Dear Miss Tarbell:

That's a bully suggestion of yours about publishing "In the Footsteps of the Lincolns" on Lincoln's Birthday, February 12th. In fact, we have already begun to make our preparations for it.

It seems to us that the book should have an Index. My recollection is that we talked it over early in our negotiations. I believe you have the page proofs, and I don't believe the Index would be a difficult or long job. Of course, no one could do it as well as you can because of your great familiarity with the material.

Cordially yours,

William H. Briggs
