Four Students Sent To Harrisburg For Student Conference

Beiler, Diskin, Clark, Detweiler Represent the College at Problems Meet

Four Allegheny college students will leave today for Harrisburg where they will attend the eighth annual Inter-collegiate Conference on Government, April 24 to April 27.

Arthur Diskin '42, who is regional director of the organization will head the local delegation. David Beiler '44, Edward Clark '43, and Willard Detweiler '42, are the other representatives from Allegheny.

The Conference will be in the form of a model state legislature, and the student delegates will debate and enact their "model" statutes during the three-day meeting. Nearly 300 students, representing every college and university in Pennsylvania will take part in the proceedings.

Last year's Conference was a model political convention, and other meetings have taken the form of a model constitutional convention and model governor's conference. The purpose of the I. C. G. has always been, "not to teach; not even to preach; but merely to provide the means whereby students may learn together how their government operates." Each annual Conference supplements classroom studies in the history and political science field by providing a "laboratory" where students study government by participating in "model" governmental functions.

Dr. Paul H. Giddens, faculty adviser to the Allegheny group, who will attend the Conference stated that the delegates will devote their attention to the following fields: City and county government organization, state governments, taxation and finance, and labor and industry.

A. U. C. Grants Civic Music Group $300 for Student Attendance Next Year

Selection of Jane Lewis '42 as Singers' representative and Robert Nichols '42 as Playshop representative to the undergraduate council recently leaves only one seat, that of A. W. S. president to be decided.

Miss Lewis and Nichols met, to gether with other members of the new council, with the retiring group Sunday. This meeting was the first of four in which new delegates will have opportunity to watch the body in action, before they assume the responsibilities two weeks from Sunday.

Aside from a discussion of tomorrow's election for the presidency, the council discussed and acted on several routine matters.

A grant of $300 for next year was made to the Meadville Civic Music association for a contribution of this year's privilege to all students of attending any of the local programs sponsored by the organization.

Action on a petition by the Christian council for a seat on the council was deferred until President Stuart Schaffner '42 could meet with the body to justify the petition.

D., president of the college from 1860 till 1874; the Rev. James A. Beebe, D. D., president of the college from 1926 till 1930; and Arthur W. Thompson, chairman of the board of trustees from 1918 until his death in 1930.

Dale Byers is Eliminated In Primary Election; Coincidence has Both Candidates Nominated by Petition

Robert Miller and Julius Raskin will vie for the presidency of the undergraduate council in an election tomorrow in the grill. The re-election is necessary since a previous ballot failed to result in a clear majority for any candidate.

LAST-HOUR STATEMENTS BY THE TWO CANDIDATES

The Allegheny Undergraduate Council of today has within its jurisdiction the responsibilities and duties which are vital to an effective and efficient student government. During the first few years of its existence, however, the A. U. C. was undergoing a trial period and at times serious difficulties arose. Nevertheless in the past few years, it has completed its trial period and has taken its place as a vital and necessary part of Allegheny life. Repeatedly, it has justified its existence by efficient administration of undergraduate affairs. It lies with the incoming Allegheny Undergraduate Council not only to maintain the standards of the past council, but also to cope successfully with the ever-increasing demands of the students made upon the organization.

ROBERT MILLER

The Allegheny Undergraduate Council is the student government of Allegheny College. It meets certain needs and requirements of the students. In last week's chapel program I told you what I advocated and planned to do if I were elected president of the A. U. C. The choice is now up to you.

JULIUS B. RASKIN

Curriculum Changes Are Featured in New College Catalogue

The new 1941-42 Allegheny catalog has just been released for distribution. Edited by Mr. Fredrick F. Seely, the catalog announces the addition of several new courses to the curriculum for next year.

In the biology department Mr. Benjamin Glover will teach two new courses, in plant and animal physiology.

New courses will also be included in the economic and business administration departments: Sociology of Business, and Advanced Economics. In response to many requests for home economics subjects a course entitled, "Foods and Nutrition" will be offered in 1942-43.

Under the history department, Mr. Paul H. Giddens will present a course in the history of Latin America. Another class in the department will make a study of International Government and Administration, which will appear in alternate years but will not be given in 1941.

Following progressive policy, the college has added seminar courses in the departments of economics and business administration, political science and sociology for seniors preparing for comprehensive examinations.

Voting tomorrow in the grill will continue from 8:00 a. m. to 7:00 p. m.

