These geneological notes on the Robins family, so far as they pertain to the Lincoln's are a confusion of things hard and fast.

Jacob Robins could not have hunted with Abraham Lincoln, that is not in Kentucky, as Lincol was only seven years old when he left that State. No doubt Jacob Robins hunted in Kentucky and he wrote of Lincoln hunting in Indiana. Evidently Jacob Robins knew Thomas Lincoln lived for <sup>14</sup>four years in Indiana. According to Jacob Robins story Thomas Lincoln only looked for land in Indiana and not finding it passed through.

It is

This kind of reporting that makes the task of the biographer so difficult
