

WASHINGTON'S BIRTHDAY BANQUET HELD IN THE GYMNASIUM MONDAY

Fifteenth Annual College Dinner a Delightful Affair—Witty Toasts and Songs Make Banquet a Memorable One.

The fifteenth annual Washington's Birthday Banquet, which was held Monday night in the college gymnasium, will go down in history as one of the finest and most successful college dinners which have ever been held in this institution. In point of menu, toasts and toasters, and decorations Monday night's banquet equals, and in the opinion of many, surpasses anything that has heretofore been attempted.

There was but a single drawback in the evening's entertainment—the absence of the men of the Freshman and Sophomore classes. As the result of excessive class spirit, trouble had arisen between these two classes which, as it was impossible to settle the trouble satisfactorily to both parties, brought about the enforced absence of the men. Outside of this unfortunate affair there was nothing to mar or detract in any way from the perfect enjoyment of a perfect banquet.

In the opinion of all present the decorations of the banquet were voted to be the finest in recent years. The general decorations were in the hands of a committee of which Miss Dorothea Abrams, '15, was chairman.

men decorated practically entirely in their class colors, which they displayed last night for the first time. The colors chosen by the class were violet and white and arranged alternately, as they were, and draped from a central point over the tables, the result was unusually pretty. A particularly striking form of decoration was the use of many colored butterflies which were attached to the ends of the supporting columns. The tables were set with candles under shades in the class colors.

The costumes of the two upper classes were the ones set by tradition. The Seniors appeared for the first time in their black caps and gowns. The Juniors were garbed in the regular Junior white gowns and caps with the class colors, orange and black, appearing on the tassel of the cap and on the collar of the gown. The costumes of the two lower classes were as new as they were effective. The Sophomore class reflected the war spirit in the red cross gowns which their young women wore and in the soldier uniforms which the men were to have used. A totally different idea was worked out by the Freshmen. Their young women appeared as fair-

From a large American flag suspended in the middle of the gymnasium were hung streamers of red, white and blue which were attached at their lower ends to the running track. At the lower end of the gymnasium was hung the picture of Timothy Alden, at the upper end that of George Washington. The rail of the running track was artistically wound with red, white and blue bunting which served to emphasize the national character of the banquet. Though more simple than the general decorations of previous years, they were perhaps for that reason more beautiful.

The Centennial Class, as always, had one of the prettiest corners of the gymnasium. Their section was decorated to represent a garden pergola. The whole was inclosed by a trellis beautifully entwined with roses in the class colors, red and white. The tables were also decorated with the class colors and the background of the pergola was white. A large number of plants with red berries enlivened the general design and added much to its effectiveness.

By far the most elaborate booth was that of the Junior Class designed by E. H. Hickman. The whole was made to represent a grape arbor and was the result of weeks of untiring work on the part of the committee and the girls of the class. A large frame work was made to support trellis-work into which were wound and fastened fully a hundred bunches of red, blue and green grapes. The branches of the vines were cleverly traced on a background of brick wall so that the effect was strikingly natural.

The Sophomore booth was made as a barracks for the soldier boys who failed to appear. The class colors were prominently displayed as were also the national colors. The Freshmen in exceedingly pretty costumes, and to match well with them the men were to have worn brownie suits, a combination which has never before been attempted.

The class songs were both well written and well sung. Due to the absence of the men, neither the Freshman or the Sophomore classes attempted any of the songs which they had been practicing for weeks in preparation for this occasion, but this fact interfered in no way with the singing or enthusiastic rivalry of the other two classes. Some unusually clever jokes and "knocks" were exchanged both in song and in cheering.

One of the most enjoyable features of the evening was the presence of the Biederwolf campaign quartet which has a wide reputation over the country as the National Quartet, so-called by reason of the fact that the four men represent as many nationalities. As the banquet took place on Monday evening and so did not interfere in any way with the Biederwolf meetings these four popular singers were prevailed upon to attend the banquet as the guests of the college and to sing several selections, all of which were received with the heartiest applause on the part of their audience.

The menu also deserves special mention. The banquet was more elaborate and was better served than any other within recent years. After several days of fruitless search devoted to finding some organization in the city which would provide the banquet, the finance committee, of which G. A. Ricker, '15, was chairman, decided to undertake "the feeding of the multitude" themselves. Arrangements were made to have the food prepared at

Inspect Chemistry Plants of Seven Eastern Institutions.

On Saturday President W. H. Crawford and on Sunday Dr. R. E. Lee returned from a trip which may mean much to the college. During the latter part of last week these two men visited seven of the larger institutions of learning of the East for the purpose of examining the various chemistry departments and chemistry buildings of those colleges. In all, the following colleges and universities were visited: University of Pennsylvania, Swarthmore, Haverford, Dickinson, New York University, Columbia University and the College of the City of New York.

The trip was undertaken for the express purpose of getting valuable hints as to arrangement and equipment of the new Carnegie Hall of Chemistry. The aim of the Board of Trustees is to make the $50,000 which have been appropriated for this building go as far as possible and be used to the best advantage. Consequently President Crawford and Dr. Lee were urged by the building committee of the Board of Trustees to undertake this visitation of the more up-to-date schools which have large and important chemistry departments. Those institutions were visited as have recently erected new chemistry buildings or which are in a position to keep, by improvements made regularly, their laboratories right up to the minute.

Both President Crawford and Dr. Lee expressed themselves as particularly delighted with the outcome of the trip and they believe that it has been more than worth while, for they have obtained many hints and advices which will be of the greatest use in the arrangement of the new building. At all of the colleges they were more than courteously received and treated with the greatest consideration. People everywhere seemed to be interested in the fact that they were about to erect a new building and were eager to make suggestions. They took as much pains to point out just what they should avoid as they did to bring out what they should include and as great pains to point out the good as to point out the bad arrangements of their own laboratories.

