November 27, 1935

Dear Mr. Starry:

I am answering your letter of November 25th at once, to say that I regret I have not on hand a copy of McClures Magazine for 1895. I have only bound volumes and they are not available being packed away in the country. I am trying to get a copy but may not succeed as I know them to be rare.

I could send you, however, a copy of The Early Life of Lincoln made up from the magazine pages and published in 1896 by McClure. If this is satisfactory I will write you a letter to go with the exhibit.

And let me say how pleased I shall be to be represented in your exhibition.

Very sincerely yours

Mr. David Starry
