THE FIRST GAME.

Allegheny Loses to Geneva.

Allegheny opened the foot-ball season of 1900, on Saturday and as in previous years the first game is a defeat for our team. It was a pretty game, well played by both sides and close throughout, the only unpleasant feature for Alleghenians being the loss of the game. In the first half it seemed easy for Allegheny, but our plays were unequal to the occasion and were forced to go down before Geneva.

Geneva lined up almost the same as last year, in weight about equal to Allegheny. Their hard training had placed them in mid-season condition and to this more than anything they owe the victory. Allegheny on the other hand seemed to be lacking in confidence and training and when the game went against them they weakened and Geneva had an easy time in the last few minutes of the game.

Geneva kicked off to Allegheny and Drum secured the ball, gaining ten yards before he was downed. This gave the ball to Allegheny on her thirty-five yard line. The first minutes of play filled the players with confidence for they had but little trouble in gaining through Geneva's line. On the first play the "guards back" was sent through the line for three yards and Elder made it first down by gaining three more through tackle. The "guards back" was again called on for a small gain and Frazier duplicated Elder's play by making a tackle break for three more yards. Allegheny had gained these fifteen yards with so little difficulty that no objection was made to the umpire's decision in calling Allegheny off side. The penalty was given and Allegheny went back five yards.

Frazier regained the five yards on an end run, but on the next play, a line buck, offside play was again called. Elder and Pentz tried the ends and the attempt resulted in seven yards for Allegheny. But a foul for holding was called and the ball went to Geneva.

Geneva, on her first attempt, found Allegheny's weak spot and from that on until the end of the game the right side of the line was pounded unmercifully. Almost twenty yards were gained by Geneva through a series of line plunges and offside play before the line finally held Geneva for downs. On a line buck by Thompson the Geneva line was thrown back for a loss of twelve yards and Allegheny secured the ball on downs. Frazier, Pentz and Elder regained the ground on end runs and a tackle buck, and just as Allegheny looked like winners, a foul was called on Allegheny and the ball went to Geneva.

The decision was so manifestly unfair that Capt. Frazier refused to continue the game with the official who had made the decision. Heckel was then substituted and the game continued. There were but two minutes to play and Geneva attempted a trick play on the next scrimmage. A fake line buck was made and the ball was passed to the quarter who circled Allegheny's left end for a run of forty yards and a touchdown. Time was called before the teams lined up for the next scrimmage.

Allegheny felt confident when she lined up for the second half and even Geneva's supporters felt anxious about the outcome of the game. Allegheny had gained at will in the first half, and but for penalties placed on them by the officials, they would undoubtedly have scored. On the other hand, Geneva had been held for downs and her one touchdown had been scored on a trick play. This confidence of the Alleghenians was further strengthened when Gleason, who was substituted for Williams, fell on the ball after Geneva had fumbled on the kickoff. Frazier at once bucked tackle for five yards, Wolstoncroft bucked center for five and Pentz circled the end for seven. On the next play, Drum mixed the signals and a loss resulted. The ball was now on Geneva's five yard line and a touchdown for Allegheny seemed certain. Frazier gained three yards on a tackle buck, but on an attempted end run he was tackled for a loss and Geneva had the ball on downs. It was the only time during the game that Allegheny had been held for downs, and coming at such a critical stage of the game it naturally disheartened the players. Geneva now began a series of tackle backs and short end runs, almost entirely through the right side of the Allegheny line. On the left side Frazier, Douglass and Taylor repeatedly threw them back for losses, but as the right side of the line contained all new men, Geneva had but little trouble in breaking through. Gleason and Pentz both did fine work. Gleason tackled on almost every buck, but it was reckless as he was out-weighted and could not get the man down until he had gained his distance.

Geneva finally scored a touchdown after running the ball almost the entire length of the field and then when the goal was kicked the score stood 11-0 in favor of Geneva. But a few scrimmages were made after the kick off and the game game ended with ball in the center of the field.