It will be of interest to know that architect for the new building has been chosen. He is Mr. Henry D. Whitfield, one of New York's most prominent and popular architects. Mr. Whitfield recently visited the college and took away with him Dr. Lee's sketches as to the floors, the size and arrangement of the rooms, etc. From these sketches preliminary drawings will be made by Mr. Whitfield who will forward them when completed to Meadville, where they will be gone over by the proper authorities and, if approved, will be sent back. More detailed drawings will then be made and these submitted to the building committee for approval, after which the plans and specifications will be made from which the bids will be estimated.

It is altogether probable that Dr. Lee will have to make another trip to New York in the near future. The chances are that he will have to go to New York when the preliminary drawings are sent back, though this second trip may not be absolutely necessary. He will certainly have to go, however, when the final plans and specifications are agreed upon.

It is impossible at this time to state just when the ground will be broken for the building. Students have, of course, noticed that the college engineers are at present laying out the location, but this does not necessarily mean that work will be immediately started on the excavation. Much depends on the time which the architect will require to draw his plans.

President Crawford is especially anxious that the students get the idea out of their heads that Allegheny is to have the finest college chemistry laboratory in the United States. What Allegheny will have will be the best that $50,000 can buy—of that the students can rest assured.

CENTENNIAL PROGRAM WILL BE ANNOUNCED NEXT WEEK

Publicity Committee Makes Arrangements for the Event.

Last Thursday evening a meeting was held in the Y. M. C. A. room under the auspices of the Modern Problems Club, which will have a very lasting effect upon the publicity work of the college. Mr. Paul Weyand, '98, who has been very active in placing the Allegheny news before the public through the daily press, spoke to all of the men of the college who were active or interested in newspaper work.

Mr. Weyand outlined the methods of approach which should be used in getting news into the papers. He pointed out the strong and weak points of our present publicity work. He presented a plan by which the college news will be relayed to hundreds of papers throughout this part of the country—a plan which if followed will place Allegheny among the best advertised colleges in the country.

At the conclusion of Mr. Weyand's talk, H. S. Taylor, '15, the president of the Modern Problems Club, appointed a committee of underclassmen who are to co-operate with the news bureau of the club. The committee consisted of R. E. Hart, '17, J. L. Wise, '17, R. F. Kahle, '17, H. Bosworth, '18, J. Regester, '18, and Wm. Davies, '18. This committee, together with the regular publicity committee—C. L. Mulfinger, '15, W. A. Brownell, '16, and H. L. Askey, '15, will keep the Centennial before the public. The publicity committee of the college, of which Dr. Smith is the chairman, will direct the work.

The first real effort in the news campaign will be made on Monday of next week when the Centennial Program will be relayed to hundreds of newspapers.

LIT ADVANCE

Combined January-February Number Will Appear This Week.

The first number of the Literary Monthly since Christmas, a combined January and February number, will make its appearance this week with special space and emphasis given to poetry. The contents are from the pens not only of Allegheny undergraduates, but from the alumni body as well, and will form an especially interesting collection as being distinctly the product of Allegheny.

The volume opens with two poems, one by Rev. Robert G. Freeman, '04, of Pasadena, California, entitled "I'm Glad," and the other by Miss Elizabeth Best, '16, under the very suggestive title "Only a Boy."

The first long article is a story by a new author, Ralph Weide, '17, entitled "The Leak in the Cable." It is an account of a man's progress in the business of his employer and also his advance in love, told from a man's standpoint and colored by his views on the subject.

The number is to contain two short poems from a Senior, Miss Dorothea Abrams, '15, one entitled "Morning," and the other "With You." These short bits of verse are interesting in style and rather exceptional in composition.

The third installment of a continued story by Miss Helen R. Adams, '16, appears in this month's number. The story is called "A Will and a Way," and will be finished in the next issue.

A second poem by Mr. Freeman, '04, on "California," follows the first and makes a double contribution to the Literary Monthly from this prominent alumnus who has already made a name for himself with his pen, and whose especial warmth of feeling is brought up in writing about his adopted country of the West.

A very beautiful story—peculiar in emotion and power of description—appears next, from the pen of Miss Anna Strong, '16. It is written under the strong title of "The Touch of a

ROCHESTER WILL DEBATE IN FORD CHAPEL FRIDAY

Allegheny's Team Will Uphold the Negative of the Argument.

Allegheny will meet the University of Rochester for the second time in debate in the Chapel next Friday evening. The New York school is to send a team that will try to wrest a victory from Allegheny in debate to make up from the two to one decision that the Blue and Gold brought away with them last year from Rochester's own platform. To date Allegheny has the decided advantage over Rochester in all forms of activity in which the two schools have met, having defeated them this year in football and basketball, both on their home grounds, and in debate last year.

The question for the debate is: "Resolved, that in the United States socialistic control of the means of production would bring about a more equitable distribution of wealth." This question is, of course, practically the socialism question in its simplest form, and it is in that light that the team that represents Allegheny is to debate. The team is composed of W. J. Armstrong, Jr., '16, L. D. Kepner, '17, and W. A. Ellis, '16. They have been working for the past month under Professor Swartley and have had interviews with local socialists to get the practical socialist side of the case.

However, as far as practice goes, the Rochester team will have a considerable advantage over the home team. They have already held a triangular debate on this subject with Colgate and Ohio Wesleyan, their negative having won a two to one decision over Ohio Wesleyan, and their affirmative having lost to Colgate. From these two teams, one team is to be picked to uphold the affirmative side of the question against Allegheny. Besides this practice, the Rochester "Campus" announces that their negative team has met an affirmative team composed of several young Socialists of Rochester to debate the practical points of the subject.

