My dear Mr. Gardner:-

I have been away from Washington for some four weeks and returning this morning find on my desk your note of June 25th. I simply want to say now that I answered in my own mind the little point you raised before I wrote the article on Bread Returns. As soon as I am out of the accumulation of correspondence and things to do which I find here, I will put my answer into a letter to you. I am glad you wrote to me. This is the way to make the world go round.

Very sincerely yours,
