Dear Mr. Case:

I am afraid I was inconsiderate in suggesting, as I did, a talk with you about the re-organization of the Federation Bank and Trust Company. It is obviously no time to trouble you and I only hope that you are going to stand the pressure that I am afraid will be put upon you throughout the coming months.

Someday when things are less unsteady and you less busy I would like to go over the period with you, at least I think now that I would!

I am sending down an autographed copy of O.D.Y. to you today. Macmillan has been reluctant to let me have my quota before the day of publication.

Faithfully yours