The home team has had the advantage simply of what study could be obtained from the Library and the Theological Library and the interviews with the downtown business men. The question is a live issue of the day, a subject on which every man and woman has some more or less definite views or convictions that will enable them to take sides intelligently in the struggle for the favorable decision. The judges have been secured from this part of the state to serve for the debate. They are Charles H. English, an Erie lawyer; Harry Watson, a banker from Greenville, and Professor Charles R. Brown, of Grove City College.

The order of the home speakers will be Armstrong, first, Kepner, second, and Ellis, third, in direct argument; and in rebuttal, Kepner, first, Armstrong, second, and Ellis, third. The length of speeches is to be twelve minutes in direct and eight in rebuttal with ten in rebuttal for the last speaker.

The annual spring election of the men's athletic association will be held Saturday morning from 10:30 to 12:30, at the Treasurer's office, in Bentley. The offices to be filled are president of the association, delegate at large, assistant football manager and assistant track manager. Candidates for the first two offices must be Juniors—for the last two either Sophomores or Juniors.

FEBRUARY 24, 1915.

Show your college spirit and attend a college debate. This suggestion probably does not appeal to every Alleghenian, but it ought to. Do you know, fellow students, that your alma mater has not lost an intercollegiate contest this year, and why is it?

In the first place, the representatives on college teams have worked faithfully and have given their best to have winning teams at Allegheny, and, secondly, their efforts have been recognized and duly supported. This has largely been in athletics. Give the debaters the same chance; show them that you appreciate their efforts, and lastly, be present next Friday night, so as to set a standard by which future college generations will have to judge you.

With this issue the innovation promised last week has come to pass.

From this date on The We Need Campus will be a college newspaper of six pages instead of four. The increase in news during this year of our Centennial has necessitated a change which is only in keeping with the rapid movement of events. With this enlargement of the paper we feel that a greater responsibility comes, not only to the staff, but to the student body as well. In order to get all the news, we ask for your co-operation for the remainder of the year, such as you have given, but increased in every respect. The slogan for the rest of the year in the college should be CO-OPERATION. Yes, spell it with capitals. Let us have your CO-OPERATION.

PAGEANT INSURANCE ATTRACTS NATION WIDE ATTENTION

Of the many incidents in connection with Allegheny's Centennial which have been featured in the public press of this country, no one has probably received more attention than the fact that the great pageant for next June has been insured against rain. It will be remembered that Mr. Paul Sturtevant, '99, who is chairman of the Centennial Committee, had Allegheny's Pageant insured in an English company through its American representative, the college to receive $5,000 in case it rained on the days the pageant is to be given.

Such an innovation as this immediately became the subject of comment of newspaper paragraphs throughout the country, notices appearing in San Francisco, New York, Chicago, Pittsburgh, in fact all the leading papers of the country, including religious periodicals and magazines. No pre-Centennial incident has probably attracted such nation wide notice as this matter of insuring the pageant. Allegheny's celebration has been receiving its share of attention and at the time of its presentation many special newspaper correspondents will be on the ground to feature it for their respective journals.

Coach Brooke was voted out of the University of Pennsylvania recently by the football men, 19-2.

COLLEGE MEN REPORT BIEDERWOLF MEETINGS

A rather unusual method of journalistic work is being employed by the Meadville Daily Messenger during the Biederwolf evangelistic campaign. Twenty-two young men of the college, chosen by Professor Swartley, report the meetings, each one covering two during the series. At the close prizes will be awarded to the persons presenting the best writeups. Thus far A. H. Kemp, '15, H. L. Askey, '15, R. A. Blasdel, '16, H. W. Bosworth, '18, L. H. McKay, '16, H. I. Titus, '18, F. D. Gealy, '16, J. C. Weaver, '17, H. J. Hartman, '15, and C. H. Stevenson, '16, have acted in this capacity, and they will be followed by H. L. Castle, '18, J. G. Castle, '18, J. L. Wise, '17, C. M. Miller, '17, Ernest Ling, '16, E. B. Leaf, '16, K. G. Reider, '17, W. A. Brownell, '16, W. A. Davies, '18, W. A. Ellis, '16, C. L. Molfinger, '15, and R. E. Hart, '17.

LIBRARY NOTES.

Word has been received from the Carnegie Library of Pittsburgh that after March first, the book service with that institution will be discontinued. This action is made necessary on account of a reduction in the appropriation for the Library, and book service with all out-of-the-city libraries is to be withdrawn at this time. The library card at the Central Library will, however, be continued, Miss Rowley announces, for the benefit of Allegheny students who wish to work there while in Pittsburgh at any time.

The reference librarian writes that she hopes the service may be renewed in 1916, providing the appropriation will permit this branch work. The exchange and loan relations which Allegheny maintains with other libraries, Cleveland, Erie and the larger libraries, are still continued and books that are needed may still be secured through these sources.

The following are needed to complete the files of the Kaldron in the Library. Miss Rowley would be pleased to have any one notify her who has an extra copy of these missing issues:

Vol. 4, 1892; vol. 5, 1893; vol. 15, 1903; vol. 16, 1904; vol. 22, 1910; vol. 24, 1912.

GLEE CLUB TO MAKE ITS FIRST LOCAL APPEARANCE

On next Monday evening the combined musical organizations of Allegheny will make their first appearance of the year before a Meadville audience. Two months ago the Glee Club rendered a few selections before the convention of the Grange which was being held in Meadville at that time, but the concert on next Monday will be the first formal appearance of the clubs in the city. Although the Glee and Mandolin clubs under the management of J. B. Hutchinson, '15, have been making the most extensive trips this year that have ever been undertaken by the clubs, a concert in Meadville has never before been scheduled.

The concert is to be under the auspices of the Belgium Relief Society, of Meadville, which numbers at the present time considerably over one hundred members. This organization was the successful one of a number which were bidding for the concert of the clubs. The first concert of the musical organizations is always an event in Meadville and with the exceptionally fine clubs which are representing the school this year, competition for the privilege of giving the concert was keen among several of the city organizations. As planned at present, the concert will be held in the Armory, for it has been thought that the various churches where the concerts have been held in former years would be too small to accommodate the large crowds which will attend. The concert is to be given on Monday night in order that there may be no conflict with the meetings of the Biederwolf campaign, Monday night being the only night of the week on which there are no services in the tabernacle.

