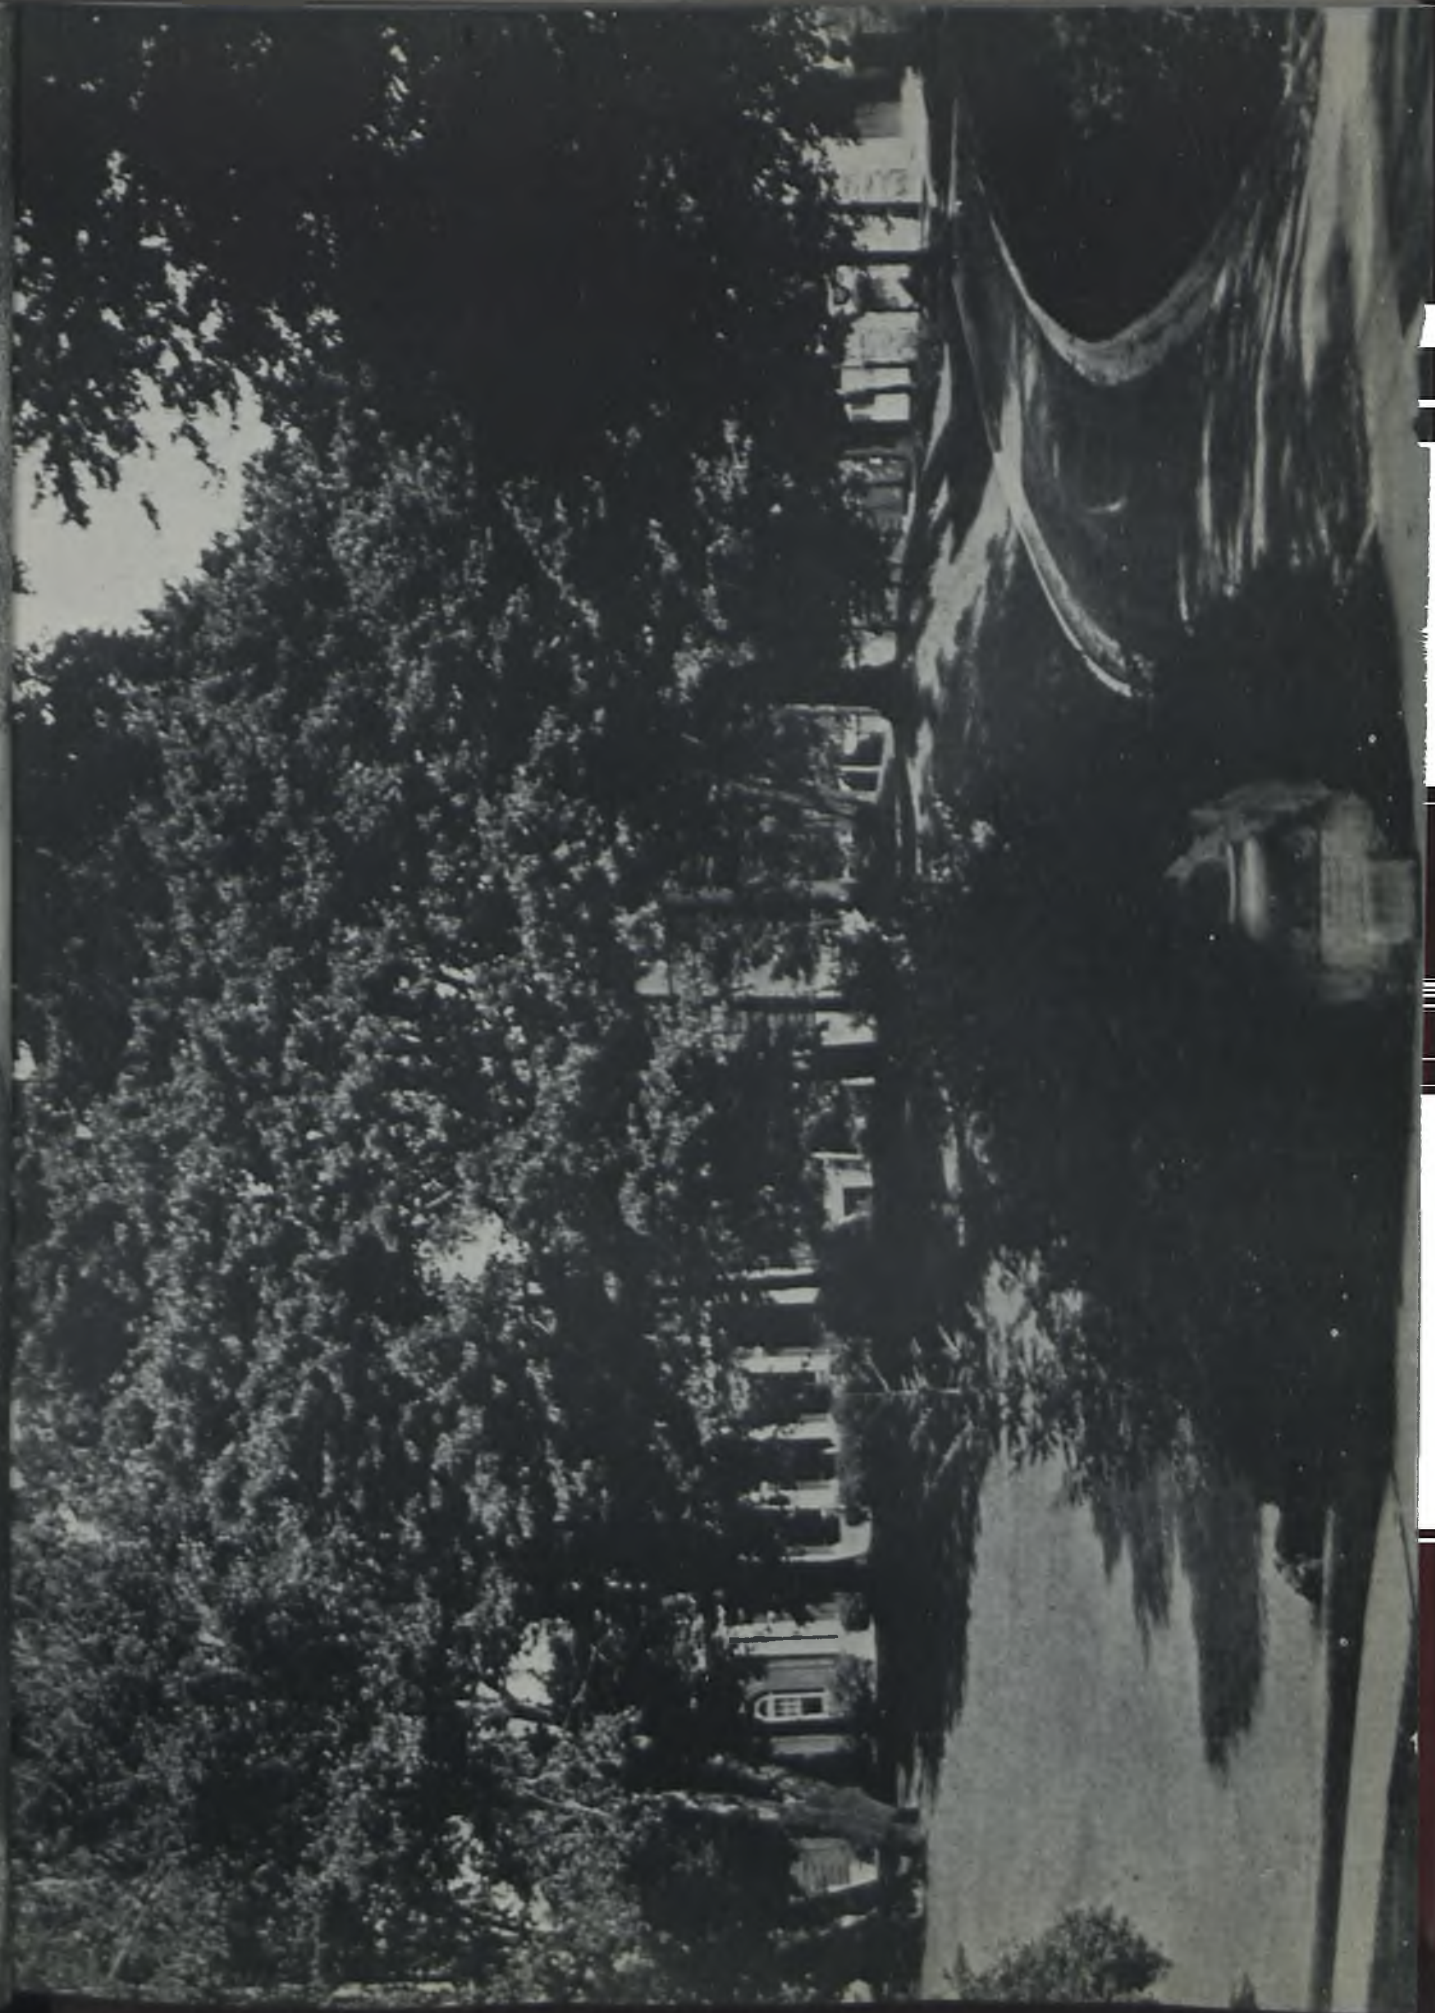

On June 2nd, 1825, the Marquis De Lafayette while touring the west as the guest of the nation and accompanied by his son, George Washington Lafayette, and other members of his suite, arrived in Meadville, enroute from Pittsburgh to Erie. A public reception in his honor was held at the old tavern which stood at the corner of Chestnut and Water Streets.

The great French patriot visited Allegheny College, inspected its campus and graciously inscribed his name in the college guest book. And from the steps in front of Bentley Hall had pointed out to him and his party, the route through this valley travelled by his friend and compatriot, Washington, on his first great adventure, the memorable expedition to Fort Le Boeuf.

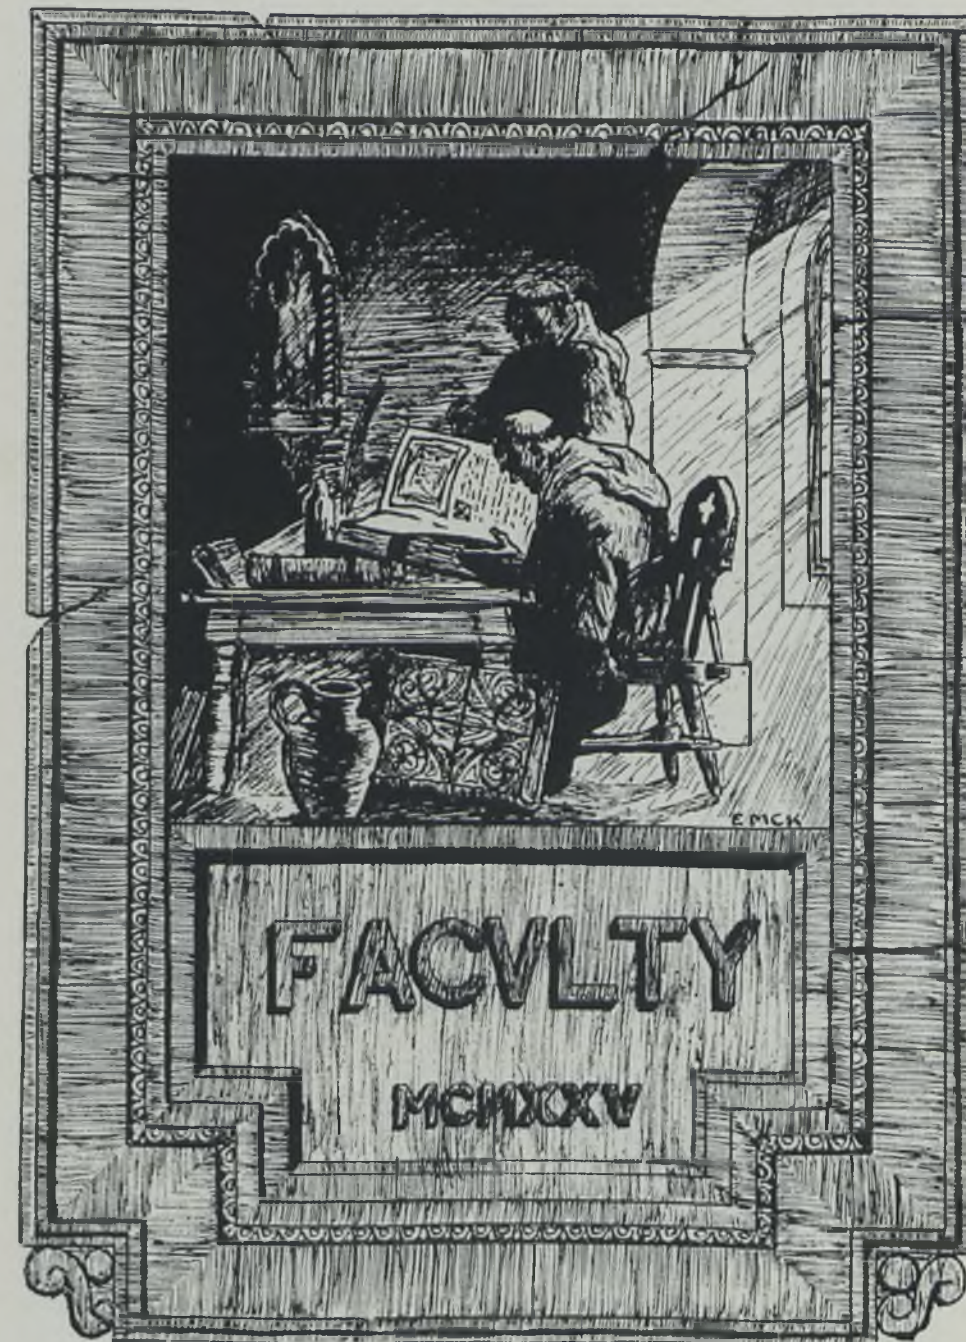

Enter the faculty,
Wise and sedate;
They hand us our marks,
And determine our fate.

BIOGRAPHY OF DR. HIXSON

Indiana has given to the nation a long list of distinguished sons, but none of finer grain or nobler spirit than Fred Whitlo Hixson.

Fred W. Hixson was born November 24, 1874, at Dover Hill, in southern Indiana. When eight years old, he began attending a country school not far from his home; later he attended the preparatory school of De Pauw University.

At the age of twenty he entered the freshman class of De Pauw University. He was prevented from graduating with the Class of 1898, with which he entered, because he chose to teach school between his sophomore and junior years. He was very active in college affairs. He was a member of the Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity, secretary of the athletic association, a captain in the military training corps, a debater and an orator, and editor-in-chief of the college annual, the Mirage. During his last two years he was also pastor of an important country church. Despite his many extra-curricular activities, his scholarship was such that he was elected to Phi Beta Kappa and was graduated in June, 1899, at the head of his class.

From 1899 to 1914 he held leading pastorates in the Northwest Indiana Conference, the most important being that of Crawfordsville. His pastorates were marked by steady, persistent work. An observant and earnest student, he grew in power and effectiveness as a preacher. A lover of the people and possessor of a peculiar gift for friendship, he showed himself a sympathetic and helpful pastor. In recognition of all these qualities his Alma Mater conferred upon him in 1913 the degree of doctor of divinity.

In 1914 Dr. Hixson was called to the presidency of the University of Chattanooga. His administration at Chattanooga was marked by a cordial relationship between the university and the city; the addition of five new buildings, among them a stately chapel; a substantial increase in endowment; and a raising of the scholastic standards of the university. Dickinson College took note of his success by conferring upon him in 1918 the degree of doctor of laws.

President Hixson's record at Chattanooga led to his election to the presidency of Allegheny College when in 1920 the trustees were seeking a successor to Dr. William H. Crawford. Dr. Hixson took up his duties on July 1, 1920, and was inaugurated eleventh president of Allegheny on November 11. In his inaugural address he stressed the imperative present need of a liberal Christian education—an ideal to which he gave unfailing allegiance during his administration.

President Hixson's service to Allegheny is not to be measured in terms of time. Though he was in office only four years, he nevertheless made a great contribution to the college. By the end of the first year he had successfully led a campaign to add $1,250,000 to the endowment. The Ten-Year Program, which includes the enlargement of the campus, the construction of a freshman dormitory and an auditorium, and the remodeling of Bentley, was largely his vision. But as great as these services were, it was probably in another field that he served the college best, that of winning the alumni to an enthusiastic support of their Alma Mater.

President Hixson was a delegate to the General Conference of 1924, and when he returned for Commencement, he was not well. He was no better when college opened in September, and as the Fall advanced, he grew worse. Medical and surgical treatment seemed to be of no benefit. He suffered intensely but heroically. The end came on Sunday afternoon, November 23, just one day before his fiftieth birthday.

The Reapers

The class of 1924 left last year, believing that they had actually brought a new Era to Old Allegheny, and that the Administration launched the campaign for a million and a quarter in order to give them the best liberal education. It is quite possible that this is true, at least we, who belong to the class of 1925, feel that the million was spent for them and that we are receiving benefit from the quarter. This does not mean that we have not been educated, indeed we have and liberally too! Ask anyone of the Seniors who has been permitted to travel to Edinboro in the interests of Practice Teaching if he has not had his quarter's worth!

But before we go further, it will be necessary to reveal some of the past history of the class. We came to Allegheny in September, 1921, and immediately took our places with the upper classmen on the campus (which mistake was corrected in due time).

With the opening of college came the hair-cutting—the men of the class had theirs cut (they were being hazed); the girls had theirs cut too (it was the thing to do).

Later we assisted the rest of the Student Body in removing the Honor System from the college believing that so vast a group of honorable young people needed no system.

In February of that year we attended the Washington's Birthday Banquet—but we never attended any more—they stopped having them because it was decided that the lives of the faculty were of really more importance than the food.

Our Sophomore year came and, as we had established ourselves on the campus, we took up with heroic spirit the arduous tasks that lay before us. Scarcely an organization on the Hill but had felt the influence of our sophomore members. The athletes of the class were represented on every team.

The Junior year was a busy one naturally with so many things to be done academically as well as socially and the under classmen to be held in check.

