

CAMPUS

GROVE CITY WON.

Allegheny Defeated by a Score of 6-0.

In a sea of mud and slush, and a drizzling rain, on Saturday Allegheny lined up for the second game with Grove City. The condition of the gridiron was awful; in some places the mud and slush were from four to six inches deep, while in no place was it less than two inches. With this under foot and rain falling throughout the game, one can, in some degree, imagine what kind of a game was played. Otherwise there were no unpleasant features and the game proceeded as usual. The attendance numbered only about two or three dozen, all of whom were unanimous in saying it was the queerest game ever witnessed. The only proper way of describing it is by caricature.

The line-up was considerably changed as Rist and Frazier were unable to go. Mook played left half back in place of Frazier and Elder was at left end in place of Rist. Both men did good work. There were no exceptional plays and all the men played their positions as well as could be expected under the circumstances. They all should be applauded for their nerve and loyalty in going into such a game which might have resulted in numerous injuries. It was impossible for the line to hold so that no gains be made, but it did hold for very small gains. Both teams lost the ball on downs several times. The remarkable feature was the small number of fumbles. Allegheny's defeat is attributed to the crippled condition of her team.

McClelland kicked off for Grove City and the ball went over the line, so it was kicked again. Gleason slipped and fumbled, thus allowing Grove City to fall on it. This made things look a little doubtful for Allegheny at first, but after a few downs little fear was had. On the first down McClelland gained three yards but the next was a loss of six yards by a fumble. A punt was then resorted to which sent the ball over the line. Allegheny brought the ball out of the twenty-five-yard line and kicked back. Myers caught the kick on the 45-yard line but was able to advance it but 3 yards. Leathers now tried our end for a loss of 4 yards, two of which were immediately regained by Weil. Grove City was again compelled to punt. Wolstoncroft downed it on the 15-yard line. In the next three downs Allegheny failed to gain and the ball went to Grove City.

Grove City again tried her luck at bucking. Byers went through for four yards and McClelland hit the other side of the line for two yards. The next three plays were less successful, only one yard being gained, and Allegheny had the ball on downs.

Pentz was immediately given the signal for a punt but the pass was bad and it was blocked. Mook was then tried and dove through the line for five yards. An off-side play by Cherbro gave Allegheny five yards more. Wolstoncroft covered eight yards on a tackle buck and was followed by Dudley and Gleason, who made three and two yards respectively. Gleason made two more, then Taylor and Mook each made three yards. In the next two plays Grove City braced up and only two yards was the result, so Pentz punted. McClelland caught the oval and advanced it five yards before he was downed in the slush. Grove City here made a succession of short bucks but in every case three downs were required to gain five yards. Myers made a neat quarter back kick and before the ball was in the fast hold of any one about seven players had dived, fallen and rolled on it. But Cheesbro finally succeeded in capturing the slippery, water soaked pigskin. Both teams soon gathered themselves together and McClelland was given the ball for a buck the result being a three-yard gain. This was the last play of the half end.

The ball was on the 25-yard line when time was called. All the playing during this half was between the 15 and the 45 yard lines.

Score, Allegheny 0; Grove City 0.

In the second half the players came upon the field stiff and in poor condition after spending the intermission in their wet clothes. Grove City apparently played much better; it was quite remarkable that they held the ball so well in the constant plunges made on Allegheny's line. But Allegheny seemed weakened. As it seemed from view of the spectators it was a case of the possessors of the ball gaining, for both teams were undoubtedly weakened by the intermission. Leininger replaced Young at right tackle for Allegheny.

Myers, of Grove City, caught the ball on the kick-off and advanced it fifteen yards. Grove City repeated her play of the first half in line bucking; it was slow work but sure. Leathers bucked for five yards. Byers then hit left tackle but could make only one yard. Weil was more successful and took it three yards and immediately followed for two more.

An end play was tried by Byers and again resulted in no gain. Grove City was at last convinced that she could not get around Allegheny's ends and no further attempts were made. The only resort was the guards back formation which they had been using and by this Leathers ploughed through the line for five yards. Byers took the ball twice in succession, netting six yards. Left tackle was broken through for three yards by Weil and Miller and McClelland netted three yards more. Leathers with good force behind him was then carried along eight yards. McClelland and Kelley together netted five yards, and then came the largest gain of the whole game through right tackle, which was only twelve yards. Byers is credited with this play. Leathers took four yards and Miller eight yards. Several small gains were made which brought the ball within two yards of Allegheny's goal. Allegheny then held her opponents for two downs without a gain, but it was so slippery that it was impossible to push the line back for a loss. On the third down, Leathers was given the ball and this time it was pushed over the line for the first and only touchdown of the game. McClelland kicked an easy goal and the score stood 6-0.