The Glee Club this year compares favorably with any in the history of that organization in the college. Every concert which has been given by the club has been attended by great, enthusiastic crowds. At Franklin the club sang before an audience which filled the largest building of that city to overflowing and was estimated by the local papers to number fully one thousand. The reputation of the club has preceded it wherever it has gone with the result that they have always sung before crowded houses. One of the most pleasing features of the club is the excellent solo work of the leader, R. H. Downing, '15. His solos have everywhere met with the greatest approval by his hearers.

The work of the Mandolin Club is also above the average this year. The club is greatly strengthened by the addition of the harp played by E. H. Middleton, '18, to the mandolins and guitars which always make up the Club. Already the numbers in which the harp appears have become the most popular rendered by the club. Undoubtedly the work of the Mandolin Club under the leadership of F. G. Brooks, '15, will meet with an enthusiastic reception by the audience in the concert Monday evening.

The following program, subject to change, will probably be used:

Part One.

1. Swing Along Cook Glee Club
2. Gypsy Serenade Eaton Mandolin Club
3. Solo Selected Mr. Downing
4. Reading Selected Mr. Hutchinson
5. Barcarolle Offenbach Mandolin Club

LE PETIT SALON MEETS.

The regular meeting of Le Petit Salon was held in the parlors of Hulings Hall on last Monday afternoon. After a short business session, at which it was decided that the club should meet every two weeks instead of once a month, as it formerly did, the meeting was turned over to Miss Lillian Reis, '15, and Miss Ruth De Land, '17, who were in charge of the program. French games were played after which refreshments were served.

INTERFRATERNITY BOWLING LEAGUE OPENS SEASON

The annual Interfraternity Bowling League opened its league season last Wednesday night, at which time Sigma Alpha Epsilon defeated Phi Gamma Delta in three straight games. ALLEGHENY VANQUISHES TECH FRIDAY; GAME REPLETE WITH SENSATIONAL WORK

The Plaid Take the Small End of a 52-17 Score—Cox Scores Twelve Baskets—Large Crowd Witnesses Contest

Continuing the winning streak which is to bring Allegheny a defeatless season, the Gold and Blue triumphed over Carnegie Tech last Friday evening in the seventh game of the year by a score of 52 to 17. The score gives a good estimate of the game. It was a one-sided contest from start to finish and Tech was always so clearly outclassed that the most their supporters could hope for was a defeat by a fairly close score. A large crowd turned out not only to see the game, but to see "Hans" Wagner, the famous Pittsburgh baseball player, who is coaching the Plaid five this year.

Captain Graham, '15, Leader of Allegheny's Championship Five.

Tech's defeat was a foregone conclusion. Since Allegheny's decisive 33-21 victory over the Plaid in Pittsburgh on February 13th, general opinion was that the Gold and Blue would have little trouble in disposing of Tech and the easy defeat of Tech last Friday night bore out this prediction. After the first five minutes of play Allegheny simply ran away from their opponents and they never afterwards had an opportunity to pass or even to tie the fast-going Gold and Blue.

Allegheny put up for the greater part of the game a most beautiful exhibition of basketball. At times the pace was incredibly fast. Clever, sure passing and perfect team work, together with Cox's remarkable shooting, were the largest factors in the victory. Allegheny's old guarding system worked to perfection. The few times that Tech had the ball in their possession they were able to do nothing with it. Allegheny's solid line of Gold and Blue across the center of the floor kept Tech constantly out of Allegheny's territory.

Allegheny's star was Cox. No less than twelve baskets are credited to him. His ability to find the basket was almost uncanny. Every time he received the ball within forty feet of the basket, he seemed to be able to put it through the ring at will. Besides his great work in field scores he did much valuable work from the foul line. Here he converted seven fouls into six baskets. McKay, too, played a brilliant game at center, scoring five baskets to his opponent's two. Dunbar and Graham, though they did not appear as much as usual in the scoring, put up a wonderful guarding game. Bianchi played the first half and divided even with his man at two baskets apiece. In the second half Bash was substituted for Bianchi and played a good game. Kramer and Barnhart appeared just long enough to show that they are exceedingly valuable reserves.

First Half.

Both teams started off with a rush and appearances for the first few minutes pointed to a very close game with a score but a few points in favor of the winner. The game was about evenly fought for five minutes. Finally "Along came Ruth" in the shape of Bianchi, who deposited the first basket to Allegheny's credit. Levi lessened the advantage by scoring for Tech on a foul. Shortly after Cox dropped one in from the middle of the floor. Hines, right guard and captain, did likewise for Tech. Cox, not to be outdone, repeated, but his two points were equalled by a brace of foul goals coined by Levi for the Plaid. Allegheny scored three times in rapid succession, Cox, McKay, and Dunbar each caging the ball once in the order mentioned. Tech's coaches, the Wagner brothers, not caring particularly for the way the center, Meredith, was holding McKay, changed their maneuvers and sent Humford to take his place. Just as a matter of initiation, McKay treated him to another goal, this being made from past the center of the floor. Levi missed on a foul goal, but Hines more than made up for the loss by slipping in a field goal from beneath the basket. Then Cox started to go crazy. The next nine points were a personal gift of his to his hard-working team-mates, first a field goal, then a foul goal, then three more field goals in rapid succession, one of which was made after a sensational dribble up the floor and a shot from almost mid-court. With three more minutes to go, Allegheny scored two more baskets, those being made by Bianchi and McKay. The score for the half ended 30-7 in favor of Allegheny.