We are Seniors now and the four splendid years are almost over. It seems best that we go since our good work is done. In leaving we extend our best wishes to both faculty and students—and hope that your future successes may be as great as ours.

Big, bad, bold, Andy Gump on his parenthetical legs is to be seen hovering about his lair, the Chem lab, at most any time, day or night. When above the din and roar of any athletic contest one hears a lusty blast from a pair of leather lungs, he knows that Andy is giving some pearl of wisdom to the players. His heart is evidently more fragile than his lungs as his generosity in patronizing the fraternity jewelers indicates. Those who have the inside dope state that Gump will devote the rest of his terrestrial life to the chase of the elusive atom.

Anderson, the Swede from Oil City, received his high school diploma from that place, and straightway came to this institution of higher learning. They call him "Andy", and he is known by that peculiar little laugh with which he greets everyone. With Andy seriousness is next to anger. Throughout his college life he has studied hard, played hard—in fact he has lived hard. And we hope he will live long—at least long enough to realize his ambition of becoming one of the world's greatest specialists in Medical Surgery. Next year Andy goes to John Hopkins to continue the brilliant work he has started at Allegheny. Andy is too bashful to be a social hound—his big thing in college is scholarship. He has attained the grade that the majority of us will never reach. He is nearing the top of the hill and when he reaches it he will coast easily down the other side.

"T. B." has alternated through four years of college between the Hill and the Conservatory. This, along with his absent-mindedness, his particular seat in chapel, and his customary roll, marks him as a man of music. Although inclined to be an absent minded genius, he becomes in a crisis, as only those who know him best can testify, a real leader, with initiative and authority. Hence, whatever "T. B." may do later on he is sure to make a path to his liking.

Herb is one of those gifted men who can do four years work in three and then come back occasionally the fourth year and laugh at the rest of us struggling for points and hours. He is an able elocutionist, or in other words, torcedor, throws them, you know. He has spent the past year at Conneaut Lake High School, where in addition to imparting to his pupils what knowledge he gained at Allegheny in History and English, he developed a football team which would do credit to a Warner or a Rockne.

"Pablo"—another of the local boys—"made the grade" in three college years and one summer session. This year he has returned several times from Westfield, N. Y., where he is a budding Biology prof. Paul used deadly weapons on the young ladies at Hulings—his collars were arrows and his ties were bows. We can't describe him exactly or tell what he did—but we can say that he was a clean-cut young fellow, which phrase we believe is descriptive and suggestive enough to tell what he was.

There are many kinds of men but the ones remembered are those who make friends. Frank has found a host of friends in Allegheny as demonstrated by his "A" book collection. His interest in college, class, and religious activities has been rewarded with offices and respect, but he remains the same Frank Mason who has held his row quietly but persistently until now he is about to face life well prepared in friendships, experiences, and interests. The underclassmen will be sorry to see him go for they have found in him an eminently fair friend and advisor.

Few Allegheny students can present an academic record that can come near reaching the one made by Maurice. Exceptional scholastic ability enabled him to win class honors. Last fall he reached the height of academic achievement when Phi Beta Kappa recognized his ability. Mook is the only student in Allegheny to be a member of the American Historical Association. Despite the fact that he has received many scholastic honors, Mook is still the modest fellow that he was when he entered Allegheny.

John Wesley Morrissey, otherwise known to his friends (and enemies, if he has any) as just plain "Wess", graduated honorably, if not with honors, from Meadville High School. This year Wess faithfully guarded the funds of the Student Senate. We mean he acted as Treasurer. Like all of us, Wess has his habits. His best is the habit of smiling. A smile for everyone—which goes a long, long way. Men have become his staunch friends because of that smile as the weaker sex have thrilled at it.

This quiet chap from Buena Vista kept pretty much to himself during most of his career at Allegheny, but we all became better acquainted with him in his senior year. Glenn's performances as a member of the varsity basketball squad were very creditable, and he has always been feared as a bowler and basketball player in intra-mural contests. He has concentrated on mathematics, surveying, and similar studies, and we understand that he is destined to become a great civil engineer some day.

Agnes has not been able to keep right down to work this year as she has a great problem on her mind—she is trying to decide which are the nicer, the men at home or the men at school. In spite of her puzzling question, Nick has found time to enter into all the fun that is going on on the campus. She modestly remains quiet about her special abilities, but everyone recognizes and appreciates her capacity for work, her energy and her capability.

And now for Peg, the peripatetic. A little matter of four years is hardly enough in which to discover all her subtle attractions, and her unfortunate absence last year makes the matter still more difficult. As chauffeur of the Kappa Winton she may be seen almost any time driving madly from hither to yon. In fact, Peg always attains her object—madly, possibly—but with that adolescent insouciance so common to the Prather family. She is of that unfugurable type that fools them all. Piper's ready tongue and agility on the court enable him to sling a "mean racket" either in conversation or at tennis, and his "love" game has netted him captaincy of tennis and the heart of a young lady across the hollow with whom he hopes to get into a game of doubles for life. At the end of two years he paused long enough to instruct a few underlings in the mysteries of Science and then returned for the final portion of his quest for culture. These years Chuck has spent in avoiding Hulings Hall, swearing out work in the surveying room, and manipulating a slide rule. Bill is indeed a journalist. To dash off a short story, or what is more important, to pull down an A from Dr. Swartley's record book, is only a matter of every day life for this embryo De Mupassant. He is naturally an athlete, and, so far as is known, is the only man in college who has taken part in every sport there is—from Polo to Tideley Winks. Sophomore Salvations

It may have taken a quarter of a million to educate the Class of 1925, but we are here to state that the Trustees will be Ponies if they can put us through on a half million.

Thus you see the state of affairs with the Class of '27. We are a class represented in every walk of college life, whether it be football, basketball, track or any other of the extra-curricular activities. Although we are not all that we should be scholastically we hope that the majority of our members will be able to stay here for the remaining two years so that the true spirit of Old Allegheny will be permanently instilled in the class as a whole.

Seriously, this class has indeed made an enviable record in its short stay at Allegheny. Last year we fought a down-hill battle with the Class of 1926. We lost (as has been the custom) but we were not demoralized by the defeat which fact was shown in that we returned and competed with these barbarians in the tie-up and the debate.

This year our luck has been better. Due to our superior knowledge of water our navigators were able to defeat the freshmen in the water battle. However, we were unable to out argue the yearlings and gracefully bowed our heads to them in the annual debate (being altruistic we believe that they should not be robbed of all their pleasures and class honor).

As for the social life of the sophomore class. We feel that the sophomore class party rivaled the Junior Prom and the Senior Hop, and that socially we are the elite of the college. Next year there is hardly a doubt that our Junior Prom will be the best ever held, and that as upperclassmen we will put Allegheny where she belongs in the social world.

What is the past! It has gone. The future is our greatest concern today.

Freshman Frothings

Having been Alleghenians for only one short year we are unable to boast of as many accomplishments and activities as have our predecessors, the sophomores. However, in our short stay on the Hill we have wrought several changes in the college life.

First, the water battle. We were the first freshman class to engage with a sophomore class in this form of class rivalry. Although we lost, we feel that the battle was an uphill struggle, due to the fact that the sophomores felt more at home in the environment.

We always showed our school spirit by coming out in full force to support every college parade. We also were on hand at all athletic contests and entertained the rooters by our marching and cheering.

Our debaters won out over the sophomores by a score of 2-1 in the annual Sophomore-Freshman Debate, thus avenging in a measure the defeat suffered at their hands in the water battle.

Because of our excellent behavior in abiding by the freshman rules the Men's Senate removed these rules at Easter. Thus we scored a moral victory over the present sophomores, who were forced to obey the rules until June 4th.

The Class of 1928 is also basketball champion of the college. In spite of the fact that some of our team were kidnaped the undaunted spirit of the class carried us through to victory.

We view our activities with no small measure of pride. We have made a good start and judging the future by the past we hope to attain bigger things and greater heights for the class and the college.

Since the inauguration of the new athletic program, five years ago, the administration of all sports at Allegheny has been in the hands of the Athletic Board of Control. This board numbers among its members faculty members, alumni, Meadville Chamber of Commerce representatives and students. It is in great measure to the energetic way in which this body has fostered and pushed the new athletic program, that the recent and very gratifying success of Allegheny's teams has been due.

C. E. HAMMETT
Director of Athletics

Allegheny's athletics and C. E. Hammett have been so closely associated for so many years that the terms are almost inseparable. He is one of the most widely known members of the faculty, famous particularly as the keenest of scouts. He coaches the track team and assists Davies and Baker with football and basketball respectively. No stretch of the imagination would make that an easy job, yet the "Coach" has handled as much and even more with great success for not a few years.

TOM DAVIES
Coach of Football

Tom came to Allegheny to take the place of one we rightly considered a big man in his field; he left us after the football season with a glorious record for 1924. We believe that nobody could have done better. An All-American half-back himself, with a wide knowledge of modern football and a fine personality, Tommy was a great addition to Allegheny's athletic department. He will return in the fall confronted with the necessity of building a new line, but bring them on! Tommy can do it.

C. D. BAKER
Coach

To Coach Dick Baker goes the credit for putting Allegheny's basketball team back in the high position it held ten years ago. Only tough luck kept Baker's men from the tri-state championship this year. The teams he turns out improve each year, so that now little is left to be desired. He has the happy faculty of getting a great deal of pleasure from his work with the team; consequently the boys enjoy it too and the most desirable morale is always maintained.

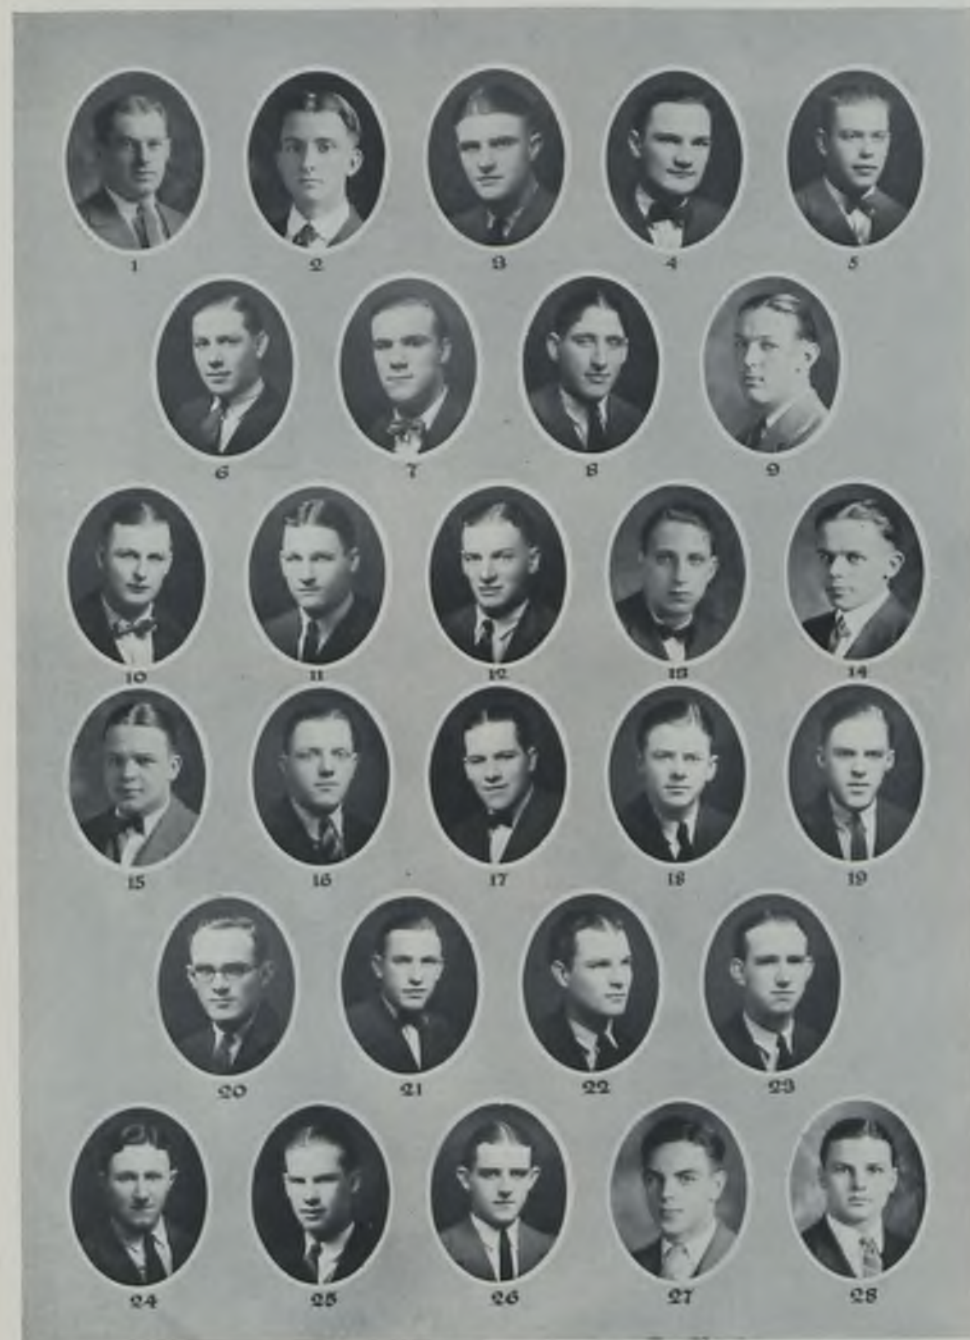

STEWART S. TOWNSEND
Graduate Manager

As manager-in-chief of athletics at Allegheny, Towney is one of the best known men on the campus. The great success of the athletic program is due, to a great extent, to his unfailing efforts. All the unpleasant duties that are connected with the managerial work devolve upon him. His name is near the head of the list of those who have done much for Allegheny.

FOOTBALL

FRED A. PARNELL
Captain

Fred brought his career as a collegiate football player to a brilliant close as leader of one of the finest teams that ever played for the Blue and Gold. For three years he has been responsible for a great part of the glory that has come to the famous lines of '22, '23, and '24.

The 1924 Season

Though cut short by the untimely death of President Fred W. Hixson, the 1924 football season, with its record of five victories and two defeats, was gratifyingly successful to followers of Allegheny's football fortunes. When prospects for 1924 were viewed at the close of the brilliant 1923 season, an exceptionally strong team was predicted. Herb McCracken, coach for three years, signed a contract as head coach of Lafayette. But the coaching problem was solved when Tom Davies, former All-American halfback and coach at Geneva College, was signed. All looked rosy when training camp opened at Edinboro Lake early in September.

But, when the roll was called at training camp, "Fat" Myford was absent. An attack of pneumonia during the summer vacation had taken away the star tackle by sudden death. Nor was that all. Buck Wolz was missing, having decided not to return to Allegheny, for a year at least. Logan, Koehl, Fee, Ewing and Welsh, all of whom had been counted upon heavily, were missing, by reason of scholastic and other difficulties. Further, the material from the incoming freshman class did not fulfill its early promise. Coach Davies had a discouraging task, but he set to work to round into shape an eleven which would be a credit to the institution.

So it was with a keen interest that five thousand fans gathered in Montgomery Field on Saturday, September 27, to see the Blue and Gold stack up against Dickinson College, a team which the season before had chalked up a victory over Bucknell, besides defeating other strong Eastern teams. The first half produced no score. Dahl and Hanlon repeatedly carried the ball within scoring distance, only to have an off-side or holding penalty prevent the score. The second half opened the same way. Allegheny started another drive toward the goal. Suddenly, from the seventy-yard line, Jimmy Hanlon tossed a pass to Johnny Brace, freshman halfback, and the latter scampered in true Daviesian style, sixty yards to the goal. Three times, later in the game, the Dickinson team fought its way close to the goal, but each time the Allegheny line held. When the final whistle blew, it meant that Allegheny had beaten a team that subsequently beat Bucknell, held Lehigh to a nine-point victory, and otherwise made a great record the past season.

CAPTAIN-ELECT JAMES V. HANLON
Halfback

After three years of good work in the backfield, Jimmie was rewarded by his election to the captaincy of the 1925 team. Always a shifty runner, he developed last fall in greater strides than ever before, and all things point to next year as his best.

LEWIS S. BLACKWELL
Guard

Dearth of guards forced Coach Davies to transform Red from a good center to a good guard at the beginning of the season. Red leaves us this year with three well earned block A's.

The following Saturday all of Allegheny's male population and much of its female travelled two hundred miles to Morgantown to see the Blue and Gold stack up against one of the strongest teams in the country, the West Virginia Mountaineers. For three quarters it was anybody's game. West Virginia scored two touchdowns early in the first quarter. Hanlon grabbed a pass over the goal line to even matters up a little. But the West Virginians' greater reserve strength told and when Fuller was hurt in the fourth quarter, the Allegheny defense cracked. Three touchdowns came in rapid succession, and what was really a close game seemed a disappointingly easy victory for the Mountaineers.

Two weeks later, Thiel was met in Greenville, before a large crowd, a large part of which were Allegheny supporters who had travelled from Meadville and other points to see the game. Allegheny's offense worked to perfection till it reached the scoring zone. Time after time a fumble or a penalty prevented what seemed a sure touchdown. It was not till the last quarter that Dahl was able to pound his way through to a score. Then, with but a few seconds left to play, Brace, aided by perfect interference, crossed up the whole Thiel defense and ran forty yards for another touchdown.

A six-hundred-mile trip was next on the card for Davies' men. Boston College was played at Boston, Mass., the following Saturday. Cheered on by a handful of alumni and two students, the team fought the heavy Boston team to a standstill, making ten first downs, to their opponents' six. The spectacular, long punts of Chuck Darling, star Boston fullback, had Allegheny at a distinct disadvantage. Dahl, Hanlon and Brace, in the backfield, and the entire line, especially Fuller and Parnell, contributed stellar offensive and defensive work, but were unable to push over a score. Several lucky breaks

ROBERT H. FULLER
Center

Tarzan brought glory to his team and fame to himself by being selected on the all-eastern team of one of Pittsburgh's prominent sport writers; thus winding up his brilliant career at Allegheny.