The candidacy of Raskin and Miller is the first such under the new system by which a senior male may automatically run for the presidency upon securing 100 names to a petition.

Miller, a member of Phi Gamma Delta social fraternity, is editor of the Kaldron, is a member of Phi Beta Phi, honorary biology fraternity, and was named to Who's Who in American Colleges this year. He assisted the basketball manager this year and was a member of the soccer squad.

Raskin, of Phi Kappa Psi social fraternity, supervised the Junior Prom, has been on the men's council, belongs to Chemii and the German club, has participated in Playshop activity, and managed the Wilkie campaign in last year's mock convention.

The polls in the grill will be open all day tomorrow and voters will participate in the first use of a voting machine by any college group.

William Fallow '41, vice president of the council, will be in charge of the election in the absence of President Howard G. Gibbs '41.

Byers, Miller and Raskin ran in the previous election, last Thursday, which followed a colorful political rally in the chapel at noon. Each of the three candidates spoke briefly.

Others automatically eligible to the office, though declining to run, were: Howard Beebe, president of the Philo-Franklin Union, forensics group. Robert Brossman, editor of the Campus.

Ralph Marasco, Block A president. Robert Welday, senior class president.

This Week

ROBERT MILLER

Says

The college fraternity system is as old as the the United States of America, for it was in 1776 that Phi Beta Kappa was established as a social group at William and Mary college. Fraternities appeared first at Allegheny in 1955, when Phi Kappa Psi was chartered and since that time have become a part of Allegheny life.

One problem which the Freshmen faces is whether he should affiliate with a social fraternity if the opportunity is presented. The Freshman finds himself perplexed with this problem when college opens. For the most part he knows little about fraternities and is troubled by his inability to get impartial advice. Each fraternity embarks on a high pressure campaign which is largely selfish in its outlook, because it is anxious either to secure the largest class or the widest range of activity. The view point of the Freshman is overlooked entirely.

The fraternity choice is certainly one of the most important decisions a Freshman has to make, and one that may have a marked effect on his whole college life. It is therefore the business of the fraternities to acquaint him with as many aspects of fraternity life as possible before he is thrust into their midsts. First of these is the cost. The student who comes to Allegheny with a carefully drawn budget has a right to know what changes joining a fraternity will necessitate in that budget. Certainly his parents need to know as many facts as possible about it and thus help him to decide even before entering Allegheny, whether he is able to join.

A second factor to be taken into consideration is the ideals which the fraternity fosters. While all fraternities at Allegheny have high ideals there exists at all colleges, differences which make one group more desirable than another to the particular boy.

A third item is the real interest in the fraternity in bringing out the best in every member and in helping him to gain his place in college. This is one place where fraternities can definitely contribute toward development of leadership, not only for the college campus, but also for actual participation as a useful citizen.

College fraternities contribute many things to the individual that cannot be overlooked. Friendships formed by the close contact of men with similar interests are one of the most outstanding benefits. When men live together it is necessary to see the other fellow's point of view. Such an environment helps the students in adapting himself. In a fraternity house he learns to recognize the rights of others where he may not have had to do that before. Then there is the sense of responsibility that follows as he becomes an upperclassman. Because at Allegheny, the actual running of the house is in charge of the members themselves, it becomes necessary to think of each person's duty in a different way than he ordinarily would have without such an experience.

The proposal of the Mens' Undergraduate Council to publish a fraternity brochure is a step in the right direction in that it will enlighten the Freshmen on fraternity life before he appears on the campus. This group can present successfully the fraternity picture to Freshmen men before entering Allegheny and at the same time also give their parents an opportunity to see something of what joining a fraternity necessarily involves. Such a booklet telling the important aspects about fraternities in general should give the newcomer information which at present he never gets until he has been at Allegheny for sometime, and then after he has pledged to a fraternity.

'Hulings Last Leap' Highlights Close of Leap Week Dating

Following the custom "pay when you leave," Allegheny coeds this week are pursuing their men after the fashion of Leap Week.

Virginia Viets '42 chairman of this annual event has announced a dance for tomorrow evening. The dance will mark the close of the events. Allegheny women will bring their escorts to Hulings hall where Frankie Fornear and his orchestra will play for dancing in the recreation room and the gymnasium.