The summaries show that Allegheny scored all but two of her points on field goals, getting in all fourteen, while the other two points were made by Cox from the foul-line out of three trials. Tech was able to locate the basket but twice in the half and the other three points came from Levi's foul tossing. His record shows three goals from five chances.

Second Half.

Bash was substituted for Bianchi at forward. Allegheny showed in the first few minutes that the rest had not slowed them up in the least. Five points were scored before Tech could gain a single score. Cox had not recovered from his crazy spell and scored the first goal, and later a foul goal. McKay followed with a field goal. Levi made Tech's first point, the result of a foul goal. Allegheny was unable to locate the ring for some time afterwards. Several easy chances were missed from directly under the basket. Bash started the scoring period with a good shot. Graham then appeared in the limelight and made his single goal of the game—a beautiful long shot from the center of the floor. The next three points were made by Allegheny on as many fouls. Cox then delivered another basket. Tech entered into the scoring for a few minutes, making four points as the result of two foul baskets and a field goal by Humford. Cox again. The next goal was one of the prettiest of the game, a hard shot at a difficult angle by Humford. Cox and Hines each scored another. Bash dropped in his second and last goal of the game. Two substitutions were

BIOLOGICAL CLUB MEETS.

The regular meeting of the Tingley Biological Club was held Tuesday evening in the club rooms in Ruter Hall. The topic of the evening was "The Bubonic Plague," and was introduced by L. J. Dundon, '16, and W. A. Ellis, '16, with interesting papers. The universality of the disease was brought to the attention of the members and the fact that it is prevalent in our own country was a fact that surprised the listeners. After the program Dr. Darling entertained the club by contributing refreshments, a feature of which was lemonade made from a single lemon of phenomenal size, which he brought from Florida on his recent trip. Dr. Darling also pleasantly surprised the members of the club by showing the plans for the new Biology building which is soon to be erected.

GERMAN CLUB MEETS.

An unusually interesting meeting of the German Club was held last Tuesday afternoon in the club room in Bentley Hall. After Professor Matthei had spent a few minutes explaining the German terms necessary to the conducting of the business of the club, the business of the afternoon was transacted entirely in German. The new plan worked to the complete satisfaction of Fraulein Ellis, '15, the efficient president of the club, and the members of the club, and will be adhered to in all future meetings. The date for the meetings was definitely fixed for the first and third Tuesday evenings of each month.

PHILO-FRANKLIN CONTEST NEXT IN ORATORY

The next event in oratorical activity after the Wakefield contest of two weeks ago will be the Philo-Franklin contest which has been announced for Saturday evening, March 27. This contest, unlike the Wakefield contest, is open to men of any class in college and several Freshmen have already signified their intention of entering the event, but the contestants must be members of the Philo-Franklin Forum.

Two prizes are offered to the men making first and second place, a first prize of twenty dollars and a second of ten. This money is the interest from a sum set aside by the old Philo-Franklin literary society for the purpose of furnishing such an incentive for work in oratory among the men of the college.

The conditions of the contest have already been announced and posted in Bentley. They are:

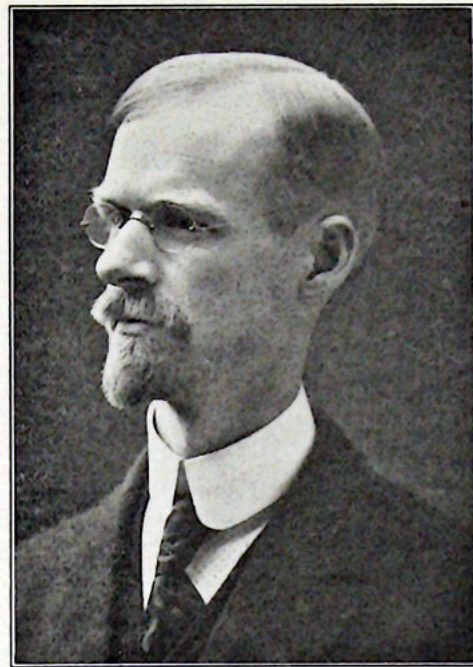

1. All members of the Forum are eligible to enter.
2. Orations delivered in any previous college contest are not eligible. The title must be changed and the oration essentially new.
3. The oration must not take more than ten minutes in delivery.
4. Three typewritten copies of the oration must be in the hands of H. E. Drake, '16, secretary of the Oratorical Association, not later than February 27.
5. All men intending to enter the contest should hand their names to Professor Swartley immediately.

CHANGE IN BASKET-BALL SCHEDULE

Manager Taylor, '15, announces two important changes in the basketball schedule. Allegheny will play Syracuse University on the sixth of March at Syracuse. The game with Niagara University will be played here on the ninth of March.

Some interesting football statistics are offered by Parke H. Davis. According to his figures 405 colleges had football teams this year. More than 34,000 games were played by 152,000 players and attended by 7,292,000 persons.

FOUNDERS' DAY CELEBRATED BY PHI KAPPA PSI

Last Saturday evening Pennsylvania Beta of Phi Kappa Psi held their sixtieth annual Founders' Day banquet. The honor guest of the evening was Sion B. Smith, '86, the national president of the fraternity. A number of the alumni of the fraternity were present. President Crawford presented a magnificent loving cup which Dr. Camden M. Cobern, '76, gave to the active chapter as a permanent scholarship cup. Dr. Cobern was unable to be present at the banquet.

E. A. Robinson, '15, was the toastmaster of the evening. The toast list was as follows:

"Greetings"—H. K. Brooks, '15.
"Greetings from the Faculty"—President Wm. H. Crawford.
"Greetings from the Alumni"—Sion B. Smith, '86.

The alumni who were present responded to short informal toasts.

Princeton has shown that compulsory chapel is anything but pleasant by the recent vote taken which decided against such a rule by a vote 960-169.