M. LAWRENCE JUDD
Right End

Not satisfied with being a letter man for four years, Juddy relieved his craving for action by playing every minute of every game of this, his last and best year.

gave the Boston team a touchdown in the second quarter and another in the fourth. Allegheny's showing, however, was a pleasant surprise to its followers and created a distinctly favorable impression throughout the East.

Grove City was the next victim, the game entailing another trip for the Blue and Gold athletes. Though the Crimson team was decidedly the weaker, it kept up its reputation of always playing its best against Allegheny and held the score down to nine

FRANK E. REED
Left End

Forced by a long illness to discontinue strenuous physical effort during his sophomore and junior years, Jake came back, and, with Judd, made a pair of ends that were in there fighting the whole season long.

C. ARTHUR DAHL
Fullback

For the third consecutive year, Art was the outstanding fullback in minor college football. He, too, played on the All-East team at Cleveland.

points. A safety, resulting from a blocked kick, and Dahl's touchdown, with the resultant point, was the sum total of the scoring.

Westminster provided the opposition for the annual Home-coming Day game. Having trimmed Grove City, the Blue and White team was set to take over their old rivals. Dahl's absence weakened the offense considerably and it was not till the last quarter that Jimmy Hanlon was able to score the all-important winning touchdown.

On Thursday, November 20, the team went to Waynesburg. That team had made a great record for itself during the season and was favored, by the dope, to topple Allegheny and win the minor college championship of the district. Consequently Allegheny's overwhelming victory gave Davies and his men the undisputed laurels. The Allegheny offense worked to perfection for the first time during the year, piling up four touchdowns and twenty-five first downs, to Waynesburg's meagre three first downs. The defense stopped every thrust of the fast Yellow Jacket backs.

The Waynesburg game ended the season. The scheduled Thanksgiving Day game with Bethany was called off after the death of President Hixson. With five victories over district teams, in none of which Allegheny was scored upon, the season can easily be called a success. Though neither of the games with major colleges resulted in victories, the showing of the Blue and Gold in each of them was entirely satisfactory.

Tritely enough "prospects" for next year must be reviewed. Coaching will be well taken care of with Tom Davies back as head coach. With Coach Hammett and Fred Parnell to assist him, nothing will be lacking there. But, out of the eight linemen to receive letters, only three, Morrison, Kinnunen and Humeston, will be on hand this fall. Blackwell, Fuller, Judd and Reed will graduate. Fred Parnell will be ineligible on

WILLIAM E. DOLDE
Quarterback

Bill was shifted from halfback to quarterback this year, winning a letter against the toughest kind of opposition from an injured leg.

ALDEN E. HUMESTON
Guard

Heavy, powerful, and fighting every minute, Hummy was another one of the big reasons for such a strong line as was Allegheny's in '24. Luckily he has one more year to play.

account of his year of play at Colgate. The entire backfield will return. So, if enough line material is developed, the team should be fully as strong as that of the past three years. The schedule, which includes another game with Boston, away, a game with West Virginia in the new Erie stadium and six games with district teams, four of which will be played at home, is a good one, and should prove interesting to Allegheny fans.

MARTIN L. KINNUNEN
Guard

Marty is the only letterman representing the class of '27, and he certainly has been found worthy to carry along the colors of that class. With two years ahead of him, Marty should be a wonderful lineman.

JOHN A. BRACE
Halfback

Little John came down from Academy High, Erie, and stepped into a first string halfback position. Under Tom Davies' tutelage, he will become a wonderful runner.

The second annual Home-Coming Day was held on November 8. An extensive program was carried out in connection with the Westminster game and a large crowd of alumni was present to cheer for the team. Next year Home-Coming Day is expected to be an even bigger and better affair. It is scheduled for October 10, when Geneva will be met on Montgomery Field. Plans for this occasion are already nearly completed, and promise a big time for all.

WM. J. DALE
Manager

After two years of hard competition, Bill was elected football manager for the 1924 season. His work in that capacity was faithful and efficient. He was a valuable aid to Mr. Townsend and to the team.

EARL KROTZER
Trainer

Without Earl and his ever-present emergency kit, Allegheny's athletic teams would be like the Army without the Red Cross. Always on hand and always cheerful, Earl has helped win many games for Allegheny.

Through the efforts of Graduate Manager S. S. Townsend, the schedule for next fall has been completed. Eight games are carded so far, with the possibility that the one open date may be filled. Boston will again be met away, as will Grove City and Westminster. Four home games are listed with district rivals. The feature game is that with West Virginia in the Erie Stadium on September 26. The complete schedule follows:

CY HARTMAN
Cheerleader

Hartman, elected cheerleader his freshman year, has made good at his job. His yell leadership has many times helped Blue and Gold rooters give the football team that extra ounce of spirit that meant victory.

TED AVERBACH
Cheerleader

Ted, with his antics and wise-cracks has been a Nick Altrock for Allegheny fans. Especially during basketball season did he excel in getting noise out of the Blue and Gold cheering sections.

A New Era in Football at Allegheny

Not so many years ago, five, to be exact, a follower of Allegheny football teams feared to confess that fact. Scholastically, Allegheny was right at the top. On the gridiron, she was a non-entity. The reason for this was a lack of proper organization and encouragement. Mindful of this, a group of men, vitally interested in the all-around welfare of the college, got together and formulated what is now known as the "athletic program" of the college. A Board of Control, composed of student, alumni and faculty members was placed in charge of all athletics. Since its incipency, this Board has been headed by Dr. R. E. Lee, who has been a guiding spirit in the formulating, building up, and carrying out of this program.

One of the first steps of this new board was to concentrate in one man, a graduate manager of athletics, the responsibility for making the new program a practical success. To this new post, S. S. Townsend, '16, was elected, and he has held the office ever since. His work has been to induce men of character and scholarship as well as athletic ability to come to Allegheny. Also the work of arranging the schedules and supervising the student managers has been his.

When the Board of Control decided to improve football at Allegheny, it first hired a coach. For this post, Herb McCracken, pupil of the famous Pop Warner, and back-field star at the University of Pittsburgh, was chosen. The first year of Herb's regime was more or less of an experiment. Conditions were entirely new, both to him and the players, and there was still a lack of stellar material. Seven games were played during this season. Three were won and three lost, with one tie game. Such a record does not look impressive, but even at that it was a colossal improvement over previous years. It was the first year in many that resulted in so much as an even break in games won and lost.

Herb's second year found him in a better position to turn out a winning outfit. Material was plentiful and support was by no means lacking. He turned out a team which struck terror into the hearts of its district opponents, succumbing only to Grove City, among its natural rivals. Geneva, Westminster, Thiel, Waynesburg, Niagara and Alfred were completely snowed under. Colgate beat the Blue and Gold, in an early season game, and Carnegie Tech won a questionable 7-0 decision in a sensational game in Pittsburgh. The season's record was six victories and three defeats. The powerful Blue and Gold offense piled up 239 points to its opponents total of 67. The season, in the light of the past, was a complete success, but the end was not yet.

In 1923, Herb returned again. Though handicapped by losses of men, he developed new material and placed on the field a team which toppled, with seeming ease, every district rival, holding each of them scoreless. The University of Rochester was met, away, and defeated, 39-6. West Virginia won over the Blue and Gold in a great battle at Morgantown, 28-0. In the final game of the season, Herb took his team to Lewisburg and neatly took the measure of Bucknell, one of the East's best, by a 10-7 score. Seven wins and a lone defeat, with a total score of 144 points to opponents 41, was the record, the best, it can be truthfully said, that an Allegheny team ever compiled.

The past season is fresh in our minds. With Tom Davies as coach, its five victories and two defeats gives Allegheny a four-year record of twenty-one victories, one tie, and nine defeats in the thirty-one games played. What a pleasing contrast to the days of constant defeat! No true Alleghenian, no matter what be his feelings on the matter of intercollegiate athletics, in general, and football in particular, but takes a secret pride in seeing his Alma Mater at the top on the gridiron, as well as elsewhere.

BASKETBALL

M. LAWRENCE JUDD
CAPTAIN, 1924-25
Center

Judd's play at center this winter proved beyond doubt that he is worthy to be classed with Allegheny's greatest athletes. Handicapped as he was by an injured shoulder, he changed his style of play to protect his weakened member and became one of the season's stars. Allegheny loses a valuable man when Judd graduates in June.

The 1925 Season

"A great team and a great season," is about all that need be said about Allegheny in the basketball world in 1925. With veteran material, Coach Dick Baker turned out, in his third year of coaching for his old Alma Mater, a team which was believed by many to be as good as any in the tri-state district. Hard luck prevented Baker's five from winning the championship of the district, but only the two defeats from Grove City, enabled that team to top Allegheny in the ratings.

The season opened at home on December 29. Adrian College, of Michigan, was defeated 28-15, by a whirlwind finish, in which Bill McClurg took the leading part. The scheduled home game with Lebanon Valley, on January 5, was cancelled.

Next on the list was the annual jaunt to Pittsburgh and Morgantown. Pitt lucked its way through to a three-point victory in a game that looked like Allegheny's from the start. Fighting mad, but playing without Joe Wolf, who was injured in the Pitt game, the team met the West Virginia Mountaineers, determined to wipe out the memory of last fall's football game. That they did. Allegheny's 34-22 victory startled the basketball world.

Thiel was met during the next week. The Greenville team was soft picking for the Blue and Gold, scoring but ten points throughout the contest. Allegheny ran up thirty-two. The next encounter was a return game with West Virginia. The Gym was packed to capacity and the big crowd went home satisfied. They had seen Allegheny wallop the Mountaineers for the second time in eight days, this time to the tune of a 24-14 score.

In the next game, the last before the long mid-year exam layoff, the team played without the services of Captain Judd, who had slipped on the ice and suffered a dislocated shoulder. The game was not won until the last few minutes, when Joe Wolf shot a foul and two long, sensational field goals, just enough to put the Blue and Gold ahead.

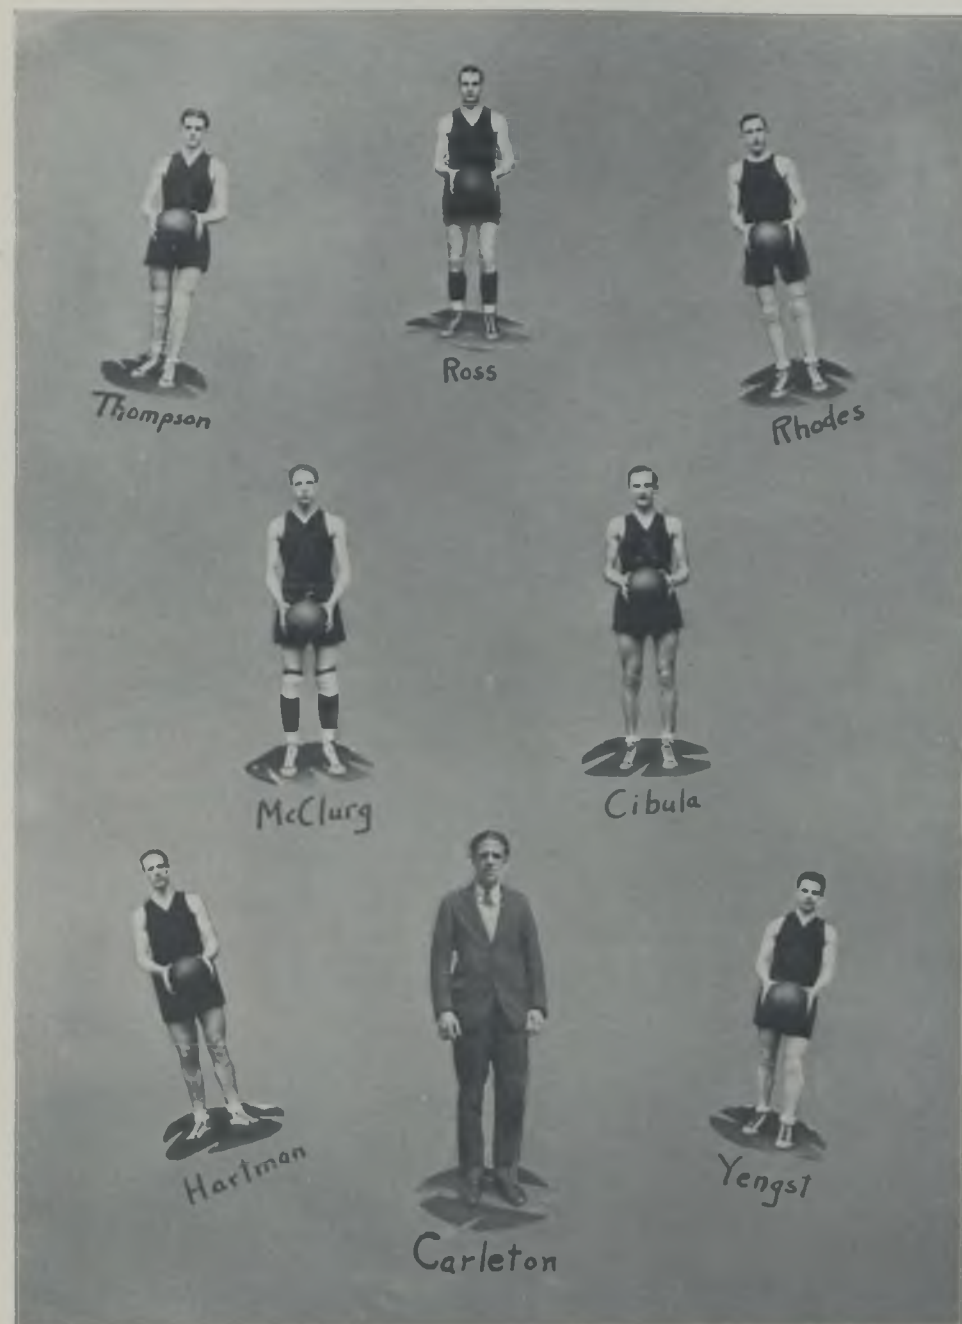

After exams, Judd was back in the line-up, but Joe Wolf was gone. The examinations had taken their toll and Coach Baker had to remake his team. Dusty Rhodes was put into Joe's place and Wescott added to the squad as substitute guard. This line-up seemed entirely satisfactory when Westminster was defeated at home, a week after exams, 31-20. The Blue and White team never threatened.

Friday, the 13th of February, proved no unlucky day for Coach Baker and his men. They travelled to Cleveland and took the measure of John Carroll University in a close, sensational battle that ended 23-21 in Allegheny's favor. Carroll had defeated Grove City earlier in the season, and Allegheny hopes ran high for a victory when the Crimson came to Meadville the following week. Fourteen hundred people crowded their way into the Gym to see the two best teams in this section of the country play. When the final whistle blew, Grove City had earned a 36-27 decision, largely through the work of Rose, Crimson guard, who tallied six times from the field. Despite the score, Allegheny was never outclassed.

Three days later, the team travelled to Geneva and was defeated by a single point, largely because of the smallness of the floor. The next trip was to Westminster, where a slow and uninteresting game finally ended in a four-point Allegheny victory. In this game Bill McClurg so aggravated a previously sustained injury to his knee that he was forced out of the game for the rest of the season. That forced Coach Baker to groom midget Joe Thompson for the second battle with Grove City.

At Grove City, the team went into the game without Bill McClurg but with the old Allegheny fight, and refused to give up till the final whistle found the Crimson again

LETTER MEN

LEO E. ROSS

Forward

Leo finished his third and last year on the varsity a star of the first rank. Natural ability in handling a ball plus a physique well adapted to basketball playing placed him at the head of Allegheny's scorers for the past season. Big men like Ross are hard to replace, particularly when they profit greatly by playing experience.

JOSEPH J. THOMPSON

Forward

Joey got the opportunity he was waiting for when injuries forced McClurg's retirement for the latter part of the season, and he made the most of it. Almost unbelievably small and light, he nevertheless made the best of rival guards look not quite so good. Joey has three more years to play.

WILLIAM H. RHODES

Guard

Dusty impressed Coach Baker so well late last year that he was called upon to fill the position left vacant by the loss of a star guard early this past season. Although somewhat handicapped by size and weight, his speed and cleverness enabled him to hold down his position as is worthy of an Alleghenian.

CAPTAIN-ELECT WILLIAM E. McCLURG

Forward

Bill came to college with a little experience, more ability, and a great deal of ambition. Two months of training under a capable coach made him a first class forward and the freshman star. That was in 1924. This year he was going better than ever when one of his knees went bad, forcing him to retire for the rest of the season. Bill will captain next year's team.

ALBERT CIBULA

Guard

Al came to school last year with a fine high school record and all kinds of hard luck. Injuries to a wrist and shoulder kept him out of football and basketball for a full year, and not until this winter did he have an opportunity to show his stuff. He became a very important member of the basketball machine almost immediately.

CYRIL B. HARTMAN

Center

Cy's faithful work was rewarded with a basketball letter this year. It was he who understudied Judd throughout the season. He is a big fellow, particularly adept at guarding. He has two more years to play, and will be a valuable man next year at center.

CHARLES YENGST

Forward

Charley is another small, speedy, forward, the kind that makes a basketball game seem anything but a match of brutal force. He probably knows as much about the game as anyone on the squad, and uses his knowledge to great advantage. Furthermore he is a capable floor man and a reliable shot.

H. R. CARLETON

Manager

The basketball manager has a tough job. The numerous trips and the big home games require that he be a business man. Carleton showed his worth in this respect and took good care of the team throughout the season.

in the van, this time by five points. That defeat deprived Allegheny of the right to claim the district championship honors.

Five straight victories, from that time on, closed the season. The alumni were defeated, in a stiff battle, when Joey Thompson looped a beautiful field goal from the middle of the floor just as the final whistle blew. Thiel was met, away, and defeated 29-20, in a game which was played mainly by the reserves. Thompson and Yengst starred. Juniata was beaten, at home, in a game close from start to finish. Waynesburg came to Meadville, with a good team, and, after trailing for three quarters, made a courageous attempt to eke out a victory, but fell short. John Carroll came to Meadville for a return game to close the season. The Cleveland team set a fast pace and was leading, 15-8 at the half. With two minutes to play they still led, 23-18. Judd dropped in a pair of field goals to make things interesting. Cibula was fouled and made good. Just as the whistle blew a double foul was called. The Cleveland man made good—and so did Joey Thompson. In the extra five-minute period Allegheny shot three fouls while Carroll failed to score. Thus ended one of the most exciting games ever played in Meadville.

