Dear President Kelly:

Please pardon the delay in replying to your letter of a fortnight ago. I am glad you like the Young article in The American for February well enough to want to re-print it in connection with your publicity. I have no objection to your doing so, although I should like to ask that in giving the credit you mention the book from which this chapter is taken - the title is, "Owen D. Young: A New Type of Industrial Leader," and is to be published by Macmillan Company in April. I expect that we shall use as an Appendix in the book the catalogue of the, "O. D. Y. Fundamental Library," of which I speak in the article, a catalogue which seems to me very valuable for colleges.

Appreciating your interest and again apologizing for my delay in replying to your letter, believe me

Very sincerely yours
