

[illegible]

[illegible]

This invasion of the free air ^{by the} ~~conventions~~ ^{conventions} causes a ~~demoralization~~ ^{demonstration} in the Lorraine. At Larroumet's lecture 2 years ago the students gave so furious a ^{response} ~~to~~ ^{to} himself ~~to~~ ^{to} stand while running ^{and} ~~and~~ ^{and} the ~~up~~ ^{up} seats that they literally ~~used~~ ^{used} ~~and~~ ^{and} threw out the ~~lectures~~ ^{lectures} had to be closed to all save those who held tickets. I confess I sympathized with the students for I had ^{very} ~~also~~ ^{also} had the pleasure of a seat of a very kind at these lectures ~~which~~ ^{which} ~~I was at some of the time of the not being able to~~ come on even a hundred to a seat. This demonare not against the women who go to the Sorbonne do serious work. On the whole a woman has perfect freedom in going & coming about the Sorbonne, ^{in the streets} there is no ~~natural~~ ^{man} who is glad to detect a lady than a Frenchman, and so no man so quick to see the flirt: let him see that you are a genuine serious & you pass unmolested. ~~It is~~ ^{act} ~~for~~ ^{that} it is a mistake to suppose a woman is anything of a curiosity in Paris student circles. For several years ^{very} have followed mine a ^{number} like the lectures in the various schools of the city. At present there are prejudices for giving degrees in all of the ^{professions} schools. Medical ~~lectures~~ ^{lectures} were necessary have been forgot. A woman carries with as much freedom about the Sorbonne as about Allegheny - if she answers ^{type} to the French ~~as~~ ^{as} in the same way that she does ^{but} to Americans if she has the macadamized and bad taste to visit on duty maladroitness and bad taste to visit on duty in the S. as she would in A. she may sometimes be annoyed. But she will surely find it largely a question of her adaptability to new circumstances whether she get on or not.

But I have overrun the 400 rods and I can hear the crunching of the editor's blue pencil he turned ^{down the} ~~question~~ into my pen so quickly

How wide for Campus Life at Sarbonne