Thirteen victories as against four defeats is the record. Runner-up laurels in the district were Allegheny's, placing the Blue and Gold above such colleges as Pitt, Tech, W. & J. and West Virginia. The coaching was excellent, the material good and the spirit of the team fine. The stuff was there and although Leo Ross and Juddy have played their last, Coach Baker will carry on and should do fully as well next year.

Tri-State Inter-City Tournament

The Fifth Annual Inter-City Basketball Tournament was held on March 20 and 21, in the Gymnasium. Allegheny High School represented Pittsburgh; Academy High, Erie; East High, Cleveland, and Bellevue High came up by virtue of its excellent record, to take the place of a Buffalo team.

Erie Academy, rated as one of the weaker teams, met Bellevue Friday evening and won, 28-14, upsetting all the dope in the opening game. Bellevue seemed to be hopelessly outclassed. The Allegheny-Cleveland East game was better in every way. The Pittsburghers took the lead in the last quarter after trailing for three quarters, and won the game 23-21 in the last minute of play.

The next evening, Academy again did the unexpected and defeated Allegheny of Pittsburgh, 23-14. The team from the Smoky City made only two goals from the floor, while Academy got seven, thereby winning the inter-city championship for Erie for the first time. Cleveland had previously been invincible.

In the consolation game, Cleveland East defeated Bellevue in a tough struggle, 28-27. The latter showed great improvement over their play of the previous evening.

The heavy scorers for Academy were McMahon and Thomas; for Allegheny, Allebach and Seccor; for Cleveland East, Kastor and Follett; and for Bellevue, Stevenson. Dalzell refereed. The scores of the games follow:

FRIDAY EVENING, MARCH 20.

Erie Academy High School 28, Bellevue High School 14.
Allegheny High School, Pittsburgh, 23, Cleveland East High School 21.

SATURDAY EVENING, MARCH 21.

Cleveland East High School 28, Bellevue High School 27.
Erie Academy High School 23, Allegheny High School, Pittsburgh, 14.

Resume of 1924

Although the track schedule for 1924 was not entirely satisfactory in some respects, the keen competition that featured the season created unusually high interest in the college. None of the meets were won by more than a few points.

Carnegie Tech was met at Pittsburgh on May 3. The boys went down determined to keep the Tartan score as low as possible, and succeeded far better than any of them expected. Not until the last event of the meet was the winner decided, when Luty of Tech, finally took first place in the high jump over Judd. The final score was: Tech, 64½; Allegheny, 61½.

The single intercollegiate meet held at home was with Rochester University on May 17. The Blue and Gold clearly proved her superiority by winning, 68 2-3 to 57 1-3. The New Yorkers were strong on the track, but Allegheny was far superior in the field events.

The last meet of the season was held on May 23 with Alfred University. Allegheny again showed great strength in the field events but Alfred's track stars won the meet handily by the score of 75 2-3 to 50 1-3. Thus the season closed with but one victory and two defeats.

Although few of the men received any training in prep school, Coach Hammett yearly develops a team that is dangerous in every event. Such a feat of coaching is rare.

The outstanding stars of the past season were Parnell and Judd. Judd commonly scored in six events, and Parnell in four or five. Ellsworth continued his fast work in the shorter dashes; Bliss and Mackintosh starred in the distance runs. Piper and Taylor were accountable for much of the strength in the field events.

Among the freshmen stars were Rea, in the quarter and half mile, and Williams in the dashes. Slocum is a valuable new hurdler and Kinnunen a weight man. In addition, there were several other freshmen who showed marked ability.

Hammett, Sample, Lundgren, Danner, Williams, Judd, Parnell, Slocum, A. Jones, Rea, Mackintosh, Blanchard, Reyner, G. Jones, Potter, Jackson, Seginak, Triola, Ellis, Marshall, Tornatore, Hartman, Anna, Cibula.

1925 Season Prospectus

Although several valuable letter men were lost by graduation last spring, the track team was in no way seriously crippled. Coach Hammett has every reason to be optimistic about the outcome of the schedule. The squad was in fairly good shape by April 25, when Thiel was defeated by the score of 104-22.

The team is very well balanced. Williams, who developed so rapidly last season, will run the 100 and 220 yard dashes. Danner and Lundgren, freshmen, also look good in the short dashes. Rea will provide all kinds of competition in the 440.

In the 880, Rea, Mackintosh and Blanchard have all shown excellent form, and this event should be one of our strongest. Mackintosh will take good care of the mile. Jones running the two-mile should prove the sensation of the season.

Slocum and Judd will run the hurdles as they did last year. Judd will also compete in all the field events as will Parnell. Both men will be dangerous in all of them.

Tornatore and Brace, new men, will do the pole vaulting with Judd. Lundgren, Sample and Judd the broad jumping, Parnell and Judd the high jumping, discus, and shot, while Tornatore and Piper will throw the javelin. Hartman, Jackson, Cibula and Kinnunen are also showing promise in the field events.

At the time of this writing, all but one of the meets on the schedule have been run off. On May 2 the team went to Pittsburgh and defeated Carnegie Tech by a 66-60 score. The meet was close throughout and Allegheny won by displaying just a shade better all-round ability. Tech, however, claimed the victory. No provision had been made for the hammer throw, in the contract, but the Tech officials entered three men in this event, and added nine points to their score. The disagreement has not yet been settled.

Rochester University was defeated handily, at that place, the Blue and Gold nearly doubling the score. Jones again broke the two-mile record, running the distance in 10 min. 12.3 sec.

The annual Interfraternity out-door meet was won by the non-fraternity team. The N. W. P. I. A. A. championship meet was won by Erie Academy High, the same team which won the last interscholastic meet.

Alfred promises to give close competition in the final meet of the year, but Coach Hammett's men should come through the season with a clean slate.

The schedule for the 1925 season is as follows:

April	25—Thiel	at Meadville
May	2—Carnegie Tech.....	at Pittsburgh
May	9—Annual Interfraternity Meet.
May	16—Rochester University.....	at Rochester, N. Y.
May	16—N. W. P. I. A. A. Championships.....	at Meadville
May	29—Alfred University.....	at Meadville

Ninth Annual Interscholastic Track Meet

In the Ninth Annual Interscholastic Track Meet, held on Montgomery Field on May 10, Academy High, of Erie, repeated its performance of the year previous, and won first place, though closely pressed by East High of the same city. The Academy team, coached by an Allegheny alumnus, L. C. Drake, '17, was a well balanced outfit, placing in nearly every event. East High of Erie and Beaver Falls High also had strong teams. Merriman, of the latter team, being the high scorer of the meet. He won the shot put and discus and third place in the high jump for a total of twelve points. Bowen and Devereaux, of East High, were second and third high scorers, with eleven and ten points, respectively.

Very fast times were turned in. Eckert, of Franklin, won the hundred in 10.2s; Hausman, Academy, the two-twenty in 23.4s; Flick, Academy, the quarter mile in 52 seconds, a new record. Merriman put the shot 42 ft. 5 in., and Wellendorf, Youngstown South High, cleared the bar at 5 ft. 7 in., in the high jump. Three men made a new record for the pole vault at 10 ft. 6 7-8 in. Devereaux, of East High, ran the mile in 4 min. 49.5 sec.

The total scores of each team follows:

Erie Academy High School	31
Erie East High School	28 1-3
Beaver Falls High School	23
Youngstown South High School	17 1-3
Ashtabula Harbor High School	10 1-3
Franklin High School	7
Warren High School	7
Corry High School	5
Oil City High School	4
Bradford High School	4
Greenville High School	3
Cambridge Springs High School	1
Brookville High School	1
Jamestown High School	0

1925 Annual Indoor Track Meet

Although the scores of the annual indoor track meet are tabulated by classes, it is really an individual rather than a team meet. By means of this event Coach Hammett is enabled to look over the candidates for the varsity track team.

The 1925 meet was exceptionally good. Jones again broke the indoor record for the two-mile, his time being 10 minutes 32.5 seconds. Williams won the 85 and 440 yard dashes, Rea the 880, and Bentley, a freshman, the mile run.

Slocum won the high hurdles, and Tornatore, the record holder, took first place in the potato race. He also won the pole vault.

Judd was supreme in the remaining field events, winning the springboard and high jumps, and tying with Kinnunen in the shot put.

Medals were awarded to the men winning the first three places in each event. Tabulation of the score by classes gave the Sophomores first place.

1924 Indoor Interfraternity Athletic Meet

The annual interfraternity all-around athletic meet saw the overthrow of the champion Alpha Chi Rho team by Beta Upsilon. The fact that the race was close from the start to the finish was responsible for the widespread interest the meet aroused. Not until the mile run, the last event on the schedule, was the winner decided.

Beta Upsilon took the first two places in the fence vault while Alpha Chi Rho scored three times in the shot put.

Parnell had little difficulty in winning the high jump. Williams, favored to win the 85-yard dash, came through as expected; Sample and Seginak tied for second place.

The mile was the best event of the meet. Rea, Alpha Chi Rho star, winner of last year, won again; but Blanchard and Bogardus, Beta Upsilon, finished second and third respectively. This event, together with the points awarded for entering the greatest number of men, won the meet for Beta Upsilon.

The points scored were as follows:

Beta Upsilon	46 1-3
Alpha Chi Rho	44 1-2
Non-Fraternity	16 5-6

1924 Outdoor Interfraternity Track Meet

The 1924 Outdoor Inter-fraternity Track Meet, held late in May, 1924, was won by Alpha Chi Rho. It was the third victory for this fraternity and gave it permanent possession of the Hammerschlag trophy, emblematic of the championship. The team representing Beta Upsilon and the non-fraternity group gave the Chi Rhos keen competition all the way, but had to concede honors because of the stellar work of Rea, Williams, and Parnell. The first two scored thirteen points each, winning two firsts and a second apiece. Parnell scored an even dozen points with two firsts and a third. Judd won the high jump and pole vault, breaking the record for the former and equalling the latter record.

Though the track was comparatively slow, some fairly good times were turned in. Williams in winning both dashes, showed that he may some day run the hundred in close to ten flat. Rea's marks for the quarter and half were good. Bliss, running the two-mile, cut the record down to 10 min. 46 1-5 sec. Judd went eleven feet in the pole vault and cleared the bar at 5 ft. 10 3-4 in., in the high jump.

The contesting fraternities scored as follows:

Alpha Chi Rho	64 points
Beta Upsilon	45 points
Non-Fraternity	25 points
Phi Delta Theta	15 points

1924 Tennis Resume

As has usually been the case at Allegheny, rainy weather practically ruined the tennis season last spring. Members of the team had little or no time to practice and a number of the matches on the schedule had to be cancelled on account of rain and cold. Considering this handicap, and the difficulty of the scheduled matches, the Blue and Gold squad made a favorable showing.

Allegheny's lone victory was over Thiel at Greenville, where the Lutherans were defeated, 5-1. Many of the other matches were much closer than the scores would indicate.

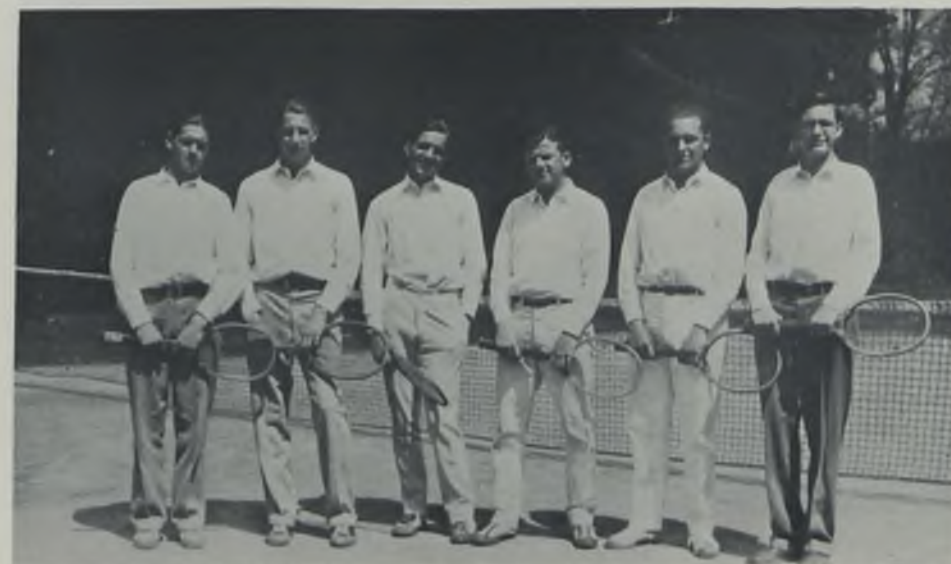

Quite a lot of interest in the sport brought out a large entry list for the tournament from which the following five men were selected for the squad: R. W. Pratt, Bair, McClurg, Dale, and Piper. Captain Pratt, in the singles, and McClurg and Bair in the doubles, were the most consistent winners throughout the year. Piper and Dale were also awarded their letters at the end of the season.

The scores of the matches played follow:

Allegheny	0		Westminster	6		Away
Allegheny	2		Thiel	4		Home
Allegheny	5		Thiel	1		Away
Allegheny	1		W. and J.	5		Home
Allegheny	0		W. and J.	6		Away
Allegheny	2		Westminster	4		Home

1925 Schedule

May 2—Pitt, at Meadville, cancelled.
 May 9—Allegheny 2, W. and J. 4, at Meadville.
 May 12—Allegheny 2, Westminster 4, at Meadville.
 May 14—Allegheny 2, Grove City 4, at Grove City.
 May 25—Pitt, at Pittsburgh.
 May 26—Duquesne, at Pittsburgh.
 May 27—W. and J., at Washington.
 May 28—Westminster, at New Wilmington.
 June 2—Duquesne, at Meadville.

1925 Tennis Prospectus

Weather conditions were such again that the tennis season was very late in starting and the men, consequently, were not in the best of form. Apparently more interest was taken in tennis this year than has been aroused for the past few years, and as a result there was a large entry list in the elimination tournament for the selection of the varsity. This tournament was begun as soon after the Easter vacation as the weather permitted and progressed slowly until at the time of the second match, with Westminster, the following men remained undefeated: Allen, Hough, Behrhorst and Miller. These men, together with Captain Piper, Bair, and McClurg, from last year's varsity, composed the squad.

The meet with Pitt was postponed twice on account of rain and finally had to be cancelled. The first meet of the season was with W. and J., in Meadville, May 9th. The down-staters succeeded in winning from the Blue and Gold, 4-2, after six hard-fought matches, in which McClurg and Hough starred for Allegheny.

The outlook for the remainder of the season is quite favorable as the team promises to be a much stronger combination than last season.

1925 Class Basketball

The 1925 class basketball season was a hectic one. Before the schedule opened, the sophs, last year's champs, and the freshmen were doped to fight it out for the championship. The juniors and seniors, on account of their poor showing of other years, were not considered in the running. But, the playing of the games tells a different tale.

The freshmen won all their games in the first round, the seniors two and the juniors one, while the sophs had lost every game. The freshmen won their fourth straight, this from the seniors, to open the second round, while the juniors were trimming the sophs. The following week the sophomores won from the seniors, their first victory, and the juniors surprised everybody by turning in a three-point victory over the freshmen. In the final games, the sophomores helped the junior cause by walloping the frosh, while the third year men easily toppled the seniors. As a result, the juniors and freshmen had to play off the tie. In the play-off, the freshmen won by piling up a big lead early in the game, which the juniors fought in vain to overcome.

The frosh team, made up of Allen and C. Cossman at forwards, E. Cossman at center, and Brace and Hudson at guards, was a fast, smooth-working aggregation, with Brace and Allen the outstanding stars. The juniors had Riemer and Anderson at forwards, Parnell at center, Dolde and Hanlon at guards. This team worked together well in all but a few games. Hanlon's guarding was good. The sophs' good finish was due largely to the work of Stewart and Salberg, fleet guards on the second-year combination. Fuller and Blackwell did the best work for the seniors.

Slocum, Taft, Merrill, Mong, Curtis
Greenwood, Hill, Ingram, Hariff

Swimming

Although two of the four meets on the varsity swimming schedule were defeats, the season was considered a success in every way. The defeats were at the hands of the two best swimming aggregations in this section—Pitt and the Oil City Y. M. C. A. teams. Pitt was exceptionally strong this year and handed the Blue and Gold a 51 to 14 drubbing. Allegheny also lost to the fast, well-balanced Oil City squad, 32½ to 26½. The victory might have gone to Allegheny had the Oil City men swum all the events scheduled. The season was opened and closed by meets with Thiel, the first at Greenville and the last at the college pool. Allegheny had little trouble in chalking up easy victories in these two meets to the tune of 46 to 13 and 45 to 14.

Manager Hill found great difficulty in making out a good schedule for this year, chiefly due to a dearth of teams in this district, and also because of a lack of sufficient funds to finance return meets. The financial success of the Pitt meet this year assures a much better schedule for next year.

Captain and Manager Hill, Slocum, and Hartman, members of last year's varsity, and several new men comprised this year's team. Hill was the individual star of the season and won many points in the distance, back stroke and breast stroke races. Slocum, Hartman, and Ingram handled the diving very well. Several freshmen added materially to the strength of the team. Curtis and Taft proved to be very fast in the sprints. Curtis, however, was out with a broken ankle and swam only in the first meet. Greenwood did good work in the breast stroke, back stroke and sprint events, and Mong ably seconded Hill in the distance races. Merrill was quite successful in the plunge and established a new college record for this event. Hariff did well in the plunge toward the end of the season.

Jones, Blanchard, Bogardus, Bentley, Devereux, Rea

Cross Country

Though a comparatively new sport at Allegheny, cross country is rapidly rising to a more and more secure place among the sports of the college. Under the efficient coaching of C. E. Hammett, quite a number of good distance runners have been developed and the showing of the team this past season was excellent.

