Miss Tarbell

When I went to look about for one of the little reprint books of "Lincoln in Rushville" I found the supply of copies I had bound up had been exhausted and it became necessary to make a search in the office stock room for the loose sheets I had put away twenty five years ago and reprint a cover.

I think now I will rewrite the story and add some things that have come up since this was prepared as a newspaper feature story long years ago.

Yours very truly
