Dear Mrs. Pritchett:

Please do not think that I have forgotten Mrs. Kennan and her rug. I had copies of the description you lent me made with notes of the articles she mentioned in her letter. These I have sent where I thought they might interest but have had no response as yet. I am enclosing copies which you might have a chance to use.

At last I think I shall be able to see Mrs. Kennan within a few days. I must go to Rochester within a few days. She is only forty miles away and I shall run down from there for a few hours. Of course I will write you as soon as I have talked with her and looked over her possessions. If you are still here when I return which will be about the fifteenth possibly we can arrange to talk it over.

I cannot begin to tell you, dear Mrs. Pritchett, what a load Mrs. Carnegie's generosity has taken from my mind, but I am sure it is no heavier than the one you carried.

With all good wishes

Very sincerely yours