Twelve minutes had been consumed in rushing the ball down from about the middle of the field, and the touchdown was made only by hard, steady line bucking. The feature of the play thus far in this half was that Grove City had kept from fumbling. On the kick-off Myers fumbled the catch, but Bolton immediately succeeded in falling on the ball. Short plunges were made by Miller, Leathers and Byers, after which Byers succeeded in making three yards and McClelland two yards; two downs netted three yards and Grove City fumbled. Dudley was there and dropped on the ball. This was the first time Allegheny had the ball in the second half. Wolstoncroft was sent through for six yards. Allegheny failed to gain five yards in the next three downs and the ball went to Grove City. Grove City tried another quarter back kick but it was blocked by Dudley and Allegheny got the ball again. Taylor soon gained five yards but it was too late for Allegheny to begin. Time was called with the ball near the center of the field.

The next game is on Saturday with Geneva and Allegheny feels confident of victory. It is hoped that the team will be in fine condition with the regular men in the game.

The line up was as follows:

The candidates were obliged to declare themselves in person not less than seventeen days before the election and to appear in the Forum at that time. Also in the interval before the election they came every day to the Forum, clad in pure white, to conduct their canvass. Sometimes, when party spirit ran high, political clubs

And in a few years Pittsburg will be proud of one of, if not the largest and best technological school of the world.

Classical Club.
Classical Club held its first meeting Tuesday evening, Nov. 13, with a large attendance. The club this year is in a most prosperous condition, the number of members being greater than ever before.

A Roman on becoming of age at 17 was enrolled in the list of citizens and assigned to his division for voting. He thus became an elector, but could not hold office until after he had served ten years in the army. The order of magistrates was fixed by law and two years must elapse after the expiration of one year of office before a citizen could become eligible to another. In case of the consulship the time was ten years.

GREAT TECHNOLOGICAL SCHOOL

To be Founded by Mr. Carnegie.

Formal announcement was made last Thursday by Mr. Andrew Carnegie at a dinner given to him and the trustees of the Carnegie Institute at the Schenley Hotel, of Pittsburg, of his purpose to found in Pittsburg a school of technology that will rival any similar school in the world. The only request that Mr. Carnegie made of the city was that it furnish a site suitable for all necessary improvements in the future. He promises to make the initial endowment $1,000,000 in 5 per cent. gold bonds.

Mr. Carnegie's idea is that, as Pittsburg is to become the center of the iron and steel industries of the world, so it shall also become the center of technological education.

For several years he has had this plan in mind and has given special attention to such schools. He will do this work as thoroughly as he does everything he undertakes, and a magnificent school will soon be the pride of Pittsburg. No decision has been reached as to the site, though his desire is that it be the one running from the present building of the Carnegie Institute to Mawhinney street. No hint was given as to the style or size of the buildings, but they will be designed solely for the purpose their donor has named for them, and will probably be of an extent sufficient to accommodate 300 students, allowance being made for extensions in the future without rearrangement.

A special council meeting will probably be called to accept Mr. Carnegie's generous gift and make the necessary arrangements for the site. And in a few years Pittsburg will be proud of one of, if not the largest and best technological school of the world.

One of the best signs of the times is the fact that inter-collegiate contests are not confined to brawn but that the brain also takes a formidable place. Intercollegiate debating has been growing in popularity for several years and, from all appearances, will soon become as universal as athletics. In Allegheny such brain contests are not new, for we have been in them for years and have succeeded in carrying off many honors and prizes. We are still in the work and must push on to more victories. Last year the annual debate with Albion was won by Albion. This year the debate takes place here and we must win. Now this means hard work for those who contest, for contestants will be chosen by preliminary debates. The latest in Allegheny seems to be very strong for debating. To become a formidable debater is a difficult undertaking; it requires tireless energy and intense application. But it is valuable and is worth all that it costs. It teaches a man to think on his feet; it develops an insight into the methods of practical and systematic thinking. These acquirements are surely worth the effort which can be put into the work.

