

The Daily Pantagraph

BLOOMINGTON, ILLINOIS

Sept. 20, 1924.

Miss Ida M. Tarbell,
New York.

Dear Madam:

Knowing that you have written much of Abraham Lincoln, and have carried on extensive investigations of incidents of his life in Illinois, I am enclosing two clippings which tell of an incident that possibly you may never have dwelt upon. If this is of any use to you, I should be glad to hear from you, and as the writers in the two instances are still living in this vicinity, they might furnish further details if such are desired.

Yours truly,

Jacob L Hasbrouck