Captain Rea, Jones, Bentley, Bogardus, Devereux, and Blanchard composed this year's sextet, which ran in four races, losing two and winning two. Pitt and Tech were both met at Pittsburgh, on different Saturdays. Pitt's team, which later won the Inter-collegiate Cross Country Championship, won an easy victory, but Carnegie Tech nosed out the Blue and Gold harriers by only a few points.

Westminster was easily defeated at home, on Homecoming Day, and Thiel came in a poor second to the Allegheny runners on the occasion of the Allegheny-Thiel football game at Greenville. All the letter men will return next year and with their experience and further training should win a majority of their meets next fall.

Publications.

Publications at Allegheny

Two factors have been of paramount importance in the development of publications at Allegheny into the highly perfected form which they now possess. First, since Allegheny is an arts college, much has been done to keep the literary atmosphere at a high level. The second reason for success in publications is the freedom of thought and speech accorded by the faculty to the undergraduate writers. The editors of the several college publications are restricted only to the limitations which the outside world imposes, namely,—honesty and deference to public opinion.

Probably the best way to show the rise of the school's literary efforts is to summarize, briefly, the history of Allegheny's several publications. This history begins with the history of the school itself. As early as 1815 there was a publication at Allegheny. In this year Timothy Alden, first President of the College, founded a monthly magazine known as the "Allegheny Magazine." It contained articles of general interest to the student body and was the fore-runner of the present "Literary Monthly." It was published until 1825, and then for some unknown reason, it ceased to appear.

Until 1876 little is heard of publications at Allegheny. In that year three men with literary inclinations, A. J. Maxwell, '79, A. C. Ellis, '78, and Wayne Whipple, '77, started an eight page monthly publication of newspaper style. Although this was known as the "Campus" it bore little resemblance to the "Campus" of today. It was essentially a literary publication, and contained little college news. In 1881 the paper was discontinued. It was re-established in 1885 and was changed from newspaper style to a smaller magazine form containing eighteen pages. It was also changed at that time to a bi-monthly. From this time on the "Campus" has had a continuous and successful career. Slowly its policy changed so that by the time the Kaldron appeared it had become a weekly, and an organ of news rather than of literary work.

The Kaldron made its debut at Allegheny in the spring of 1889. William McNair was the first editor. The book was about six by nine inches in size. Diagonally across the white front cover was stamped in gold "Kaldron". It contained about one hundred and seventy-five pages. The departments of that edition were very similar to the departments of this volume. The lack of photographs is very noticeable in the early Kaldrons, the cuts being of the old wooden variety.

Ever since its inception the Kaldron, with the exception of one year, has been published annually. Its purpose has been to gather into concise form the achievements and activities of the student body throughout the college year.

The "Literary Monthly" was first published in October, 1896. It contained 32 six by eight inch pages divided into four departments. The first department contained literary selections of general interest. Such noted people as Arthur L. Bates and Ida M. Tarbell were frequent contributors to the early "Lit." Departments of poetry, book review, and alumni news were also included in the magazine. The "Literary Monthly" contained much of the same type of material as did the early "Campus."

From these modest beginnings the publications of Allegheny have developed into an important and well organized part of college life. The publications have also made possible the Quill Club and Pi Delta Epsilon.

The Kaldron

To collect between two covers with a semblance of realism the activities of a year at Allegheny, to review its classes, its athletics, its publications, and its organizations is the task which the Kaldron has been performing for the past thirty-seven years.

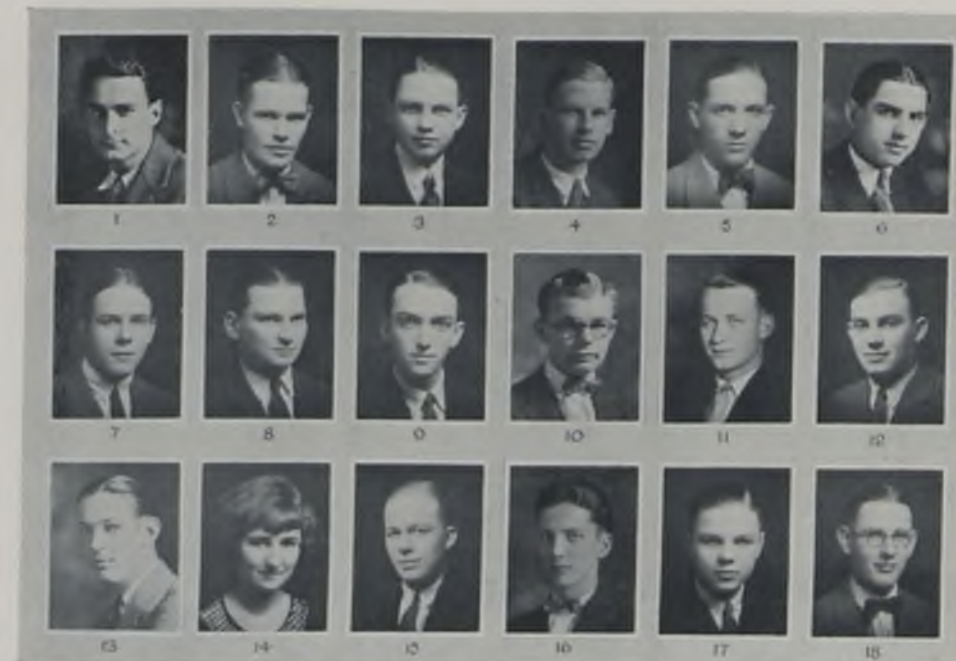

The Kaldron shows the great improvements in the college during these years as probably no other publication does. To trace the history of this annual would be merely to review a succession of one successful college year after another.

Always a student enterprise, the Kaldron exemplifies to the highest degree the excellence which publications have attained in this college. To facilitate the great amount of detail which is required in such a project, the Publications Board this year created the position of business manager of the Kaldron; the Board also voted a salary to both the editor and the manager, in order that they can give more time to the editing of the book. It is expected that this will aid in making this issue of the Kaldron even better than those of past years.

As with the other publications, positions on the Kaldron staff are open to all students, while advancement is won only through competition.

This year the Staff is organized into five distinct departments. The Class Department handles all material contained in the Faculty and Class Sections of the book. The Athletic Department includes all the material in the Athletic section including photographs, summaries, and team write-ups. The Activities Department has charge of all Clubs, Organizations, Publications, Forensics and all other non-athletic activities on the campus. Both the social and honorary fraternities are included in the work of the Fraternity Department, while the feature Department, better organized than in former years, is in charge of all feature material, including the humor and photograph sections.

The Campus

During the year 1924-25, the Campus fulfilled the mission which all good newspapers endeavor to fulfill, bringing interesting and important news to its readers. Each week the paper brought before its readers all of the important college happenings, as well as many incidents from other schools and the world at large. The success of this year's Campus can well be credited to the editorial staff. The organization of the staff is much the same as it was last year. Two new offices, however, have been created, that of Assistant Business Manager, and that of Society Editor. These additions increase the efficiency of the paper both from the news and the managerial standpoint.

In ever attempting to improve and widen its scope, the Campus this year added two departments to its columns. These are of interest not only to the undergraduates of Allegheny, but also to the alumni. The first department to be added was that of "World News". Many of the important and interesting happenings of the world in general are briefly noted in this department. The second new department was headed "Old Allegheny". In each issue of the paper some important event in the College's history was briefly summarized. This proved of great interest to all Campus readers.

The Campus is a member of the Inter-Collegiate Newspaper Association of the Middle Atlantic States. This association consists of a number of representative college newspapers, who through frequent conferences and conventions, promote co-operation among these publications, and attempts to codify in an informal way the ethics of collegiate journalism. The presidential straw vote which this organization promoted last fall is a concrete example of the type of co-operation it is sponsoring.

Throughout the year the Campus devoted itself to the interests of a united Allegheny. It has striven consistently to recognize no divisibility of loyalty between the college as a whole and the many groups into which the student body has been divided. Consequently the policy of the paper has been conservative, although in no way could it be considered reactionary.

Since its first appearance in 1896, the Literary Monthly has been devoted to the more strictly literary phases of Allegheny journalism. Throughout the early and varied part of its career, the "Lit" was the organ through which the collegiate essayist, poet, and short story writer brought his articles before the student body.

In recent years the lack of interest on the part student writers has made it impossible for this magazine to publish the same quality of material as it did in its earlier issues. The staff has received very little co-operation from either the student body or the faculty in its efforts to bring the magazine back to its earlier form.

This year the first issue of the "Lit" was noticeable for its humorous trend. This was an experiment, and if it is what the college wants, the staff will probably continue to issue this type of magazine.

"The Allegheny Alligator", the college humorous publication, was founded this year. The desire for such a publication had long been felt on the campus but it was not until this year that the project took definite form. The first semester was spent in securing the support and cooperation of the student body, the alumni, and the Publications Board. A staff was formed under the leadership of John M. Pratt, and after a number of delays the "Opening Number" appeared on April 1. The "Moving-Up Number" appeared on June 1. The reception accorded these two numbers as well as the quality of art work and humor insures the future success of the magazine.

Future of Journalism at Allegheny

Allegheny stands today upon the threshold of a new era of journalistic activity. In every field of college journalism her publications are well established and occupy a conspicuous place in the life of the campus. The past year particularly has witnessed a marked forward step in the founding of a humorous magazine, while many improvements have been made on the various other publications. They now compare favorably with those of any other college or university in the country, and few institutions of similar size can boast such a high type. There has been a marked increase in interest in this field during the last few years, and the resulting competition has made for a higher standard in the case of several of the publications. Allegheny is rightly proud of the contributions she has made to the writing world and boasts of several alumni who have international reputations as writers. Each year finds an increasing number of students going out from College to enter the field of journalism which offers unlimited possibilities to the ambitious worker. Already the administration has introduced a number of courses into the curriculum which tend to prepare the student for a career as a writer, and the enrollment in these courses reveals the possibility of a School of Journalism in the future.

Proof of the high quality of Allegheny journalism may be found in the existence here of a chapter of Pi Delta Epsilon, the national honorary journalistic fraternity. There are very few colleges the size of Allegheny which have succeeded in securing charters, while groups at many large universities have been refused membership simply because their publications did not measure up to the standards of the fraternity. This shows, in a measure, the place of prominence which Allegheny holds in the field of collegiate journalism at the present time, while the outlook for progress and improvement in the future is even brighter.

FORENSIC

Forensics at Allegheny

Debate and oratory is one of the leading student activities at Allegheny. Not only does the College engage in contests with other institutions, but it also encourages forensics on the campus by a highly developed system of intra-mural contests.

In the field of intercollegiate activities, Allegheny has earned an enviable reputation and ranks high among the colleges of this part of the country for the quality of speakers produced. In debating, her teams have a record of victories equaled by few colleges of the land. Nor is her reputation limited to this section alone, for every year the Oratorical Board receives letters from colleges in all parts of the country requesting dates on the Allegheny schedule. It is only the limited financial circumstances of the Board that prevents the adoption of an extensive program of debates each year. At present the schedule is limited to three or four debates during the season, but these are so arranged that the very best teams in the field are met.

Forensic relations are maintained with such schools as Western Reserve, Hamilton, University of Pittsburgh, Oberlin, Wooster, Dickinson, Colgate, Washington and Jefferson, Penn State, and Ohio Wesleyan, so that contests of the highest quality are assured. A record of only two defeats in the past six years is certainly one to be proud of, particularly with such schools as the above among the victims.

The past two years have also brought an innovation in the forensic program in the form of a freshman varsity debating team. The freshman teams of Penn State and Ohio Wesleyan have been met, and, if finances permit, an even more extensive program for the yearlings will be adopted next year.

Allegheny is a member of the Intercollegiate Civic Oratorical League, composed of eight colleges and universities in this district, and each year sends a representative (the winner of the Wakefield Contest) to the contest of this body. This year the contest was held in Ford Memorial Chapel.

As stated above, the intra-mural forensics are also developed to a high degree, and a number of contests of various kinds provide ample opportunities for training in the art of speaking. Several worthwhile prizes are offered by alumni of the college which furnish additional incentive to students to compete in these contests. The Freshman-Sophomore Debate, the Wakefield Oratorical Contest, and the Philo-Franklin Oratorical Contest are the principal events.

Every encouragement is given by the faculty to forensic activities. A fee is charged each student on the college bill both semesters, thus assuring the Oratorical Board of a definite income. College credit is given to debaters in recognition of their work on the team, while several courses in the curriculum of the English Language and Public Speaking departments give definite training in debate and oratory.

Although it is true that forensics do not play the important part in student life that they once did, nevertheless, they are still a potent force in moulding the student mind, and the training they give in accurate expression and clear thinking are still essential to the well educated man. Eloquence has given place to logic and reasoning, but the fundamental principles of oratory still hold good and are of permanent value. Whatever else may hold the attention of the student mind, forensics will remain always, as they have since colleges were founded.

What the Publications Board is to the publications of Allegheny, so the Oratorical Board is to forensics in the College. Although all students are members of the Oratorical Association, the Board, consisting of three faculty and three student members, is the guiding hand of all forensic activities. It arranges debates and other inter-collegiate contests, and in general keeps alive at all times an active interest in oratory and debate.

While much praise is due to the debating team as a whole, very little notice is given personally to the men who sacrifice so much of their time that this college activity may be a success. Next year the team will be greatly handicapped by the graduation of three men who have done much in the past two or three years to insure the success of the debating at Allegheny.

Ralph H. Demmler, graduating this June will leave a vacancy that is almost impossible to fill. He has been a member of the varsity team since his freshman year. His logic and experience have won for the team many debates that might otherwise have been lost.

Charles E. Hammett, Jr., will also be greatly missed when the 1925-26 forensic season opens. Not only has he been active on the varsity debating team for three years, but he has also been prominent in Allegheny oratorical contests. This year he was Allegheny's representative in the Intercollegiate Oratorical Contest as was Mr. Demmler last year.

Robert W. Leeper is the third of the debaters who graduates this June. His experience as a varsity debater has covered three seasons and in that time the team of which he was a member lost but two debates.

If it were not for the three team members who will be carried over to next season, A. Hughes Bartlett, John B. Gordon, and Edwin J. Schruers, together with the alternates, Robert J. Corbett, and R. Leroy Greenwood, the outlook for a successful season would be anything but promising. However, with these five men for a nucleus, a very successful season may be expected.

Resume of the Season

With a record of four victories and no defeats the Allegheny varsity debating squad came through a season which may be considered exceedingly successful. Allegheny was the only school debating this question, "Resolved: That the United States should ratify the Geneva protocol for the pacific settlements of international disputes," whose negative team won their side of the debate. This gives Allegheny an exceedingly enviable record among those schools who debated this question. With the exception of last year, the team has not been defeated in five years.

The question argued in all debates was the one stated above. The affirmative side of the proposition was upheld by Messrs. John Gordon, E. J. Schruers, and Robert W. Leeper, with Robert J. Corbett as alternate. The team to uphold the negative consisted of Messrs. C. E. Hammett, A. H. Bartlett, R. H. Demmler, with Leroy Greenwood as alternate.

With four experienced debaters from last year's varsity team, Gordon, Leeper, Hammett, and Demmler, the debate committee had very good material upon which to lay the foundation for this year's successful team. Bartlett and Schruers, alternates on last year's team, were also available. The usual try-outs were held, open to all students of the college. Many turned out and finally, after much difficulty, Corbett and Greenwood, the two new alternates, were selected.

The season opened on February 21 with a dual meet with Western Reserve University. Last year Reserve defeated Allegheny twice but this season the tables were turned and when the results were announced the Cleveland school had lost on both of their arguments by 2-1 scores. After these victories both Allegheny teams redoubled their efforts to continue the successful season. Their efforts did not go unrewarded. In the first leg of a triangular debate Allegheny's affirmative team defeated the negative team of Oberlin College by a 3-0 vote on the evening of March 12 in Ford Memorial Chapel. The following evening Allegheny's negative team defeated the affirmative team of Wooster College, at Wooster, Ohio, by a score of 2-1.

This concluded the all too brief, but very successful season. Allegheny would probably have emerged just as successfully from a more extensive schedule. The question argued, however, was a difficult one on which to collect material. None of the schools debating upon it had as extensive a schedule as usual.

Much credit for the results of the season is due to the efforts of the debate committee composed of Dr. S. S. Swartley, Chairman, Prof. A. S. Emig, and Prof. B. J. Hovde.

But five members of this year's squad will return to school next fall. This will necessitate much work to build up a team equal to that of this year, but with the material available from the freshman team and other sources, the outlook for next year is quite encouraging.

Freshman Debate

The Team

LOUIS A. SHELLENBERGER (1) ROBERT L. KIRKPATRICK (2) ANGELÒ STRABLEY (3)
J. RUSSELL MUNNELL, Alternate (4)

Following the example of last year a Freshman team as well as a varsity team represented Allegheny in the field of intercollegiate debate. Last year only one debate was held, that with the Penn State Freshmen. This season two intercollegiate contests were held, one with Ohio Wesleyan and the other with Penn State. The idea is proving so successful that next year, undoubtedly, several contests will be arranged.

The team first met the representatives of the Sophomore class and won the decision in a closely contested debate. After starting the season so auspiciously, the team set to work with renewed vigor in preparation for its first intercollegiate appearance against Ohio Wesleyan Freshmen. The debate was held in Ford Memorial Chapel, on March 26, with Allegheny upholding the affirmative side of the question: "Resolved, That capital punishment should be abolished." After a contest that called forth superb arguments and oratory from both teams, a decision was rendered in favor of Ohio Wesleyan. The "Expert Judge" system was used in this debate, one man, Prof. L. P. Sieg, Dean of the College of Liberal Arts, University of Pittsburgh, rendering the decision. Prof. L. D. McClean presided.

The second debate for the first year men, that with Penn State, was held the night of March 31, in Ford Memorial Chapel. The team again upheld the affirmative side of the question: "Resolved, That capital punishment should be abolished." Profiting by the mistakes of their previous defeat, they presented an argument that could not be refuted and won the debate by a two-to-one vote.