Five Good Reasons

Five reasons why Meadville Christians should subscribe for The Daily Messenger during the Biederwolf meetings:

1. It helps the Christian cause. One of the best ways to create a revival spirit is to tell about a revival.
2. Many people have been converted by reading the sermons sent to them in this way.
3. Your friends will appreciate it. You cannot write them every day and the news would be too long to write. Let them enjoy with you what is going on in Meadville.
4. You ought to do it from the standpoint of patriotic citizenship. Let the whole United States know about Meadville and what is going on.
5. It is a mark of appreciation you owe to The Messenger for its courtesy in this respect. This effort on their part means an expenditure of no inconsiderable size. Fill out the form below, at once, and send or mail it to The Messenger office and ask them to send the back numbers, also.

Special Revival Subscription

The Daily Messenger, Meadville:

By special arrangement with the Biederwolf party, The Daily Messenger will be furnished 2 months, including the Biederwolf Campaign, for fifty cents. The paper will contain full reports of the great meetings and its various features, as well as Dr. Biederwolf's sermons.

The paper will be mailed to any address without extra charge.

Clyde Heath, '15, attended as delegate for the Allegheny chapter a convention of the National Federation of Commons Clubs, held last week at Schenectady, N. Y.

M. G. Mellon, W. A. Godsave, H. C. Wasson and R. E. Hoffman were sent to the National Convention of the Alpha Chi Rho fraternity at New York as delegates of the Allegheny chapter.

Through the kindness of Professor Swartley, his copies of the Philadelphia North American are being placed daily on the reading table of the Library. They contain complete reports of the "Billy" Sunday meetings in progress in that city, and are available for all students who care to read them.

Professor C. E. Decker returned home yesterday from Springfield, Ill., where he read a paper before the Illinois Academy of Science. While on this trip Professor Decker visited his sister at Dixon, Ill., who had just recently returned from the mission field in China.

Between the halves of the Western Reserve game on Saturday, a competition will be held to determine likely candidates for cheerleader. E. A. Robinson, the present cheerleader, will direct the competition. All who are expecting to enter into this competition are requested to give their names to Mr. Robinson before Friday night.

MORE INTERESTING CLASS BASKETBALL THIS WEEK

The fourth contest in the series for class supremacy will take place next Saturday afternoon, with 1916 and 1917 as combatants. The Sophomores presented a remarkably fast array on the occasion of their first game and exhibited an article of basketball seldom equalled in interclass affairs. Their 17-10 victory over the Centennials stamps them as a team of class and gives them the precedence over the Juniors who recently lost a 20-18 decision to 1918. These two teams did not meet last year owing to the unfortunate close of the series, so no comparison can be made in that manner. The loss of six men of the ability of McKay, Bash, Kramer, Arnold, Colt and Harper would be enough to weaken any team, and '16 has done remarkably well to collect as good a team as they have in the short time allowed them. The work of Captain Dundon in the Freshman game shows him to be one of the most able players among the classes, and Ling was a close second in playing. Curry, Witherup, Armstrong and Mellon can be counted on to work well with these two, and a team should be forthcoming which will give the underclassmen a hard run for victory.

The teamwork of 1917 in the last encounter was very noticeable, as was also the shooting and all round work. Askey and Miller form the best pair of guards playing interclass basketball, and their fast aggressive playing was responsible for much of the team's good work. Captain Kahle, Emery and Powell are good men at the forward positions, while McKinney and Wise are excellent pivot men. Although the Sophomores appear to have the better five, a fast, hard game should be expected.

FAMOUS BASEBALL PLAYERS PRAISE ALLEGHENY'S TEAM

With the Carnegie Tech team came a pair of famous visitors to Allegheny's campus, two brothers, none other than the great Wagners. "Al" and "Honus." These two men have been given charge of Tech's basketball team with "Al" as head coach and "Honus" as first lieutenant. Both men were particularly modest and kept under cover during their short visit. Nevertheless they were found out and wherever they went they were preceded or followed by a small army of photographers. Several good pictures were gotten of the famous German of the baseball diamond in spite of his tendency to turn his back or beat a hasty retreat whenever a camera appeared on the horizon. It was pretty hard to get "Honus" to talk but some of his words will be of interest.

When shown the campus, he was particularly struck and commented on its beauty. The party were taken to Montgomery Field which "Al" insisted was larger than Forbes Field, the home of the Pittsburgh "Pirates." "Honus" said that it ought to make a wonderful baseball diamond. After watching the team work out he said,

"You have the greatest collegiate basketball team playing today. I never saw but one better team in my life and that was Columbia a number of years ago. I don't believe that there is a man playing basketball who is as good a shot as Cox. I never saw a better one in my life."

As to Meadville, he had a nice thing or two to say about the clearness of the atmosphere and the fine water of the city. He pronounced the water the finest he had ever drunk in any city. And, of course, he predicted that the "Pirates" would win the National League pennant this year.

ALUMNI NOTES.

The Christian Advocate for January 28 carried a snap-shot of the Board of Foreign Missions of the Methodist Church in which Bishop Oldham, ex-'82, has been a faithful worker for three years.

The many friends of Miss Susanna Martena Vosburgh, '11, will be shocked to learn of her death, which took place in Rochester, N. Y., December 29, 1914. This is the second death in the class roll of 1911.

The Rev. Bruce S. Wright, '05, who after three years as pastor of the Simpson Church at Erie, Pa., has been appointed to the pastorate of the American Union Church, Manila, P. I., will sail with his family from San Francisco on February 27, to take up his work in his new charge.

The Rev. T. W. McKinney, '95, of Coatesville, Pa., delivered a masterly address on Abraham Lincoln at the semi-annual commencement of Clafin University, Orangesburg, S. C., on January 25. With an assistant he carried on the thirtieth annual student revival services with splendid results.