Every debater in the college should apply himself to the subject chosen and in every way aid our contestants. Take an active part and enter the preliminary debates.

There is a general feeling among college people throughout the country over the stand taken by the Chicago University in compelling all student employees to wear a distinctive uniform. According to reports, the authorities are intentionally trying to create distinctions of cast among the students and are aiming at ambitious poverty. As it really seems, though, those who are uniformed can rightfully wear uniforms, for they are employed on the Bureau of Information of the University and some distinction is necessary here in order to designate them from other students and thus do away with any confusion. Any vague appearance of favor against the poor student is exaggerated now and probably should be in order to maintain the prevailing position taken by educators. But those who keep in touch with college affairs of the whole country, know that there has never been a time when so much attention has been given to aiding ambitious students who must work their own way through college. Besides the help received from scholarships, prizes, etc., departments of learning have been established in several institutions where every sort of work can be gotten on application. Such students are now highly respected and have their place on an equal with the wealthy. What now makes the distinction, to a greater extent, is the standing in general college work.

Allegheny Literary Monthly.

We are glad to note the appearance of the first edition of the Allegheny Literary Monthly for the year 1900-1901. Its unavoidable delay, on account of the change in the board, particularly the business manager, will surely be overlooked; it is the result of the member of the board.

The general tone of the Monthly is very good, in fact above the average. The first article, "The Negro in American Law," by Clarence F. Ross, gives the arguments for and against the law; it is very interesting and should be read by every student. The articles by the seniors of last year give evidence of much thought and careful preparation. In fact every part of the magazine is good and the board is to be congratulated on its work.

The campus offers her best wishes of the continued success and prosperity of the Literary Monthly.

were formed. The Romans made use of money to advance their political interests much more lavishly and skillfully than do politicians now.

The date for the elections was fixed by the Senate, and immediately after midnight on this day the auspices were taken with great care, as the elections would not be valid if any mistakes were made. For the purpose of voting the people were divided into the classes on the basis of their wealth and these again into centuries. Before the election, a solemn prayer was offered by the magistrates and then the votes were cast by the centuries in regular succession. Each elector went into one of the booths erected for this purpose along the Campus Martius and there wrote the initials of his favorite candidate on a slip of paper given him. After the count of the several centuries was made, the presiding officer announced the name of the successful candidate, which was necessary to make the election valid.

ORATORICAL ASSOCIATION.

Albion Debate—Subject of Debate Decided Upon.

The Oratorical Association met Saturday after chapel to consider the report of a committee appointed a few days before to arrange for the Albion-Allegheny Debate. The committee, consisting of Prof. Smith, Messrs. Travis and Bird, reported in favor of the selection of the team by preliminary contest, a method used by most of the inter-collegiate debating clubs. This affords an opportunity for any young man in the college to secure a place on the team. Hitherto the debaters have been selected by vote in the association. The new departure will insure the college of a meritorious representation on the team.

In addition to the above business a number of questions for debate were presented by the committee. The choice of the committee was restricted to three questions: The United States should maintain a position as a world power; Relating to the dismemberment of China; and combinations of capital monopolizing production are inimicable to public welfare. On motion the association expressed its preference for the last named question. This is indeed a broad, wide-awake question and ought to arouse considerable interest among the members of the association. With the great amount of literature available on this subject a debating team ought to be able to present very strong arguments on either side. It is hoped that quite a number of the young men of the college will prepare themselves for the preliminary contest. Albion won the debate last year. They won their victory by thorough preparation in preliminary contests and not by superior forensic ability. There is material in the college to carry off the laurels in this contest.

Those who have this work in charge desire every debater to enter the contest so that the best man may be chosen.

AMONG THE COLLEGES.

For a college newspaper, "The Campus" seems to fill the bill.—W. U. P. Courant.

The attendance at O. S. U. up to Tuesday evening was 1,302. This is an increase of 15 per cent. over that of last year.

In twenty-five years the number of students in institutions of higher learning has increased from 538 to 1,215 in a million inhabitants.

The University of Pennsylvania is to receive a valuable accession to its Botanical Library. This valuable donation is from Robert Buist of Philadelphia.

A new fraternity to which students in Chemistry alone are eligible, has been established at the University of Illinois. It is known as Phi Lambda Upsilon, and has six charter members.

The freshman class of Radcliffe College has elected among other officers Miss Helen Keller, the only blind student who ever attempted to go through the institution, vice president of the class.