Designated as HULINGS' LAST LEAP, the affair will be in the atmosphere of building construction, commented Mary Lois Campbell '43, chairman for the dance. Included in her committee are Betsy Appleby '42, Helen McVicar '43, Patricia Ludeman '43, Jean Swan '43, Esther Campbell '44, Ann Rinehart '44, Elizabeth Hart '44 and Ellen Boyd '44.

Before the dance (from 7 o'clock to 9 o'clock) the Alumni gardens will be open for students to gather for refreshment. The dance has been scheduled from 9 o'clock to 11 o'clock. A. W. S. has granted free 12 o'clocks for women students using an 11 o'clock permission. Sports dress is required.

IN MEMORIAM
Jean Feierabend '42
Died Sunday, April 13

RESULTS OF THE preliminary election for the A. U. C. presidency serve to bear out that body's contention that under the former arbitrary set-up some of the outstanding students were being overlooked. For the first time the petitions were allowed and as a result the two final contenders are found to be backed by those same petitions.

We wonder what would have happened had there been no such chance for these candidates to come forward. Possibly there would have been only one man in earnest about wanting the presidency, Dale Byers, who ran with Miller and Raskin in last Thursday's election.

The results are self explanatory. The new plan has uncovered two worthwhile candidates, candidates who certainly would have gone unheeded under the former rule. The new plan speaks for itself.

About half the student body voted in last Thursday's preliminary election to name a president for the undergraduate council.

In-as-much as the president of the council has a great deal to do with the allocation of more than $12,000 in student funds the election is worth a little thought.

Then, too, the president must be a worthwhile representative of the school. There will be many times when he will be called upon to speak for Allegheny. He will have a lot to do with what a great many people think of the college.

He will have to show keenness. He will be the head of the group that is the head of the student body. He will have to act wisely in the interests of the students.

He will have to command respect on the campus. The job will be difficult enough even without a disgruntled faction working him.

For these several reasons the student body should select a man whom they have confidence in. They should take interest and vote in tomorrow's election. It is for their own good that they vote for the man they feel will do the better job.

WE ARE WELL AWARE that student interest in this paper is difficult to make secure. Having this in mind, the major part of our efforts will be toward stimulating interest and making for an interesting publication.

An important part of our effort will lie in following through some of Mr. Gibb's ideas. We like "clean" elections and other such worthwhile aims. We shall continue to plump for them.

With this issue we will put into effect some things we have been mulling over for some time. We are weeding out everything that lacks vitality and appeal.

In line with this the social column will be dropped. It has been our firm belief that few people read it—out it goes.

With the next issue the guest column will be discontinued. Perhaps these contributions weren't sprightly enough. At any rate they served mainly to fill space. It's easy enough to fill space that way, but we have chosen to add more interesting features in their stead.

The more interesting features? Elsewhere in the paper you will notice an expository description of the work of Don Murray, college director of publicity. Did many people know anything about him? We think not. It's sort of a Campus course in orientation. Other similar articles will follow. We feel that these people who will be discussed are of sufficient interest to warrant the articles.

Following the orientation idea further we shall begin, with the next issue, a series of articles on campus organizations and clubs, designed to add to the average student's knowledge of the college. At least we'll place the information out for consumption.

We hope to be able to dramatize the paper soon. We are well aware that the pages are rather listless. We have some ideas about that too.

More pictures and more often is another aim toward which we think we have made an important step with this issue. We hope to be able to continue with them.

We want to get you to pause on the inside pages on your way to "Hallzapoppin'." We want you to read most of the paper. We're trying to make it easier. You can help with suggestions.

We maintain offices on the third floor of Ruter hall. Drop in for a visit. Give us your reactions and you'll get action.

Marjorie Sheasley's Condition Serious

Miss Marjorie Sheasley, a graduate of Allegheny in 1939, is reported to be still in a serious condition as the result of injuries received in an airplane accident on Wednesday, April 16.

Miss Sheasley, employed in the treasurer's office of the college, is a student of the Civil Aeronautic Authority's primary flight course, conducted at the local airport by the college. She had been on a solo flight and had attempted to land the plane after the motor had stalled at a height of about 2500 feet.

At Spencer Hospital, where she is confined, Miss Sheasley's condition was described as serious but not critical.

Nature Films Shown Tonight in Alden

Dr. R. A. Kirkpatrick, one of the skilled lecturers of the Union Pacific Railroad company, will present colored films on "Flowers of the American Desert" tonight at 7:30 o'clock in Alden hall.

