

172 Elm Street, Oberlin, Ohio.

July 29, 1909.

My dear Miss Tarbell,

I am sorry not to have been able to send the material you wished more promptly. I hope the delay has not caused you inconvenience.

You will notice that I have added one or two scraps for which you did not ask. I thought it just possible that they might have some interest for you and so have enclosed them. If you wish further information please let me know and I shall be glad to give any assistance in my power. I did not think you would care for further details in regard to the matter referred to in your third question; but I will of course send them, if you wish. Hoping that I have covered the points desired, believe me, my dear Miss Tarbell,

Very sincerely yours,

Edith Dickerson.