

December 11, 1931

Dear Mr. Latham:

When we talked about the Young book you said, "by all means use illustrations." The photographs which I collected are now with the American as they are a little uncertain what they want to use. I think it wiser for me to try and ~~not~~ take them away. You can get plenty from news agents, or if you prefer Miss Gertrude Chandler at Mr. Young's office, 120 Broadway, would I am sure let you select from their files - you can of course use my name in telephoning her.

I am enclosing one photograph which I think would do admirably for your purpose, Mr. Young and his life long Van Hornesville friend, Abram Tillyou.

Very sincerely

Mr. H. S. Latham
Macmillan & Company
60 Fifth Avenue
New York City