Neither Coach Heckel nor Capt. Frazier are discouraged with the showing and both attribute the loss of the game to the fact that it was the first game of the season for Allegheny while Geneva had played four. Had the men had more confidence a touch down could have been made in the first half and Geneva's first score could have stopped. The game also showed that the new men are all capable players and will be able take the place of last years' men. Pentz at end made several fine runs besides tackling well. Drum although weak in offensive, played a brilliant game in defensive play and was in every scrimmage; he has all the activity necessary for a good quarter back.

Of the old players, Frazier played his old time game; Douglass made some hard tackles and allowed no holes to be made on his side of the line; Wolstoncroft bucked well but had little to do in defensive work. The men all feel confident that the next game with Geneva will be an easy victory.

Following is the line-up of the two teams.

THE GLEE CLUB.

A Constitution Has Been Drawn Up.

After the successful year just experienced and with prospects bright for the season, the College Glee Club is again taking up its work. Eight men of last year's club are ready for practice. With these, a number of new men are rehearsing daily and it is thought that Allegheny will be better represented this year than ever before. Prof. Munroe is again in the position of director and Mr. Culbertson was elected leader. Owing to the work connected with managing this organization, it has been thought best to have a manager who is not singing, and so Mr. Charles Hatch was elected to this place.

The Club will get into shape as soon as possible so that one or two concerts can be given this term. A trip is anticipated during the winter.

In order to hold the members together easier and to run affairs on the permanent basis the Club has drawn up the following

CONSTITUTION.

ARTICLE I. NAME

This organization shall be known as the Allegheny College Glee Club.

ARTICLE II. OFFICERS.

All officers shall be elected by ballot and by a majority vote of all the members.

The regular elections shall occur at the first annual meeting held during the first complete school week of June and bulletined in Bentley Hall by the secretary at least one week in advance.

The Leader shall be an active member of the Club. He shall conduct all concerts, shall arrange for all rehearsals and, in the absence of the Director, shall conduct all rehearsals.

The Secretary shall be an active member of the Club. He shall keep an accurate account of attendance at rehearsals and shall perform other duties incident to his office.

The Musical Director shall conduct all rehearsals.

The Business Manager shall have charge of all the financial interests of the Club. All arrangements for concerts, however, shall be submitted to the Club for approval by a majority of all the members, at some regular meeting.

The Executive Committee shall consist of the Leader, the Secretary and the Director.

It shall audit the accounts of the Business Manager during the last week of each term; it shall reorganize the Club at the beginning of each college year by selecting the most available voices; it shall fill vacancies as they occur, and shall have the power to remove members for cause.

ARTICLE III. MEMBERS.

The maximum number of members shall be sixteen.

All members of the Glee Club shall be regularly matriculated students of the College or of the Preparatory School.

Singers shall not be accepted into full membership until they shall have attended regular rehearsals for ten weeks and shall have sung in at least one concert.

Unless excused by the Executive Committee, members shall be present at all regularly appointed rehearsals and shall perform at all regularly appointed concerts.

Any member having three unexcused absences from regularly appointed rehearsals shall be reported by the Secretary to the College Committee on gymnasium excuses. A member reported twice thereby severs his connection with the Club.

This Constitution shall be signed by members as they are admitted to the Club.

It may be amended only at a regular meeting bulletined in Bentley hall by the Secretary, at least one week in advance, and by a two-thirds vote of all the members.

Compounded October 6th-9th.

Adopted October 11th.

Chapel Talk.

Dr. Geo. D. Pennypacker, of Williamsport, Pa., addressed the students at chapel on Wednesday last. Dr. Pennypacker is an honorary alumnus of the college, having received his degree of Doctor of Divinity from Allegheny in 1891. On the following day he received a like degree from Syracuse University.

The doctor talked on character and its development while at college.

"It is a small thing to go to college, and equally as small to get through it and pass our examinations. Some students forget the object of their college studies and do not seek to develop a higher character but only to master their studies. We should seek to develop the inner man, to form character and live for principle. What determines the value of a man is the character of the man within the man."