The lecture is under the auspices of the Meadville Bird and Tree club. The Speaker is president of the National American congress and has nation wide experience in his field of portraying beautiful American scenery.

The lecture is free and a cordial invitation is extended to all students and faculty to attend. At 2:30 in the afternoon Kirkpatrick will show pictures of the national parks at the North Ward school.

A new method of running off the intramural ping pong—pardon me—table tennis tournament was introduced this year. Tables were set up in the gym where everyone had plenty of light and room enough to move without colliding with a steam pipe, furnace, etc. Each fraternity and the Alden Men entered four men, and the whole first round was run off on Monday evening, together with part of the second round. Some extremely good playing was displayed considering the amount of time the fellows can spend on the game, what with studies interfering as much, or little, as they do.

The Phi Gams had a couple of extraordinary entries. Dick Nichols, being on the ambidextrous side, plays with a paddle in each hand. No one knew of any rule against his unorthodox style, so I suppose it is legal. The other "odd fellow" is Ellis McKay, who apparently got hungry one evening, chewed off the handle of his miniature racket, and then found that he could play just as well by wrapping his fingers around what was left. I still don't think it can be done, but Ellis disagrees, and plays a pretty good game from all reports.

Here are the results of the first round (the winner's name is written first):

- McKnight (PDT)—Lord (PKP)
- Spears (AXP)—Beller (ALD)
- Haack (BK)—Bowman (DTD)
- Petersen (PDT)—Harper (PGD)
- Munger (BK)—Sklarsky (ALD)
- Larson (PDT)—J. Cramer (DTD)
- McKay (PGD)—Kenny (BK)
- McEwen (SAE)—Myers (AXP)
- Neiner (BK)—Hartman (AXP)
- Turk (ALD)—Marasco (DTD)
- Nichols (PGD)—Brokas (SAE)
- Brandt (PGD)—Alderfer (ALD)
- Blotter (BK)—Doncaster (SAE)
- Caldwell (PKP)—Evert (DTD)
- James (PDT)—Nasta (AXP)
- Blank (SAE)—First (PKP)

Thus it is seen that all four of the BK's and PDT's got into the second round, but not one Tau Delt came through. I guess the boys from over on Highland Avenue just study too hard.

No plans have been made as yet for tennis and softball. An intramural council meeting will probably be held soon to establish any new rules needed and the schedule of games.

Way Widens Scope Of Athletic Program

Local Coach is Well Known in Sport Circles Here Since Coming in '30

Guiding the destinies of Allegheny College's athletic teams for the past ten years has been one of the college's most capable members, Howard Paul Way. Well-known to local sports enthusiasts as well as students, Way is one of the most affable and interesting of the faculty members.

Graduated from Springfield (Mass.) College in 1929 with a Bachelor of Physical Education degree, Mr. Way was given the position of Supervisor of Physical Education of the Lewis-town (Pa.) schools during 1929-30. It was the fall of 1930 that he first took up his duties at Allegheny and was named Assistant Professor of Physical Education.

Mr. Way's success as coach and athletic director today reflects the fine instruction he received there as an undergraduate. Recognized as probably the outstanding Physical Education school in the country, Springfield was established primarily as a Physical Education school and has liberal arts courses which serve as supplements to the regular course and take the relative position of athletics in our school life here. Springfield is well-known over the entire country and has probably done more original research in Physical Education than any other American school.

His training at Springfield stood him in good stead upon his arrival here in the fall of 1930. Coach Hammett had taken ill during the previous summer and as a result Mr. Way was forced to take up the full reins of responsibility in the Athletic Department. Since that time the progress and development of the athletic department and program has been nothing short of miraculous. His teams are known to opposing coaches as always being well-drilled and coordinated combines. An excellent teacher, Way is a master at body mechanics and fundamentals and his teaching methods and thoroughness are largely responsible for the success of his teams. Though his value as a coach alone has been quite substantial, it is as athletic director and developer of the athletic program that we now have that is more deserving of praise.

From a department which centered almost entirely on football and basketball Mr. Way has built up the present system to include a well-rounded schedule of intercollegiate sports and matches. For example, during this year alone, Allegheny College teams will have been engaged in over 70 intercollegiate contests with 25 different schools. This certainly compares favorably with the former schedule of about 25 contests per year. At the present time six freshman and varsity teams engage in matches each year in such sports as football, soccer, basketball, swimming, track and tennis. Beside this the department now conducts the annual intercollegiate golf tournament, one of the most outstanding spring sports events in Western Pennsylvania.

