Dear Miss Ludwig:

I have been shamefully slow in thanking you for all your kindness to me while at Tarbell House. Please believe I do appreciate all you did for me.

I have been slow, too, in my promise to send Mary Lincoln to the girls. But she is off today if all goes well and I hope she will arrive without cracking her china head or spoiling her ancient furbelows. I shall be interested to know how well Mary looks in the top of the bookcase. To look well she should have a little space above her head, but maybe that will not leave you enough space for the books. At all events she is in your good hands.

Love to the girls

Cordially yours

Laura Baskell
