NEW YORK, NEW YORK

Sept. 21, 1932

Dear Miss Tarbell:

Ever since your book on Mr. Young came out I have intended to write you, but have been so busy that I never really got at it. Nor have I had a chance to read it as carefully as I wanted to, but what I did read, I found most interesting, and I looked back with such pleasure on my talks with you when you were preparing the material.

I am wondering if with an improvement in the tone of things you ever hear of work which I might be qualified to do? I have filled in this year with temporary pieces of work, but am anxious to get into something permanent as soon as possible, so I am making a drive again this fall. If you do hear of anything I should greatly appreciate your letting me know.

After October first I shall not be at this address, but may be reached through the Post Box Bookshop, 29 East 48th St., in case you should wish to send me word of something.

With all good wishes to you,

Cordially,

Wm B Russell
