NEW YORK.

Feb. 27, 1903.

Dear Mr. Stanley-Brown:

You are very good to have taken so much trouble about the Grant letter. I can see from what you say that the Garfields feel that the time is not come for its publication. We should be glad to have it, of course, but are willing to yield cheerfully to the decision. Perhaps the day may come when they will be willing to let the matter get out.

I hope you will come around and see me soon.

Very truly yours,
