Dear Miss Johnston:

I have been away from New York most of the time since I saw you. I am obliged to return to Washington tonight. Before I go I want to say, however, that I have had a talk over the 'phone with Dr. Halton, who tells me that she will be glad to treat you if you will call upon her. I think from what I can learn that you are entirely wrong in your suspicions. If you have not already arranged for the treatment you desire, I should suggest your going back to her.

I am enclosing a glove which you left the night that you called to see me.

Hoping that you will find the treatment which is satisfactory, believe me,

Very truly yours

Ida M. Tarbell