A. W. Thompson, '96, third vice-president of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, recently addressed the Engineer's Society of Western Pennsylvania on the occasion of their annual banquet at Pittsburgh. Mr. Thompson was presented the gold medal for reading the finest paper of the year before that body.

Dr. Darius C. Moore, ex-'03, is one of the busiest coroners in the country. Living at Beaver Falls, Pa., where the great railroad yards are located, he has been forced to make an unusual number of investigations and indictments. His record for last year shows a total of 232 deaths within Beaver County which he investigated.

An article by Dr. D. W. Howell, '85, recently appeared in the Christian Advocate entitled "Helping to Answer a Call." Dr. Howell is Corresponding Secretary of the General Deaconess Record and as such is an expert in his field. His article consisted of an urgent appeal that more time and effort be devoted to the bringing of the question of specific Christian work to the attention of young men and women.

It was learned Sunday that one of the ninety-six persons who were injured in the terrible crush at Mr. Sunday's great meetings in Philadelphia last Friday was a former Allegheny student. Boyd N. Park, Jr., ex-'16, who is now a student at the University of Pennsylvania, had his left arm crushed while attempting to gain admission to the tabernacle with a group of fellow students. Mr. Park was taken to the Mercy Hospital. The physicians say that the injury to the arm will not be permanent.

IN THE COLLEGE WORLD.

The Michigan Athletic association made $30,000 in football last fall, but baseball lost $2,700 and track $4,000. Student fees alone came to $25,430.

A great movement is on foot to place the honor system in examinations in the University of Pittsburgh. The deans of the institution have approved it and the four classes will soon vote upon it.

Dartmouth has made an offer to Tom Keady, football coach at Lehigh, to become baseball and basketball and assistant football coach there.

The fire department of the Utah Agricultural college burned up recently. Details could not be learned.

The social season is in full swing at Washington and Lee. The crowning event was the fancy dress ball.

The synod of Arkansas is trying to raise an endowment of $100,000 for Arkansas Cumberland college.

Cornell's new armory will cost $325,000. It will be the largest college armory in the world.

The medical college of Harvard university has lowered its requirements for entrance from an academic degree to two years of specific college work.

The mining department of Lehigh University has been presented with a section of the largest diamond drill core ever cut. The hole was bored at Maltby Colliery, Pa., and was 11 inches in diameter.

At a meeting of the Kansas college presidents, a plan providing that students must offer four years of college work in order to secure a teacher's salary was presented to the state legislature.

Princeton University receives $250,000 for the erection of a new dining hall on the campus from Mrs. Russell Sage, provided a like amount is raised by July 1. Already $75,000 has been collected toward the needed fund.

A plan is on foot at Franklin and Marshall to combine the weekly with the publication of the literary society. There would be four issues a month, three devoted to news articles and one to literary work.

MR. F. L. LABOUNTY, '07.

Allegheny has been honored through the appointment of Mr. Francis L. LaBounty, '07, to the position of head of the English department of the Peabody High School, of Pittsburgh. Mr. LaBounty, who is a member of the class of 1907, made a brilliant record for himself while at Allegheny, and since his graduation has made rapid advances both as a scholar and teacher of English, and as a newspaper man.

Early in his college course, he distinguished himself in student activities. In 1905 he became a member of the Kaldron Board and spoke on his class debating team. In his Junior year, he became editor-in-chief of The Campus, holding that office for two years. He was the Junior toaster at the Washington's Birthday Banquet, and became a member of the Quill and Classical clubs. In his Senior year, Mr. LaBounty made the Senior Six.

After his graduation, he served for four years as teacher of English and Greek in Alden Academy. In 1911 he accepted the position of teacher of English in the Edinboro State Normal School, and held this position until the fall of last year, when he resigned to become the editor and proprietor of the Edinboro "Independent." In 1913 he was honored with membership in Phi Beta Kappa.

Mr. LaBounty is the assistant editor of the new History of Allegheny which is to be published in the spring. He has been doing a great deal of research work among the old records of the college, and is entitled to a great deal of the credit for this valuable book.

TWO HARD GAMES FOR THE 'VARSITY THIS WEEK.

A busy week is ahead of the Western Pennsylvania basketball champions, inasmuch as Grove City College and Western Reserve University will be met on Friday and Saturday evenings, respectively. It is the former of these games that is the most feared by Allegheny, Coach Hammett having expressed himself as considering it the hardest contest of the season.

The Red and White quintet was defeated 29-17 after a hard struggle in the local gymnasium on January 29th, but when safe on their own floor the Mercer county five is another proposition. Several peculiarities in the construction of the gymnasium have been utilized, and the usual fighting spirit of the team makes them feared by all opponents. The achievements of the Gold and Blue during the past few weeks need no further mention, and it should be considered sufficient encouragement to Alleghenians that the coach and his proteges expect to treat the old rival in the same manner that they have handled Wesleyan, Pitt and Tech. Grove City, on the other hand, is also confident of victory and expects to secure revenge for past defeats. Their team is in good condition, and is working in nice form. McGranahan, the star forward, is said to have returned to form, and is performing brilliantly on all occasions. The work of Turner, Bigler and Penman in the past game is also remembered.

Western Reserve, who plays in Meadville on the night following the Grove City game, is not considered a hard opponent, although little is known of her true strength. Great jubilation was recently experienced in the Cleveland school by reason of a 31-23 victory over their old-time rival Case. Several other Ohio schools have been defeated, and the five is above the general run of those produced at Reserve. The team is a close-guarding aggregation, with one outstanding star, Englehart, captain and left forward.

Their line-up will probably be as follows:

R F—Sunderland, Penning.
L F—Englehart, (capt).
C—Ewart.
R. G.—Battenfeld.
L G—Coen, Brice.

A letter has been received from Dr. Snavely in New York, enclosing a letter from Isadore Cohen, '14, who is engaged as a government teacher in the Philippine Islands. His address is Vigan, Ilocos Sur, Philippine Islands. A part of his letter will be of interest to his friends at Allegheny: "I am situated in the provincial High School at this place. Track and field athletics are also under my charge. The work and people are very interesting."