"The greatest essentials for a successful career are perseverance, 'stick-to-itiveness,' and 'hang on.' Every man that starts out to succeed will succeed if he perseveres. No man becomes great by accident but by 'hang on.' We cannot be great men by a day's toil, but by years of hard work. The only thing that grows up in a night is a mushroom, save sometimes a mush-head. When we get hold of anything we should never let go, except it be something that is not desirable to hold. To succeed then, we must work, persevere and be devoted to our work."

Another Pleasant Party.

Last Thursday evening Miss Florence Bates entertained a few of her college and town friends at an informal party at her home on Highland avenue. During the evening, social games were indulged in to the enjoyment and edification of all. Light refreshments were served and the remainder of the evening was spent in getting the new college people into the ways of Meadville life. The company broke up early after a very pleasant evening.

The athletes of the University of Pennsylvania were very much in evidence in European contests during the past summer. Kraenzlein won first place in the high hurdles and in the broad jump and Baxter in the high jump in England. Both men made most enviable records in the contests at the Paris exhibition.

THE CURRENT EVENTS CLUB.

It Has Been Organized—First Meeting a Success.

While the general stir of college affairs is on, and the daily routine of class-work is keeping the students from knowing generally what is happening in foreign lands, and even in our own country, several of the students, aided by Prof. Smith have, at last succeeded in starting a new movement. The result of the effort on the part of these men was a meeting of about thirty-five young men in Association Hall at 4:45 Friday afternoon. Mr. Fuller called the meeting to order and in a few words stated that the object was, to organize a Current Events Club. Prof. Smith then said that a small fee of only twenty-five cents a term would be charged for membership. This fee, small as it is, will make the membership definite, and will be the expression of interest taken in the movement. The money thus received will be used, not in any way to pay for the speakers, but for the purchase of books of live history, such as the recently published histories of China. These books will be kept in a separate space in the library or in a separate room for the use of the members. In this way every one will get value received.

The following officers were elected: President, Donald Fuller. Secretary, Main. Treasurer, Croxall.

There is a fund which will be used to aid the leaders. It was decided that the regular weekly meeting shall take place at 4:30 p. m., on Tuesday. The young ladies of the college were made eligible to membership by an unanimous vote.

The first meeting was held as a sample of what the club expects to repeat weekly. Mr. Tabor was the leader, and in a very precise and deliberate manner, reviewed the events of importance which had recently taken place throughout the world. Events in foreign countries were taken up separately in each country and then the general effects were noted. The various things which happened here at home were given their proper place and attention, the subject of the campaign receiving considerable discussion. Mr. Tabor's review of the important events was very interesting.

The object of the Club is to have the important happenings of the whole world for the week preceding the meeting, reviewed and discussed by one leader. After this, an opportunity will be given for questions and general discussion of any fact which may be of especial interest. This will give all the members a chance to keep in close touch with the current events of the world, of which many are so sadly ignorant.

This organization ought to, and it is hoped, will be a permanent fixture in the college. It is the first of its kind, and its success will depend upon the interest of the students.

Fifteen fellowships for the present year were awarded at Princeton.

The University of Iowa has recently established a chair for public speaking.

An instructorship in Scandinavian languages and literature has been established at Iowa.

The average annual expenditure of the class of '00 of Princeton for the four years was $719.56. Thirty-one men worked their way through college entirely and thirty more in part. The average at graduation was 22 1/2.

The number of degrees, by courses granted at Harvard at the last commencement were as follows: A. B., 408; S. B., 59; A. M., 128; S. M., 2; Ph. D., 35; S. D., 1; D. V. M., 7; D. D. S., 33; M. D., 135; LL. B., 127; S. T. B., 5.

Some idea of the way the Princeton faculty maintains the standard and enforces discipline may be gained from the fact that the class of '00 numbered 272 at the beginning of the freshman year and received 30 new men in subsequent years, and yet was only 203 strong at graduation. This a great improvement over old times when very few men ever dropped. The value of a Princeton diploma has increased proportionately.

