

January 27, 1938

Dear Edna:

Here are notes which I hope will be of some use to you, at least they are a starter. I have made the list of books wanted short to begin with, taking only what I regard as the most essential.

Do what you will with the statement. It is offered only as a suggestion.

You don't know how encouraged I feel in having you so interested, so willing to give time and strength which I am afraid you need for other things, to the enterprise.

One of these days when I am a little freer / you must come over and get a bird's eye view of the stuff I have.

Affectionately