FRESHMAN DEBATE SUMMARY

November 19	Freshmen.....	2	Sophomores	1
March 26	Freshmen.....	0	Ohio Wesleyan	1
March 31	Freshmen.....	2	Penn State	1

Freshman-Sophomore Debate

Since it is practically the only inter-class competition in which the Freshman have an equal chance with the other classes, the Freshman-Sophomore debate is an event which occasions the keenest rivalry between the two under classes. As usual, the affair attracted much enthusiastic attention from both classes this year.

Selection of the teams was conducted as in past years; the Freshman team was chosen by open competition, and the Sophomore team was elected by the class. It consisted of practically the same team which represented the class last year.

The contest was held in Ford Memorial Chapel, on November 19. The Sophomores, represented by Reuben L. Cain, Robert J. Corbett, Cyril B. Hartman, and Robert E. Allen, alternate, debated the negative side of the question, "Resolved, That the honor system of examination should be re-established at Allegheny." The Freshman team, upholding the affirmative side of the question, consisted of Lewis Shellenberger, Robert Kirkpatrick, Angelo Strabley, and Russell Munnell, alternate.

The Judges, Professors L. D. McClean, Charles W. Gill, and A. L. Funk, gave a decision of two to one in favor of the Freshmen. Ralph H. Demmler, president of the Oratorical Association, presided at the debate.

With the exception of two years ago, this is the first time the Freshmen have broken the long standing record of Sophomore victories.

Wakefield Contest

Probably the most noteworthy event of Allegheny's forensic program is the Wakefield Oratorical Contest. Mr. James A. Wakefield, class of '90, of Pittsburgh, offers each year a prize of fifty dollars for the best original composition delivered at this contest. It is held each year early in December and all men of the sophomore, junior, and senior classes are eligible to compete for the prize.

This year seven men contested for the prize in Ford Memorial Chapel, December 6. The prize was won by Charles E. Hammett, of the class of 1925. His oration, "A Heritage," dealt with the subject of Child Labor. The speaker showed the way in which captains of industry are profiting by the exploitation of the youth of America. He closed his speech by pleading for the enforcement of laws which now prosecute this form of crime and for more legislative action which will give the youth of America their rightful heritage.

John M. Pratt, who received second place, made an eloquent appeal for the abolition of the death penalty in an oration entitled "Capital Punishment." The other contestants and their subjects were Samuel Warren, "Negro Migration and Community Adjustment"; Robert W. Leeper, "Sovereignty"; John W. Moultrie, "A New Spirit of Humanity"; Reuben L. Cain, "The Power of Union"; and Edwin J. McKay, "America and World Peace."

Dr. I. R. Beiler acted as chairman at the contest. The judges were: E. A. Hempstead, O. Clare Kent, and Rev. G. Morton Walker, all of Meadville.

As in past years, the winner of this contest represented Allegheny in the Intercollegiate Oratorical League contest held late this spring.

Philo-Franklin Oratorical Contest

Another outstanding feature of Allegheny's forensic program is the Philo-Franklin Oratorical Contest. It is an annual affair, usually held early in the spring. An endowment fund of six hundred dollars was established by the old Philo-Franklin Literary Society, the income from which is used for prizes in the contest. A sum of two hundred dollars has recently been added to the original six hundred dollars. There are three prizes: twenty-five dollars for first place, ten for second, and five for third.

Six speakers participated in this year's program which was held in Ford Memorial Chapel on April 22. John M. Pratt, '25, received the twenty-five dollars for the best oration. Robert J. Corbett, '27, and Theodore Averbach, '28, received second and third prizes respectively.

The subject of Mr. Pratt's winning oration was "Capital Punishment." By the use of statistics he showed the impracticability of the death penalty as a punishment for crime. After developing this point he showed that countries practicing capital punishment were not on a moral plane equal to countries with other penalties for murder. He concluded his speech with a plea for a more humane form of punishment.

The other contestants and their subjects were Robert J. Corbett, "The Hope Ahead," a plea for international cooperation; Theodore Averbach, "Our Country's Constitution," an inspirational speech concerning the greatness of our constitution; E. Alexander Hill, "Thrift"; Clarence Avey, "America and the Youth Movement"; and Joe Lopushansky, "Strangers in Our Midst."

Intercollegiate Oratorical Contest

Each year the Civic Oratorical League composed of seven colleges and universities in this district hold a contest in which each school is entitled to one speaker. The schools comprising the organization are Wooster, Oberlin, Colgate, Washington and Jefferson, Ohio Wesleyan, University of Pittsburgh, and Allegheny. Each has a definite method of elimination in order that its best under-graduate speaker may represent it at this contest; Allegheny's representative at these contests is the winner of the Wakefield Oratorical Contest.

This year the contest was held at Allegheny. The representatives of the seven schools met in Ford Memorial Chapel on the evening of May 8, to uphold the honor of their respective institutions and to compete for the cash prizes offered for the first two places, thirty and twenty dollars respectively. Charles E. Hammett, Jr., was Allegheny's entrant.

The contest was won by Henry Friedman, of Ohio Wesleyan. The title of his oration was "Modern Barrabas." Second prize was won by Elmer E. Volkel, Wooster, for his oration "The Figure in the Tent." The other speakers and the subjects of their speeches were as follows: Charles E. Hammett, Allegheny, "A Heritage"; P. V. Marino, Washington and Jefferson, "America and International Peace"; Charles W. Jones, Oberlin, "The New Social Concord"; Harold B. Stein, Colgate, "The Political Religion of the Nation"; George W. Davis, University of Pittsburgh, "Racialism, National and International"; Leon Ginsberg, Western Reserve, "Trial by Newspaper."

Acting-President C. F. Ross, of Allegheny, was the presiding officer. The three judges were Dr. Harry Burton Boyd, a pastor of Erie; Harry Smith, Assistant District Attorney of Allegheny County; and Emmett L. Bennett, of Cleveland, Ohio, a specialist in municipal administration.

During the 1924-25 season the Men's Glee Club gave more concerts than it did in the two previous years combined. This success is to be attributed not only to the untiring efforts of the members of the club, but also to the perseverance of Lee Hess Barnes who worked faithfully to make the club a credit to Allegheny.

The club made its first appearance at Fredonia, N. Y., on December 2, 1924. The two following evenings the club sang at Warren and Oil City. On December 15 and 16 concerts were given in Pleasantville, Oil City and Franklin. Early in March, 1925, the club gave a successful concert at Conneaut Lake and closed its concerts abroad with a program at Saegertown on April 29. The season culminated on May 3, with a very successful home concert in Ford Memorial Chapel.

In addition to the annual concert given in Ford Memorial Chapel on the evening of April 28, the Girls' Glee Club gave equally successful but shorter concerts during the year. In the centennial celebration at the Stone Church the Girls' Club combined with the Men's Club and gave a much-appreciated concert to aid in the observance of "Allegheny Night." A short concert was also rendered during the year at one of the regular chapel services.

After a lapse of two years, Allegheny is again represented by a band. This year the band is composed of thirty-five pieces, the largest one that has ever been organized on the Campus. The band was a big success this year owing to the untiring efforts of Prof. Hovde and the management of Hugh Parker. Concerts were given at all home football games and several other performances were staged inside.

This year, in place of the one long play, Le Petit Salon presented two shorter ones. "Le Medecin Malgre Lui," by Moliere, a comedy of the seventeenth century was cleverly given under the direction of Prof. Richard F. Mezzotero. One of the features of this play was the appropriate costume effects worn by the characters. The other production was Labiche's "La Grammaire," a one-act comedy with a modern setting, given under the direction of Miss Violet Gardner. Both plays were presented the evening of March 24 in Ford Memorial Chapel to a large audience of students and townspeople. Pictures of the important scenes in these plays are given on page 225.

Since its inauguration in 1916 the Men's Senate has played a very important part in the life of the College. It not only draws up and enforces college customs and rules, but aids in student elections and in disciplinary matters.

The Senate is composed of one representative from each fraternity, elected by the student body. Each group nominates three men, whose names then go before the students for final choice. This system proved effective in furthering inter-fraternity relations as well as a means of government for the men of the College.

Le Petit Salon, the French club of the College, is composed of those students majoring in, or particularly interested in the study of French language and literature. Meetings are held monthly at which topics of current interest in art, literature, and drama are discussed. Each year the club sponsors the production of a French play. This year two short plays were presented with remarkable success. They were Moliere's "Medecin Malgre Lui" and Labiche's "La Grammaire."

The Modern Problems Club was organized for the purpose of creating interest in current events. Students who are majoring in Economics are eligible.

The Modern Problems Club is composed of men of the two upper classes who are taking advanced work in the departments of Economics or Political Science. The monthly meetings usually take the form of discussions upon current economic and political problems. An out-of-town banquet is usually held sometime during the year.

The Oxford Club was organized for the purpose of helping those men who intend to enter Christian service as a life work. The club still upholds those ideals and has been a great aid to the men on the Hill who expect to go into this field. This year the club has a large membership as usual.

The Forum is probably the oldest student organization on the Campus. It is the survivor of the old college literary societies which played such an important part in student life fifty years ago. The purpose of the organization is to keep alive the interest in forensics, as well as to provide practice and training in public speaking for its members. Membership is open to all men of the College. An original oration contest is held every year at which prizes are offered for the best oration.

ALLEGHENY COLLEGE

VOLUME I

FOUR - WORD

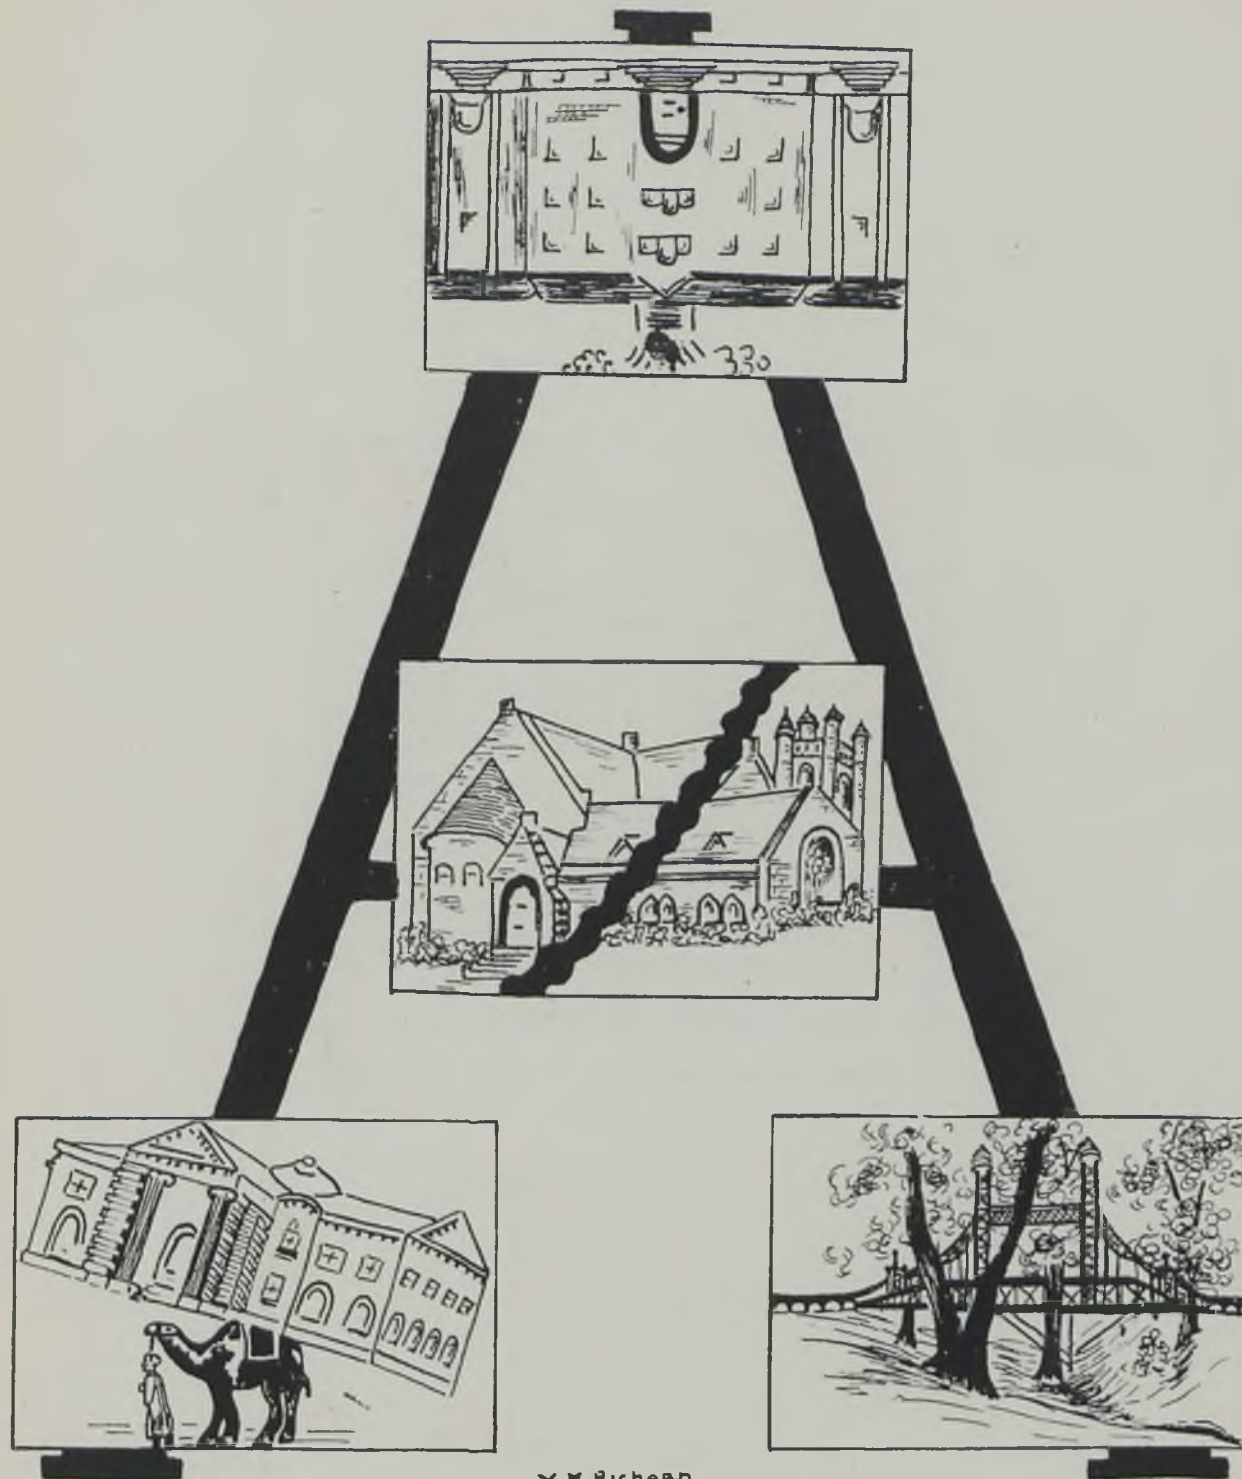

Behold The Rusty Roaster

This, the first panic of its kind ever achieved, is thrown to the four winds with the fear that when you have grown feeble in body and mind it may recall nightmares of the time served in Allegheny and will create a longing for the spirits distilled for you in those undernourished days when the Cozy Corner was shut down. . . . In this pandora we attempt to misrepresent accurately and thoroughly the events that occurred from the time you endowed the college till they tried to give you the gate in June. If we have succeeded in any measure, Heaven help you.

DEDICATION

To Mr. Ricardo Forensic Intermezzo
Premier of Prima Donnas
Producer of Gibberish Comedios
Superlative Egotist
Stewdent by gollio
Bushwa ad infinitum
Half of this tissue of The Rusty Roaster
Is affectionately dedicated

To Mr. Tulate Lily Twinsix
He of the lady-like voice,
Of the class of Mollusca,
Delver into viscera,
Of the slender Gluteus Maximus,
Consort of quartered corpses,
The very nerve and fibre of the other
Half of this tissue of The Rusty Roaster
Is anatomically dedicated

Hail to "Ozzie," the pride of his class. Did he not, single handed and by his fighting will alone, save the day for Dear Old Alleghe when he won the Knitting and Hemstitching honors from a hard-fought field? Oz was right there on the croquet team this year and won fame in many a thrilling contest. Oswald intends to take up child culture unless he has an offer to play with some orchestra, as he is an accomplished fluter.

Dear little Vellie has always tried to be one of the boys and she sure can high jump and box—oh, you ought to watch her when she boxes. But she has never had a date—no, she just can't see why all these girls want to go out all the time with fellows, they don't seem to want to have any fun—all they do is go away where no one is and sit and talk. Now what's the fun in that? Vellie would much rather play a game of basketball than have a date any time, and besides she has never been asked for a date.

Willie came to school a crass country youth. He has spent four years and we don't know how much money trying to find out what it is all about. He plays the piano beautifully, but mother says he should not go out with these rough boys so his chief attraction has been the library of nights where he sits and shyly ogles the damsels. And I learned about women from her. He is always to be seen about the campus on windy days.

Otta is our little vamp of the class and some class. She loves to attend all the big parties—by parties we mean dances. She has her hook and line out for bids before the date of the party is known, even to the prospective fish, and she can assume the most lovable and devoted affection toward a victim which makes him think he has been gathering daisies all her life. Ah, but "after the ball is over" it is the ice box for him. She would walk a mile from a camel.

Old Drink is a familiar figure about the campus with his snappy celluloid collar, his angelic face, and his misshapen hip. He assumes a worldly and sophisticated look and struts about the campus trying to buffalo the public into thinking he is the adamant lad. But we know you, Drink, old kid, you're just a nice young fellow trying to make your way in the world. He has struggled through four years of college without cracking a book but he sure has had a good time. Here's to you, Drink, "may the best of the years that are to come be worse than the worst of the years that have passed."

LETTA WEIS UPP, R.V.B.

Ladies Aid.