An article in the Washington Jeffersonian takes a strange yet good view concerning the cigarette habit. Strange, in that the writer is a student; good in that it hit the mark. It says, in part, "What right have we to abuse the cigarette? To justify ourselves in condemning and abusing it, we must satisfy ourselves that it has done wrong and that it is responsible for what it has done. Even if we did prove the first, the second must be proved also." It argues that the cigarette has done no injury to the user. He uses it to decrease his mental and physical powers and it accomplishes its work. It is just the same in the use of medicine. You take medicine to cure a disease, and if you break out with a rash you don't blame the medicine. So with the cigarette, it does what it was made for. Now let the user take the blame. Don't try to put it off on the little cigarette.

In the gradual progress which the colleges and universities of this country are making along all lines, we must take notice of the magazines and newspapers. The time is not so far distant but that we can remember when monthly or bi-monthly publications were the only sources of bringing college happenings and doings to the special notice of the students. Such papers still exist in their proper spheres, but they have mostly merged into literary magazines, whose interest is centered not so much in the immediate recounting of events as in the quality of their productions. At the present time the weekly paper is, generally, the center of interest in most colleges and such an institution is of great importance. This occupies a proper and prominent place in the educational institutions of high standing.

Another step has recently been taken. A few years ago, such a thing as a college daily paper was unknown; but now all the larger universities are successfully issuing them and, strange to say, all these dailies are of the same size and general make-up typographically.

This year sees an innovation in college journalism which will cause universal comment and criticism. The thing to which we refer is the publishing of a Sunday edition. The University of Michigan has for some time had a daily paper and about a week ago they decided upon the Sunday edition. The reason for their new departure is summed up in this announcement in their editorial columns:

"The board has decided to issue the daily on Sunday morning hereafter and discontinue the Monday paper. We recognize the fact that this is quite an innovation in college journalism, but the change is made necessary for several reasons. In the first place a Monday daily must of necessity print news two days old, as nothing of note occurs around the campus on Sunday. The important athletic news of Saturday is published after these contests have been fully discussed and read in the Chicago and Detroit papers, and are past and gone. But laying aside this matter of business which, by the way, is considered the minor reason for the change, we come to the real causes for the shift, and these are that we find it almost an impossibility to gather any news on Sunday, and, added to that, the members of the board are required to work away on Sunday evening getting out a Monday paper filled with Saturday's news. It is for this last reason most of all that the change is made. We feel that the readers will appreciate getting their news fresh Sunday morning, and we know that the board can appreciate being excused from laboring on the Sabbath."

This is the first college daily to issue a Sunday edition and there are no precedents about what happens to college editors who attempt such a thing. The students now get their news Sunday morning. Papers are delivered and they seem to like it. Much comment and criticism has been put forth by the churches and the Students' Christian Association but as yet no action has been taken by the authorities of the University.

President Angel says, "I don't care to say anything about it. It has not caused any excitement among the authorities. I do not anticipate any intervention. The University of Michigan Daily certainly has the advantage over other Sunday issues. It doesn't take all day Sunday to read it and nobody would be kept away from church to finish it."

Business manager Engelhard and managing editor Hans unite in saying, "The prime consideration was, of course, to relieve the editors and employes from Sunday work. If we issue on Monday it would be necessary for the editors to spend their Sunday afternoons and evenings at the office and out hustling up news. But, not considering the advantage, it was, from a newspaper and financial standpoint, the only move to make. Nearly all of our important university news takes place on Saturday and it would be just as up-to-date to try to introduce horse cars into a big city as to drag the chronicles of university events before our readers on Monday morning, when it happened on Saturday. It has already proved a financial success. It gives advertisers and readers better satisfaction. There is every reason to continue the Sunday issue."

It is easily seen that the Sunday edition of the college daily is on a different footing from the ordinary Sunday paper as the reasons given above show. Much Sunday labor is certainly avoided by this plan and the idea of the appearance of the paper on the Sabbath may be overlooked as being the lesser of the two evils.

We do not say that this is the right thing to do, for the evils of Sabbath breaking have been so instilled into us that we can scarcely advocate such movements generally, but the peculiar position of this particular case gives many reasons for its existence and continuance.

The movement will be watched with great interest by all the colleges of the country.

Another vote was taken by ballot after which the members retired in confusion. When the ballots had been counted by the committee, H. L. Pentz was declared elected by the count of 92 to 75.