H. Paul Way

In addition, under Mr. Way's direction, the intramural program has been greatly developed and rounded out. A well organized group of intramural contests are conducted each year among the fraternities and this together with the gym class requirements insures each student the opportunity and advantages of properly taught sport and exercises.

Another outstanding feature of the department's development under Mr. Way is the college health service, the finest of its kind in the district. His fine work here earned him the position of Associate Professor which he has held since 1932 as head of the department.

Mr. Way is a member of the American Association of University Professors, the Collegiate Physical Education Association and is the former Secretary-treasurer and present Vice-president of the northwest section of the American Association of Health, Physical Education and Recreation.

Gator Trackers Show Promise In Workouts

Hurdle, Sprint and Field Men Show up Well in Early Rehearsals

All indications in the track outlook of Allegheny are toward a highly successful season this year since the squad members have coupled hard work with the fine weather to reach a point in conditioning far advanced over that of previous Gator outfits.

In fields of particular events, the distance men of the varsity have displayed fine form, and may run through a few time trials this week. Dave Kinzer, a senior with three years of competition behind him is easily the outstanding man on the squad, having spent his Easter holidays in working out with the track team of the University of Pittsburgh. Kinzer will run the two-mile, mile, and half-mile on this year's team.

Among the other distance men, Ed Gastelger and Don Modisher stand out, he former, who has been in competition for four years, will run the two-mile, and mile, while the latter expects to compete in the mile, and half-mile. Blaine Dietrich, Bob Blotter, Joe Riegger and John Caruthers will round out this department of the team.

The hurdles have been in use since the return from holidays, and Don Starr, Ricky Caldwell, Larry Larson and Bob McPherson have proven to be capable timber-toppers. Starr, a senior, has had three years of inter-collegiate competition in both the high and low hurdle events, and was a frequent point-getter on last season's varsity team. Caldwell will also compete in the broad jump and the sprints, while MacPherson expects a post as a high-jumper, and discuss-thrower. Earl Anger, expected to work in the hurdle group this season, has been forced to withdraw from the squad due to a knee injury sustained during the vacation period.

In addition to Caldwell, varsity sprinters include, George Cramer, Lee Strong, and Larry May.

In the field events, veteran George Hartwell, captain of this year's team, has displayed excellent possibilities in the high-jump, pole-vault, discus, and shot-put. Bill Pierce, in his first year on the varsity team, has also shown great promise in the pole-vault.

Coach Al Werner stated in an interview, "Although we'll have only about two men in each event, we have a well-balanced squad, and should show some good results in the first meet."

The freshman squad has been sifted into the various event groups, and several members have shown especial aptitude in fields in which they have never competed. Don Turk displays potentialities in both the high and low hurdles, and the discus throw, while Dick Rice is quite apt at learning the secrets of successful pole-vaulting, an event which is absolutely new to him. Joe Sorce and Don Weller, both of whom have had previous experience, Ernie Newton, and Ed Jung are the other pole-vault hopefuls.

Netters Open Season In Pittsburgh Friday

Team will Tangle with Duquesne in First Game; Next Day Will Meet Carnegie Tech also in Pittsburgh

Allegheny's netters open their season this weekend when they journey to Pittsburgh to meet the Duquesne University netmen on the Duke courts Friday. The following day the 'Gators move into Schenley to face Carnegie Tech in the second match of the weekend.

After holding their drills before Easter vacation in the gymnasium, the netters moved out onto the Caflich courts where the first real practices got underway. Since then practices have been held daily from 4 until 5 in the afternoon.

The unusually fine weather which has prevailed for the most part since vacation has aided the team greatly in its early drills and has speeded up conditioning for the early matches. Since the neighboring schools have also benefitted by this factor, prospects indicate that the locals may look forward to stiff competition all the way through the coming campaign.

The series of team practices have been carried out with a view to giving the individual squad members a good foundation on which to build their game. Fundamentals of stroking and footwork were emphasized in the gymnasium sessions and these fundamentals have been carried over into the outdoor practices in the last two weeks.

Coach Way indicated that he looked forward to close contests in both of the weekend's matches and pointed out several factors to support his view.