Letta thinks the Campus is something you walk on—and maybe it is. She also thinks dates are something they grow in hot places—and maybe they are. But her worst blunder was to think that walking home from a date is what you do after the show—there she is all wrong. Letta has been the shining light of the Ladies Aid Society for the past two years and has done great work in raising a sinking fund for the Home For Detected Blackheads.

ATHLETICS

LUCIFER SATANICUS
A devil on the field and a match for anyone. He sure played a hot game this year.

CAPTAIN BILLY
Off down the field with a whiz and a bang. He's no joke on a play but keeps well under cover.

Football

The team has finished a more than successful season—they won the game. Dean Ross, our flashy little right end, has been troubled with sickness quite a bit this term but he didn't let that be an excuse for cutting. Swartley has been on the bench all season with a bad case of growing pains but will be with us again next year bigger and better. Dad Ling saw stars in practice one day but is now in good physical shape. Mezzotero and Packard got badly muscle bound from rubbing the men down and were forced to lay off for a while this fall, and Akers, our little water boy, fainted from exhaustion while on the field in the Woodsville game. Elliott was out for the team this fall but the game was all Greek to him and he was kept on the bench, while Henke tried out for guard but got a bad case of Summum Bonum and a priori in his left knee which necessitated his withdrawal. Several ringers were called in in order to make up a team to play the great Woodsville game. For write-up of this stupendous game see page 230.

OWNES PLENTY ACRES
Right Gardener
This little fellow has been a flash ever since he entered the kindergarten. He's a real basketball player, especially good at carrying the basket around on his arm.

Basketball Season 1925

Terrible. That's the only adjective that can apply to the basketball season just past. Of all the blankety-blank, blank blank, blank teams, this one sure was the blankest. Whose fault was it? Well, in the first place there was no coach. It was rumored that Cy Hartman wanted the job, but the Athletic Board wanted a younger man.

Then, in the second place, there was no team. McClean and Schultz, forwards, were both afflicted with Charley horses all season. Emig and Henke showed promise of making a wonderful pair of guards. Emig was to take care of the syllogisms and Henke the universals. But, Emig flunked out completely in the examinations and Henke just squeezed through, and was ineligible. Finally, Beiler, who had been picked for the center job, dislocated his jaw while wrestling with the synoptic problem.

But, the team came through the schedule undefeated. That was clever of them. Manager Gilmer cancelled all the games.

SIMPLE SAMSON SWARTLEY
Shotputter Supreme

When this great coal-heaver threw down his shovel and picked up the shot,—well, he'll probably be on the next Olympic team. He has only been in college nine years and is captain for next summer.

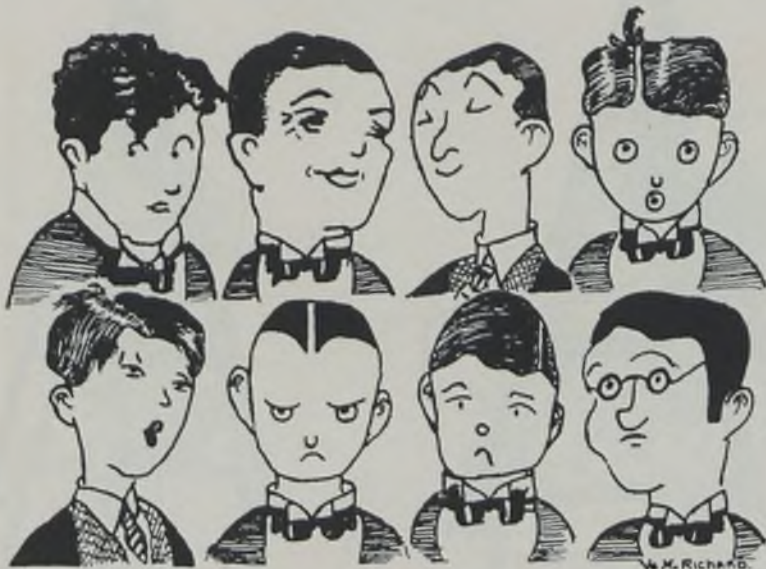

Track Season 1925

Things were looking pretty bad when Coach Elliott called out the candidates for the track team early this year. Littell, star pole-vaulter, had graduated and the new freshman candidate for the event, Woodring, has not made the training weight yet. Hovde, the sensational Scandinavian distance runner, entered school this year, however, and should garner quite a few points and hours in the history and poli sci medley.

Packard and Mezzotero are taking care of the sprints in fine style, while Darling and Lee are wielding their shovels in a hot fight for the honors in throwing the discuss and other things.

Head Coach Elliott decided after the first track meet, which was with the Odd Fellow's Home and which was lost, 175 9/6 to 456 11/278, that he would not shave until the team had won a meet. Since then the Fifth Ward A. C., the Meadville Theological School, and the Thiel College tennis team have been met, and Elliott hasn't shaved yet.

CLUBS

Damming, Sartman, Butcher, Reylonds
Piping, Seven, Weeper, Flea

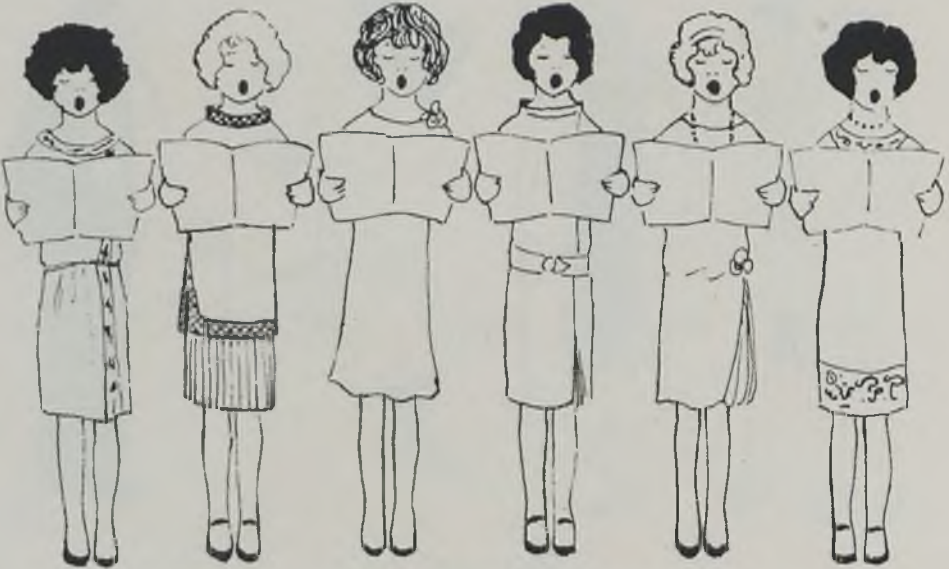

Men's Glee Club

The Glee Club has had an exceptionally good season, taking trips to Guy's Mills, Clancy's Restaurant, Cemetery Ravine, and Kerrtown. After a season so replete with howling successes they plan extension of their travelling policy and are contemplating a trip to the County Home if the weather is good and the boys can secure permission from home to make such a venturesome voyage.

Sartman, the sepulchral burytone, he of the commanding presence, proved to be the hit of the season, being hit on three occasions with putrescent fruit while the rest of the club escaped with only minor injuries. He is a whole orchestra in himself, as he is both base and viol.

Damming, with the Teddy Roosevelt smile, entranced his audience with his pearly teeth and his winning ways. Piping and Butcher couldn't wear their tuxes to have their picture taken for the Rusty Roaster—the only one available when they were looking for them was Beech's.

The quartette functioned between the halves so as not to allow the audience to get time to themselves to hold an indignation meeting or a lynching party. At Kerrtown happened the only fatality of the season—the audience died and he was buried the following day.

Drizzel, Badford, Eyesocker, Wheeling, Charleston, Van Rotten

Girls' Glee Club

This year the Girls' Glee Club is made up of six members—either six or forty-six, we can't remember which. Nevertheless the other forty are so terrible that no mention should be made of them here.

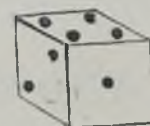

The personnel of the club includes Miss Drizzel, a soprano of no little ability. Her name is the only description we can think of to express our appreciation of her wonderful voice. If any of you have ever been out in the rain, you will understand what we mean. Miss Badford gives us a pain just like any Bad Ford. Miss Eyesocker, although she is one of the six foremost singers in the organization, surely gives the Club a black eye. The Misses Wheeling and Charleston both hail from West Virginia. We all wish them a safe journey back home where they came from. Miss Van Rotten is the type of a singer who tries to sing "Down in the Deep." Some think the Van should be omitted.

Concerts were given in the Chapel, Ford Memorial Chapel, and at Allegheny College. Contributions at the concerts including cabbages, eggs, etc., were gratefully received. These concerts aided the other girls in the Hall to have an extra date and pursue their art of gold digging. Needless to say they (not the Glee Club) were very successflu the past season.

Honorary Fraternities

Alpha Chi Sigma, better known as the Phi Psi Sigdelt lodge, is by choice one of the most exclusive fraternities on the campus. They look like a tough bunch of boys until they come out with their adornment of flowers. Is the local florist an Alpha Chi Sigma man?

Phi Beta Phi is another one of the money making organizations on the Hill. Every year this club delights the school by having a Podunk circus and calling it an "Open House." Its purpose is to have the missing link a member of their organization. Thus far they are doing very well.

Pi Delta Epsilon stands for "Put Down Everything." This is the only gambling Fraternity on the Hill which admits it. Meetings are held every month twice a year. Bring your tops and come.

Phi Beta Kappa is an organization copied after that well known group called Phi Bater Kapper. It was very easy to get a photograph of one of its members who was typical of the entire group.

Kappa Phi Kappa is an Educational Fraternity. Its purpose is to try and educate its members. Thus far the Fraternity has not made much progress but it is hoped that their purpose may be realized some day. Their motto seems to be, "In numbers there is strength." This is the same motto Rockefeller used.

The outstanding feature of the Delta Sigma Rho Fraternity is its line. It is so well developed that its members use it when fishing or hanging out clothes.

Phi Sigma Iota is the outstanding Honorary Sorority on the Campus. Recently it became national in one state. The National Secretary has a hard time keeping in touch with the other chapter.

OLSEN'S SOOTATORIAM

FINIS

Now that practically everything has received a thorough roasting we feel that our labor is well done. This may seem half baked to you, but to us it is pretty hot. If, perchance, you have received more than your desert, withhold your scorching comment and laugh with the rest of us.

Kaldron Komic Kalendar

SEPTEMBER.

13. First Day of Registration. Fraternities dust off house plans and lead pipe.
16. More Registration. New Dean makes a decided hit. Men all flock over to get acquainted.
18. First Day of Chapel. Students look over new faculty members. Also first day of classes. We're off!
19. 1924 styles in frosh millinery appear. Senate members settle their respective college bills.
20. Initial sock inspection and oratorical contest for Frosh. New college band announced. Initial practice finds Faust, Beyer and Merrill on hand with lots of wind as usual.
22. Women's Fraternities begin official mud-slinging. Varsity gets big write-up in city papers. Parnell receives offer from Cluett, Peabody & Co.
23. Kaldron Staff gets under way. Frosh begin to get guided at first guidance lecture. Campus makes its bow for the year.
25. Annual Y. M. Y. W. Reception at Cochran. "Your face is perfectly simple but I can't remember your name."
26. Sophs entertain the Frosh at a wet party up on Prospect Street. Student Senate gets a much-needed bath. Annual bonfire and Pep meeting with parade and free show down town.
27. Little tiger! Big tiger! Dickinson, 0; Allegheny, 7.
29. Rain! College appears en masse, attired in Taylor's slickers.
30. Schultz speaks in Chapel. But not on his trip of last year—thank goodness.

OCTOBER.

1. Frosh co-eds step out in green. Women's senate follows example of the men's.
2. Pan-HELL party at Armory. Several girls campused for improper dancing. "All that heavenly music gone to waste." Brace loses socks at chapel.
4. Allegheny, 6; West Virginia, 35. Oh, well!
5. Weary wanderers wobble back from West Virginia.
6. Weeping, gnashing of teeth, catty epithets—sororities get tired slinging mud and "sew-up" prospective pledges.
7. Songsters, and those who think they are try out for Glee Club.
8. Anybody seen "Little Jessie James"? Allegheny gets more publicity in city papers. Senate holds midnight meeting to talk it over.
10. Band gets measured for uniforms. Surprising increase in number of candidates.
11. Official pledge day at Hulings. Alas, it is too late, for some are lost forever.
12. Sororities decorate pledges with posies and parade them to church for the world to see.
14. Real old time PEP meeting at Cochran for the Thiel game.
15. Y. M. stages gigantic campaign for members. Merrill goes to prayer meeting to see what becomes of his dollar.
16. Campus holds straw vote for President in Chapel. Parnell and Andy Gump tie with three votes each.
17. Inter-Frat party at the R. U. House. No, the punch was not spiked!
18. Allegheny, 14; Thiel, 0. Greenville police jail the hoys for celebrating too boisterously.
21. Kaldron photographer begins taking snaps. "The birdie" gets some awful shocks.
23. The team sets out for Bean Town after a rousing send-off. Some of the hoys talk about humming over to the Hub.
25. Boston, 13; Allegheny, 0. But they had to work hard to do it. And the "coal-miners" from Pennsylvania made a hit anyway.
26. The heroes return from the Boston Tea (?) Party. Riemer gets caught rooking the R. R.

29. Delts beat the Fi Gams 6 to 0 at football, but Brace is elected Frosh president, so it isn't such a bad day.
30. Mac says that the "Marriage of Figaro, Operetta Comique" wasn't a bit comique.
31. Dr. Miles proves to be the best Alleghie rooter after all. The Fi Delts serenade Hooligans. Few casualties. Janitor spends all night picking up alarm clocks and shoes, etc.

NOVEMBER.

1. The team helps Grove City celebrate home-coming day by bringing home the proverbial pork siding.
2. Hulings reported quiet. (Between 2 and 5 a. m. only—and still they talked in their sleep.)
3. P-jamma P-rade. Coolidge elected. All the Boys serenade Hooligans.
6. Embryo editors enjoy Pi Delt cider and doughnuts. The lodge looks over prospective fish.
7. Y. M. holds huge pep meeting. Grand total of 35 present. Cider and doughnuts second night in a row. That's bad!
8. Home-coming Day. Allegheny, 7; Westminster, 0. Freshmen do the balloon dance.
9. Y. M. Cabinet retreats to the water front at Conneaut. We can't find out why, and we'd rather not draw any conclusions.
12. The Alligator is hatched from Brother J. Pratt's fertile cerebrum. One look at the staff assures a pretty funny paper.
14. Inter-Sorority party postponed. Looks like the girls are trying to get out of entertaining us.
15. Whole College helps to get "Gertie's Garter". (The faculty must have thought they were going to Chapel—at least most of them sat up front.)
16. First snow fall of the year. The yellow buttons on the frosh acps prove to be good targets.
17. Dr. Darling feeds the animals in the zoo. (He had to do something for the poor things—they were listening to the girls try out for Glee Club.)
18. Frosh defeat Sophs in debate. Corbett's line of bull fails for the first time in history.

WAKEFIELD

19. James missing again. It is reported that several showers, quizzes, physics, and library books have also been taken.
20. Waynesburg, 0; Allegheny, 28. Guess that isn't giving the Yellow Jackets a good stinging.
22. Harold Lloyd in "Hot Water". He's not the only one—we nearly got boiled when we got hold of the wrong spigot in the showers today.
23. College mourns the death of President Hixson.
24. Thanksgiving recess—Sweet visions of turkey, dressing, neck-ing, etc.

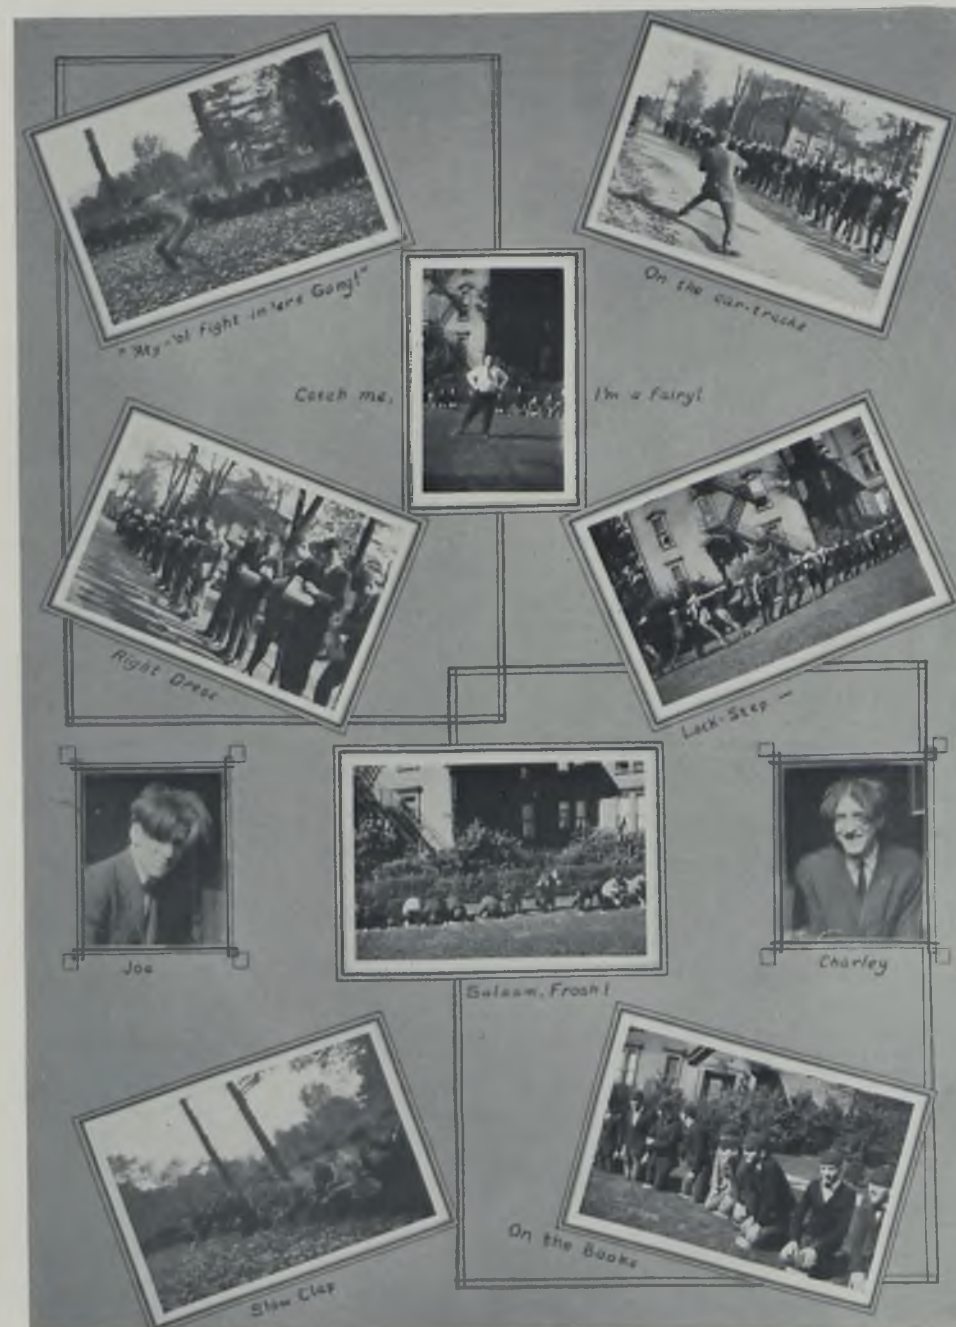

DECEMBER.

