OWEN D. YOUNG

Dear Miss Tarbell:

I was out of my office from eleven this morning until three o'clock (it is now 3.15) and only received your letter on my return. I have tried to reach you by telephone, but as no one answered, I conclude you are out, having given me up! I am very sorry. Can't I come to you? I shall be able to come any time probably tomorrow afternoon, or Friday.

Look in Dudley

Neither Miss Chandler nor I can find a trace of the two speeches you mention. Evidently there was no record of them. I have tried to take great care to trace down all speeches he has made, especially since I have been here.

I will look up the Samuel Untermyer letter immediately, and let you know about that.

Sincerely yours,

Max B. Russell