In the first place, the team this year which will represent the Blue and Gold is the same identical one which weathered last year's campaign with the exception of John Topper and Art Gratz. Playing numbers one and three men respectively in the singles and teaming to occupy the top doubles berth, their absence represents a considerable loss to the outfit from last year. This loss has not been adequately made up by the oncoming sophomores and as a result the team, on paper at least, is not quite so strong as that of last year.

Mr. Way pointed out also that the local aggregation in spite of the good weather, may expect to encounter in the two university teams' outfits which have had the advantage of extensive early indoor practice and will probably be much nearer mid-season form than the 'Gators.

The horizon looms bright in other respects, however, concerning both the Tech and Duke matches!

Last year, against a young and inexperienced Duke squad, the Gators swept all nine contests in the match

Fresh distance men have been working with varsity runners as pacers, and have begun to develop the endurance necessary for these gruelling events. Bill Goodnough, John Caughey, Jim Harrison, Parker Swanson, Tom Putney, Jim Heilbrun, Harry Peeler, and Jack Kane are all seeking places in this division.

The sprints will be run by Bill Cramer, Felix Konstandt, Slug Herriott, and Ernie Newton. Bud Buckingham, and Warren Ash, originally slated as sprinters have been transformed into hurdlers, and are striving to develop the perfect technique necessary for that event.

The weight division of the freshman field events, which includes the shot-put and discus throw, will be handled by: Tom Hooper, Harry Shepard, Konstandt, Andy Williams, Cal Miller, and Dave Johnson. In the broadjump, Vic Wagner, Goodnough, Herriott and Konstandt are planning to share the duties.

Both squads are working out daily; the freshmen from three o'clock until four, and the varsity from four o'clock until five. The varsity team opens its season against the University of Rochester at home on High School Day, Saturday, May the third.

Modisher Lost to Local Cinder Squad

Don Modisher, a junior and a resident of Meadville, will be lost to the varsity track team for the remainder of the present season. Modisher, who has displayed fine form in the distance events in practice sessions, will undergo an operation today.

Bill McEwen Wins Ping Pong Match

Bill McEwen, SAE, emerged victorious in the interfraternity ping pong tournament Tuesday night when he defeated Dick Nichols, PGD, in the final round 2-0. Both men displayed a fine brand of play but McEwen's vicious drives earned him his two winning games by scores of 21-11 and 21-18.

to humble the down-state school. This year, though the Duquesne squad will undoubtedly be stronger than last, the chances appear good for an initial Allegheny victory.

In the case of Tech, the situation cannot be considered so optimistically. In their match two years ago the Tartans bowed to the Gators by a 6-3 margin in a closely fought match. Last year, the match between the two schools was rained out and no later one was scheduled. Since their last meeting, the Tartans have been steadily improving and can be expected to force the Gators to the limit in their Saturday match.

At this writing the starting lineup of the squad can be nothing more than speculation. With the exception of the number one and possibly the number two assignment, the singles berths are not yet filled. Bill McEwen, captain will play in the top singles slot and will probably be followed by Hector Caravacci. The remaining four singles representatives will be drawn from among the following: George Blank, Roddy Flint, Alex Brokas, Bob McVey, Ben Fauver and Bob Leuthner.

The three doubles assignments will probably be filled by Mc Ewen and Caravacci as number one, Flint and Blank at number two and Brokas and Mc Vey at number three. These combines have appeared strongest in the practices held so far this year.

The entire squad includes the following men: Bill Mc Ewen, Hector Caravacci, George Blank, Roddy Flint, Alex Brokas, Bob McVey, Ben Fauver, Bob Leuthner, Will Bowman, Bruce Harper, Russ Simonetta and John Harney.

The tennis schedule for the year is:

The Allegheny Outing club will make their annual spring trip this week end, April 26 and April 27, to Cook's forest.

All members wishing to go will please sign the list posted in Hulings hall as soon as possible, President Bruce Campbell '42, announced Tuesday. Members having access to cars are urged to get in touch with Miss Christine Schwartz.

In order to take advantage of the warm weather, regular busses will be scheduled to leave the gymnasium for Bousson farm every Tuesday and Wednesday afternoons as 1:30 p. m. and will return at 5:00 p. m. These outings will be open to the entire college. Further information concerning these events will be posted on the college bulletin boards.

An important meeting of the Outing club has been scheduled for Tuesday evening, April 29, 7:00 p. m. in Carnegie hall. All members are urged to attend.

