Mr. F. K. Mathews,
Director Library Dep't,
Boy Scouts of America,
200 Fifth Avenue, N.Y.

Dear Mr. Mathews:

Enclosed is the revised second Lincoln chapter. I think the beginning and ending are a little more lively.

As to Mr. McDonald's comment. He is right in saying that the log cabin on exhibition at the World's Fair was built in Cole County near Charleston. That is where Tom Lincoln finally moved, but when they first settled in Illinois, it was ten miles west of Decatur on a bluff overlooking the Sangamon, a place that Mr. McDonald probably has seen. The Cole County home was the third for Tom Lincoln in Illinois.

Very sincerely yours,