WASHINGTON'S BIRTHDAY BANQUET HELD ON MONDAY

Cochran Hall from which it was then conveyed to the gymnasium. This system worked out wonderfully well and will doubtless be used hereafter. The toast list prepared by the committee on program, of which W. A. Brownell, '16, was chairman, compared favorably with others at former banquets. An innovation was introduced in having the undergraduate speakers represent certain characters whom they impersonated both in costume and in speech. Thus R. H. Downing, '15, was chosen by the committee to portray George Washington, J. G. Lane, '15, to portray Timothy Alden, and Miss Elizabeth Best, '16, to take the part of Miss Ida Tarbell. A fourth speaker was chosen in N. H. Boyd, '17, who was supposed to represent Lafayette, but owing to the Sophomore-Freshman trouble he was unable to appear. This departure from the usual order of toasts created an unusual amount of interest and was well received.

After the last course of the banquet had been served, Dr. Akers, acting as toastmaster, opened the toast list with several telegrams of congratulations from alumni, individually and in bodies, and from members of the faculty absent from the city. Messages were read from Boston, from the alumni association there, from the New York association, from graduates at Johns Hopkins in Baltimore, from three members of the class of 1913, and from Professor Decker of the faculty, in Chicago.

Dr. Akers then introduced as the first speaker of the evening, R. H. Downing, '15, who was to portray the immortal George. Mr. Downing's speech was a clever interpretation of the part the "Immortal George" played not only as the founder of the land, but as the founder of Allegheny, and his particular nearness to us on account of this relation to our early school. The speaker was costumed most effectively in Colonial costume. The second speaker was J. G. Lane, '15, who portrayed Timothy Alden.

Mr. Lane was costumed in the style of 1830, and pictured most effectively the early life and activity of the founder of Allegheny in the various phases of a college president of that period.

The Junior speaker was Miss Elizabeth Best, '16, who responded to the toast, "The Eve of Allegheny," speaking in the person of Miss Ida Tarbell, '80. She told of the life at Allegheny in the '70's when the girls were "lost in a wilderness of boys," and of the experiences of the time. The speech was a very clever picturing of Allegheny's famous alumna in the way she herself would have addressed a similar audience on a similar topic.

The alumni speaker was the Rev. Lloyd L. Swisher, '99, of Greenville, who responded to the toast, "The New Allegheny." He spoke as a representative of the alumni body and brought to the students the hearty support of the alumni in the enjoyment of the "New Allegheny."

Mr. Sion B. Smith, '86, of Bellevue, was present and was called on by the toastmaster. He told several witty anecdotes concerning Dr. Ammi B. Hyde, a former professor of Allegheny.

Responding to the toast, "A Forecast," President Crawford held up as the ideals of the true Allegheny man and woman the two men, George Washington and Timothy Alden.

The toast list is given.

Little Hand" and is as peculiarly appealing as its name would suggest.

Following this is an anonymous peace poem, introducing a new feature in the Literary Monthly, called the department of Childhood Verse. This section is filled with the poems of various "Quillers" written in the years of childhood, and of value, possibly, in showing the development of several of our best writers in the last few years.

The potpourri is filled with several poems of a humorous character, including a psalm of vengeance by an anonymous author.

The book department is taken up with a review of "The Last Shot," by Frederick Palmer, an Allegheny ex-student who has won fame for himself as a newspaper correspondent and who tells his experiences in this book. The review is very well written by Gilbert W. Mead, '11.

SENIORS WIN CLOSE GAME FROM FROSH

In the fastest interclass game of the series played thus far the Centennial Class came out victors over the Freshmen last Saturday afternoon before a large and, as usual, excited crowd. Score, 17-16. Throughout the entire game the play was very close and even, and there was no time when either side had a decisive lead. Only once were the Freshmen able to pass the fast Centennial team, but they were always hanging close on their heels. At the end of the second half the score stood a tie at 15-15. Both teams were willing to fight it off after a short rest, and consequently there was an extra period of five minutes. As the Freshmen were able to score but a single point while the Seniors gained two, the game went to the class of 1915 by a score of 17-16.

The showing that the light Freshman team made against the heavier and bigger team of 1915 was remarkable. Outweighed at least fifteen pounds to the man, nevertheless 1915 went in the game with a grim determination to win which was almost the ruin of the upper classmen. The Freshmen were rather slow in getting started as in the game against the Juniors the week before, but after they had once hit their pace they played the Seniors on even terms. For 1913 Captain Engstrom, at guard, played a good game. His three baskets were the largest number scored by any member of his team. Long, his man, was able to make but a single goal from his close guarding. Smith was star forward for the Freshmen and Lane, at center, played a fine game against his opponent, Fahr, who towered over him at least five inches.

Ricker played a brilliant game at forward for the Centennials, scoring three of his team's seven baskets. In addition his floor game was fast and his passing accurate. Fahr showed up well at center and contributed two baskets. Particularly in the first half the Seniors showed vast improvement over the form which they exhibited two weeks ago.

Play started off with a rush and before the Freshmen were able to strike their stride the Seniors had a lead of five points. Engstrom started the scoring for the under-classmen and by the end of the period the Freshmen had worked the score up to 10-9 in favor of the Seniors. In the second period there were but three goals made, two going to the Freshmen and one to the Seniors. However as the Seniors were able to gain a point on fouls, the score for the second period ended a tie at 15-15. In the extra period of five minutes Ricker slipped in a shot bordering on the sensational and as the Freshmen could make but one of their fouls good for a point the Seniors carried off the victory by a margin of a single point.

The line-up and summary follow:

Seniors 17. Freshmen 16.
Long L. F. Barcus
Ricker R. F. Smith
