

Highly significant

As a quotation in the discussion of Disillusionment use Balfour's saying that life is "merely a disreputable episode." in the history of one of the minor planets."

Dr. Jordon, Page 295, Vol. II takes issue. But it is interesting how many years ago I went through this period of disillusionment. The problem is to deny the possibility that that is just what life is. There is the reputable, there is the joyous. It is our business to get as much as possible to counter-act, not to ignore the disreputable that harms us and dins in our ears that it is the only thing to be considered. The technique is not to stifle it, but to square off and punch it.