ONE OF THESE DULL WEEKS

when nothing in spite of Huling's renovations, Leapweekers and Walruses seems very amusing. In this instance an old copy of the Gay Gator is to be preferred. Cries of "Why this instance!" from the Highest House on the Hill. You had better not read any further.

IN CHRONOLOGICAL ORDER, the first item here should be on the Walrus and the Carpenter. Every person on campus has been accused. I'd like here to state I had no part of it. There will be a blank paper placed on the Library bulletin board upon which those who so wish may enter their name as having no part in these publications. My personal opinion of the sheets is this. The Walrus was good, clever satire— if a bit objectless and the Carpenter—plain dull. And so it was a bit depressing to discover that they were allegedly written by the same person.

AS FOR LEAP WEEK

it started off with a crash Sunday morning. A male garter was found beside Beebe House. Some bearded Cinderella, no doubt. By the time this is published, Leap Week will have gone on and on and on. At least one Phi Delt pin was hung but inasmuch as it was hung back again as a Leap Week gesture, the matter won't be cleared up until we submerge to normality again.

VERY FEW NAMES

in the NEWS—not even an oddity. Fussing about Hulings some Phi Psis saw more than was good for their blood pressure. It was one of two Hulings. Each Huling would like to know whether the vision was slim or other wise in order to know which one treated.

SUSPICIONS WERE AROUSED

at the Pan-hell dance when the Thetas grabbed top position on the list of sororities on that painted Thing. P. A., superintendent of works on that thing, and a T. U., explained it away with the information that Theta was founded first on this campus. Howsoever!—Be it known by these presents that the committee for the Leap Week dance consists of four Thetas and four sorority-ignorant Freshmen! Now that's obviously dirty rushing. Within two years, this column predicts, Kappa Alpha Theta will be the only sorority at Allegheny.

AND THAT'S ALL

You probably realize how pressed for time some of us fellows are this week.

MILLER

With the publication of such a pamphlet, the fraternities will be further ahead because their pledges will be more conscious of the many aspects of fraternity life and the Freshman will be more happier in that they will have had an opportunity to become acquainted with fraternities before becoming a part of them. Other colleges have used the plan with success, and there is no reason why such a publication, if carefully planned, should not do the same for Allegheny. Because the fraternities have existed for so long at Allegheny this is an additional reason for seeing that everything is done to make their members conscious of the responsibility for intelligent help to Freshmen.

I hope the M. U. C. is completely successful with this plan. It definitely should become an annual publication of Allegheny College.

Twelve Freshmen Tapped For Cwens

Saturday, April 19, at 12 noon the annual tapping ceremony was held in the upper ravine.

The freshman women honored for their scholarship, leadership and interest in activities were; Virginia Bennet, Joan Bliss, Ellen Boyd, Marilyn Braniger, Caroline Emerson, Martha Entler, Ruth Hammon, Nancy Konstanzer, Jean Merrill, Anne Rinehart, Charlotte Snell and Doris Traub.

The ceremony in which the sophomore Cwens took part was made colorful by the use of red and gray, traditional Cwen colors, in draping the throne and branches placed on the lawn in the ravine.

Freshman Speaking Prelims on Monday

Preliminaries in the annual freshman persuasive speaking contest will be held Monday from 7:30 to 9:00 p. m. in Arter hall and the finals will be run off Wednesday, May 7, in the Playshop at 8:00 p. m.

As in the past each section of the freshman speech classes will select a member to represent it in the contest. In addition, any other freshman is eligible to compete unsponsored.

All interested students are urged to sign up in the speech office in Arter hall. Speeches will be ten minutes long and should be of a persuasive nature.

Pre-Registration is From May 1 to 10

All juniors, sophomores and freshmen are asked by the administration to complete pre-registration for next fall between May 1st and 10th.

Each student should:

1. make an appointment with his advisor and consult with him as to the selection of courses.
2. secure the signatures on the registration slip of the professors or teachers in chosen classes, and return the slip to the advisor.

Jane Ruoss Represents Kappas at Convene

Jane Ruoss '42, will represent the Allegheny chapter of Kappa Kappa Gamma at a province convention in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, the week end of April 26-27.

Other colleges attending this semi-annual convention include University of Pennsylvania, Adelphi college, University of Pittsburgh and Pennsylvania State college.