2. The turkey must have been pretty tough—at least most of us look ragged out when we arrived back.
3. Glee Club tantalizes Fredonia, Warren, and Corry. We don't see how they got away with it when the three towns are so near together.
4. Charlie Hammett, Jr., cleans up a cool fifty by taking the honors in the Wakefield Oratorical Contest.
5. The remainder of the Glee Club stagger into town after pleasant time at Corry Elks Club.
6. More fall parties. (No one hurt in the falls.) Usual campaign for dress suits.
8. Passing of the time and foot worn steps of old Bentley. (But, Oh, what they piled there instead!)
9. Senior theses abolished. Those who have already started are prostrate. The rest have had cases of hysterics.
10. Pi Delts initiate and banquet. Several brothers overcome by the vile ropes provided by the committee in charge.
12. We begin to get used to using the Fi Bait door to get into Bentley. Faculty really looks jealous.
14. Letters from girls at home increase in number, volume, and quality. Out-going mail at Hooligans noticeably increased.
16. Football banquet. Annual tussel with half roast chicken. Hanlon elected captain.
18. The "Lit" makes first appearance of the year. Freshmen mistake it for the much-touted Alligator.
19. Home, sweet home. Seventeen days of life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness.

JANUARY.

6. Back again! "College cases" together after long separation—and more New Year resolutions are shattered. That is those that weren't busted a week ago.
7. Announcement of exam schedule. Frosh fail to realize what it all means. Oh, to be so young and innocent!
8. The Inter-Sorority party comes off at last. (It's a wonder they didn't wait till bids were out for Spring parties.)
10. Class teams get under way. Juniors and Freshmen get beat. Three guesses who won.
12. Doc Ross announces that he will be absent next week—and then we sing "Praise God from whom all blessings flow."

1925

14. Allegheny, 32; Thiel, 10. Not so bad for a practice game.
15. Alligator becomes a reality—at least the staff holds another bull session.
16. B. U.'s win track meet. Barber is outstanding star.
17. Pi Delt's win swimming meet. (They were all wet to start with, giving them an unfair advantage.) Allegheny, 24; West Virginia, 14. Revenge is sweet.
19. A. X. P. gives up the plaque to B. U.'s at smoker. Virgil caught experimenting with the vile weed.
21. Last day before exams. Campus appears bordered in black. Atmosphere of learning pervades the fair green (?) campus.
22. The beginning of the end. Faculty sworn in as deputy police for the occasion.
24. Eclipse of the sun. Exams postponed so we can have a look. Astronomy class accused of cribbing.
25. The list of casualties continues to grow. We begin to wonder what made us come to college anyway.
26. "Dad" Ling still on the job with his cohorts of proctors.
27. The boys begin borrowing tuxes for the Prom.
28. Girls begin having hairs curled. The committee begins to worry about the prom.
29. The end of exams at last. Mr. Wagner begins shoveling out the gym.
30. Hurrah for the Junior Prom. We guess college isn't so bad after all. Committee has a hard time making up financial deficit?

FEBRUARY.

1. Vacation. Spoiled by our anxiety in watching every mail for the bad news.
2. The worst is out. Lot's of surprises. Virgil is prostrated when little brother is unceremoniously bounced.
3. Registration again. Archbold sticks around to see that Doc Ross gets everyone registered O. K.
4. Classes commence again. "Knowledge is power" said Mr. Wagner as he tossed the exam books into the furnace.
5. Day of Prayer for colleges (and for students, also).
6. Prayer inefficacious. Grades out. We learn why we were or were not bounced. Copious tears of joy and sorrow.
7. The Wolf is turned away from Allegheny's door.
8. Judd out after a bad fall. (He seems to have fallen some time ago, but that didn't effect his playing.)
9. Swimmers wring out a tank victory over Thiel.
10. Basketball team rings up a win over Westminster.
11. Phi Psi roll barrells and butcher.
13. If this cold weather keeps up, hell is going to freeze over pretty quick.
14. Valentine day. Extra mail (male) service for Hooligans. Some of our number feel almost as much at home as on April 1.
15. Miss Cotton takes possession of her new office. Cafeteria style of registration now. Faculty now find it difficult to read each other's mail "by mistake."
16. We note that some of the freshmen have a decided disinclination to be seated.
17. Headline—"Faculty member held up, on the way home." They should not allow college professors to drink that much.
18. Hammett and Bartlett stage "Face on the Barroom Floor" scene in Chapel.
19. Debaters won a double victory over Western Reserve, thereby proving that the bull is mightier than the sword.
20. The team bites the dust at the hands of Geneva, 26-25. It was a tough one to lose, too.
21. Kappa girls initiate. A few more keys to adore on the campus. Just as keys in music are sometimes flat,—draw your own conclusions.
23. Mr. Packard undertakes a "stiff" course. Oh, for heavens sake!
24. The team again takes Westminster over at New Wilmington. Cibula and McClurg overcome by the glamor of the big city.
25. Alpha Chi Sigma pledges a new crop. Doc Lee seen dusting off and exercising a paddle.

27. Grove City wins again. We hereby swear never to bet against the Crimson again. Did you ever see such luck?
28. We can beat the alumni at least—but it's a h—l of a job. The old boys sure toss a wicked basket.

MARCH.

1. Rain. Doc Lee and others start practicing for the Pageant.
2. Stone Church Pageant at the High School. Some of the faculty sure make good parsons.
3. History repeats itself. The Pageant is given over again. We have separate chapel again. The Boys begin to realize what this school would be like without co-education.
4. The team wins another from Thiel.
5. They make it two in a row by trimming Juniata.
6. College night at the Stone Church, but that doesn't get any more dates there. The glee clubs annoy the congregation to the extent of two anthems.
7. Tom Skeyhill lectures twice for the benefit of the Y. M. C. A. before a large crowd of empty seats. The Yellow Jackets are stung again, 38-31.
8. Campus out for the weak. All usual mistakes plus a few more.
9. Debaters meet Oberlin. Allegheny wins by a horn.
10. Swimmers lose to Pitt, but the debaters make it two in a row and beat Wooster by a tale.
11. Pete Eaton and Chuck Taylor hold a reunion. The team roughly handles J. Carroll and wins.
12. Crane arrives. Some of the freshmen thought he was going to be the new president.
13. Chapel not compulsory, but the biggest crowd of the year goes anyway to hear Crane.
14. His campaign is a success—he gets the Fi Gams and Sigs out to the last meeting in a body. Percy Granger irritates the ivories in a nasty concert.
15. Some of the faculty finally learn to open their mail boxes in Bentley without the assistance of Miss Cotton.
16. Erie wins the tri-state basketball championship. The frats do some early rushing.
17. Bentley steps rebuilt. We can now pass by without olfactory discomfort.
18. Mezzotero's prodigies perform in French. Everyone goes just to get out of a French class. We wonder if the cast knew what it was all about?
19. Bud Miller spends all day returning the properties from the play and in spending the proceeds.
20. Girls hold another secret chapel. The Boys try in vain to find out what it was all about. Frosh debaters lose to Wesleyan.
21. Several parties. Private, free-for-all and otherwise.
22. Sophs win inter-class track meet. The Senate holds meeting.
23. Glee Club sohs at Sagertown. Wild party reported. Severn wins prize for kissing his girl first.
24. "Her Night of Romance" at the Park. Hooligans attend in a body. The Boys all date with Miss America at the Armory.
25. "Grand Opera" at Chapel. That was the day you slept.

APRIL.

1. April fool. The Alligator makes its appearance. Quite snappy for a young beast.
2. Seniors hop at the Hop. The "college cases" say good-bye for ten days.
3. Off for Easter Vacation. My Gawd, what a relief.
4. Students all (?) return (but not everything). New clothes. New walk in front of Bentley. The twain meet once more and are happy.
5. The college circus begins spring training. Frats decide to have neophytes count stones in Bentley walk next year.
6. The annual spring attack of knickeritus begins. Even Rev. Barber is a victim.
7. B. U.'s and Phi Alpha Kappas revive hostilities and pry off the baseball lid. Leeper shows signs of becoming great slugger this year.
8. Frosh rules taken off. Sad, but true.
9. A X P. 23; Phi Psi, 3. Phi Sigma Iota blossoms out with a Beta Chapter at Penn State.
10. The Circus comes off as per schedule and is a "howling" success.
11. Y. M. holds public election. Avey beats Palmer in race for Pope.
12. Founders Day. The girls serve ice cream at Chapel. Somebody made a speech.
13. Track team swamps Thiel, 104-20. They were nice boys even if they couldn't run.

FRENCH

BY
LE PETIT SALON

27. "Passing Show" packed with co-eds. Faculty also well represented. Both parties said to be disappointed.
28. Girls Glee Club Concert. They prove they can sing as well as talk.
29. Organ lessons given by organ grinder Church in Chapel. And there wasn't a person asleep.

MAY.

1. Pi Gams turn out to capture all the tennis letters.
2. Track team trims Tech. Almost rooked again.
3. Ball games cancelled—rain. Phi Psis saved another trimming.
4. Delme elected editor of the Campus. 'Nother good man gone wrong.
5. Phi Psis lose another—to the Sigs. Hammett doesn't have quite a good enough line to win the Intercollegiate Contest.
6. Spring Parties. Non-frats win track meet.
7. Demmler reports fine time at I. N. A. Convention.
8. Alligator gives prize for best cartoon.
9. Senate elections postponed. Scandal in the air.
10. Rumors of scandal stronger. Graft board elected after 47 recounts.
11. Tennis team continues consistent losing streak.
12. Track team wallops Rochester.
13. Y. M. Officers installed in chapel.
14. Ye gods! They're on us again. The exam schedule is announced.
15. Phi Psis again whitewashed.
16. Campus says work on Kaldron is complete. If that's so we'd better stop writing this bunk.
17. Editor says Campus is all Baloney—and we have to keep on worknig.
18. Bottonists have a slumming party to the Swamp.
19. College Bible Classes hold last meeting of year. (Thank goodness.)
20. Pi Deltis initiate neophytes.
21. Circus in town. Classes excused for the benefit of the children.
22. Final exam schedule announced. Less than a week to go.
23. Kaldron goes to Press. Gotta stop. G'bye. And thanks.

SPRING AND A YOUNG MAN'S FANCY

Mack: "I passed right by my gir!'s house last night."
Jack: "And you didn't go in."
Mack: "No, there was a car outside and it said Dodge."

Would-be-diner: "Waitress, please find out if your colleague from whom I ordered a steak some time ago, is still employed here?"

One can easily tell that co-eds trust in God by the size of the shoulder straps they wear on their dresses.

He: "Do you sing?"
She: "Oh, some; just to kill time."
He: "Well—you have a fine instrument for it."

"What is harder to find than a Scotchman on a tag day in Edinburgh?"
"A chin in Moscow."

The Woodville Game

This resumé deals with that formidable and motely gathering of athletes who defended the honor of dear old Allegheny on that eventful day when they met Woodville in the final and deciding game of this unusually successful season. The stands were jammed to the eaves and the graduate manager was wringing his hands in a Jewish ecstasy. Cheers echoed and reechoed up and down the field as three alumni came in and took their seats. All was hubbub and bubhub and noise and squeals and squeaks and then the other alumnus was carried in from a trip to the gin gin ginny shore. The cheerleaders then came forth and gyrated, and two students cheered lustily.

Then all was quiet as a smell of athletes assailed the air and the Woodville aggregation dashed on to the field and to their benches. A short, breathless pause and then the door of the training house crashed open and out sallied the Allegheny boys and dashed up and down the field in a light signal practice, stopping only now and then to pick up Bacchus, who was pretty tight, or the Smith Brothers when they tripped over their beards. They then strode about the arena amidst the roars of the multitude and the squeals of the ladies.

The ball soared down the field. Cal Coolidge received it and was off like a bag of wind. He did not stop till he had reached the opponents 80-yard line and then only because he had tripped over Satan's tail.

It came to the last few minutes of play and both teams had by this time determined to get across the goal line even though they had to resort to force and roughness—horrors! The Allegheny boys, after a series of determined plays, succeeded in wheedling their way to Woodville's one-foot line and there they stopped and were held for downs or what have you. They exchanged punts and compliments and calling cards and regained their former position on the one-foot line just as the supper bell sounded. This fired them with determination and they lined up with a look of do or die on their respective countenances.

Captain Billy's whizzing signals could be heard above the buzzing of the insects and the humming of the telegraph wires, "28. 37. hesitate, cogitate, gesticulate, skidoo," and the ball went to Bacchus, who staggered around left end for a 6¼ inch gain. Bacchus pass'd out but was revived with a smell of a cork. The teams lined up again and the ball was snapped to Dad Ling who passed it to Dean Ross. The ball hurtled through the air, touched the Dean's fingers, bounced, but was finally caught, but,—horrors—he ran the wrong way, thereby losing ten yards, the support of the fans, his temper, and almost the game. During the scrimmage which ensued when he was tackled the Dean lost his glasses and time was called while the members of both teams, with true sportsmanship, helped him look for them. They were finally located in his back pocket where he had put them after catching the ball.

The ball now rested ten yards and a foot from the goal line and only one more minute of play remained. They lined up for the final and supreme effort of do or die. Satan, at left end, had played like the devil during the whole game and was always at his best in a hot place. Next to him were the Smith Brothers coughing from sheer nervousness. At center, old Santy Claus was frozen with determination. Cal Coolidge looked like a sphinx and had divested himself of his hard collar. Columbus, at right tackle, had a look of another world in his eyes and was alert for the signal, "14—92" which would mean that the play was coming through him. Dean Ross looked too sick to be up and was registering fight. Bacchus was drunk with excitement. Captain Billy was full of red pepper and was muttering "Hot Dog." And lastly Fullback Mars was there with a fighting look—he was indeed a stellar player and whenever a difficult play was to be executed it took him to planet.

"14—92,—6 7/8,—3 in 1,—527, please." These signals rang out on the athletic air. Columbus, the far-seeing tackle, knew the play was through him and that this was the chance to save the day for his Alma Mater.

"Skidoo," the word for action, sounded and the ball was snapped to Mars, who deflated it and put it into his pocket. At the same instant Columbus sank his teeth into his opponent's leg and the bitten one yelled so loud that all the other players stopped to watch the mayhem. Not so with Mars, who pretended he wasn't going to play any more and made as if to retire from the field. Instead of this he sneaked behind the goal line and drawing the ball from his pocket he blew it up and touched it down, thus saving the day for Allegheny.

¶ In soliciting advertisements we have found the general sentiment to be that the merchants buy space from motives of charity. They consider it a duty to support college publications, but place very little confidence in the practical value of the advertising. For this reason they deserve our thanks. ¶ But this is not an ideal state of affairs. It is our duty to the college to make merchants realize that this advertising HAS a practical value. There is only one way to do this:—PATRONIZE ADVERTISERS IN COLLEGE PUBLICATIONS AND TELL THEM WHY YOU ARE DOING IT.

There Are No Standard Life "Salesmen"!

The life insurance agent of yesterday is gone, replaced by the insurance counsellor. It is only to men who have the ability to analyze a situation and to deal with it according to the circumstances that this company offers an agency connection.

The most successful life underwriter is the one who realizes that the service he is rendering is one of the greatest in the world. College men, although they profess a materialistic attitude, find this work very gratifying.

The return in satisfaction is equaled only by the financial remuneration. We will be very glad to discuss the possibilities of this profession with any member of the class of 1925.

We are particularly proud of our collection of home-like furniture, with old, mellow charm, in new guise—new colors, new ideas, new fabrics.

We do not believe in passing fads in furniture, but we do believe in INDIVIDUALITY, and we express it in our stocks.

Within our four walls you will find all the newest and most charming ideas for home decoration, gathered from many sources. We know where to find the most attractive home decorations, and we offer them to you at prices that are well within the reach of limited incomes.

Frater: "And put a guest towel in the bathroom."

Pledge: "A guest towel? And what's a guest towel?"

Frater: "A clean towel, sap!"

Prof.: "Tell what you can about the zones."

Bright: "The world is divided into two zones, male and female. The female zone is either temperate, frigid, or torrid. The male zone is either temperate, intemperate, or drunk."

You can wander in the United States, but you have to go to Italy to Rome.

When Shartle sells you a fountain pen he also sells you service—a guarantee that the pen must give you satisfaction. Waterman, Conklin, Parker and Swan pens and everpoint pencils for your approval. Shartle also repairs these pens and others. This means much to pen customers in the way of satisfaction. Opposite Academy of Music.
