Dear Miss Tarbell:

More than once while in New York recently I have tried to get in touch with you.
I have wanted to suggest that you write up the life of Henry M. Selow, the first editor of Detroit, now over 80 years old, whose life if written would read like a romance. A poor boy, he invented the self-started and made the Cadillac Lincoln car. His life story ought to be told. I have had much of it from his lips and know how good it is. I enclose an article which recently appeared with best regards in which the family joins.

Sincerely yours,

Wm. B. Hooley
